U. S. GIVES UP NO. ATLANTIC RULE TO ALLIES

Will Continue Ship and Plane Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 30.—Canada and Great Britain have taken complete charge of trade convoys from northwestern Atlantic ports to the United Kingdom, it was announced today by Canadian Naval and Air Ministers Angus MacDonald and Charles G. Power.

Angus L. MacDonald

The United States, they said, retains strategic responsibility for the western Atlantic, however, including escort operations not related to British trade convoys and local Canadian traffic. And while the battle of the North Atlantic becomes a responsibility of Canadian and British forces, United States escort vessels are to continue to assist the Canadian and British forces and United States army air forces will continue to supply certain material and crews, the Canadian ministers said.

Under Canadian Command.

United States naval and military aircraft stationed at Newfoundland and employed in anti-submarine warfare duties will be under the direct control of the eastern air command, royal Canadian air force, which will operate them in the same way as their own Canadian craft under the general direction and coördination of the commander-in-chief of the Canadian northwest Atlantic.

A Canadian, Rear Adm. L. W. Murray, royal Canadian navy, and since September, 1942, commanding officer, Atlantic coast, has been appointed to the new post of commander-in-chief, Canadian northwest Atlantic. The appointment was made after discussions by representatives of the United States, Great Britain, and Canada, the ministers said. Establishment of the new command was said to be a development of a conference held recently in Washington.

Protection Over Every Mile.

All anti-submarine aviation activities in the northwest Atlantic will be under the operational control of Air Vice Marshal George Johnson, air officer commander-in-chief of the eastern air command. New long range Canadian and American bombers will patrol to "somewhere in the mid-Atlantic" whence British bombers will take over. Thus a trans-Atlantic umbrella will be established and air protection afforded merchant and other ships over every mile of the route from North America to Europe.

This air umbrella will constitute one of the answers to Germany's submarine threat. The most dangerous period for submarine attacks, said the Canadian minister, is an hour or so before dusk. Submarines, some of which are so large and heavily armed that they are like destroyers, sometimes shadow a convoy for hours to attack in the dusk danger period. As dusk approaches they keep closing in so as not to lose touch. With aircraft overhead, however, the effectiveness of submarines is curtailed.

The Washington conference at which decisions were concluded was under the chairmanship of Adm. Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States navy.

Saves $4,800 by Driving Too Fast for 4 Bandits

Paul Bartell, owner of a tavern at 5356 Archer avenue, reported to police yesterday that while driving from the Lawndale National bank, where he had withdrawn $4,800, he outdistanced a car containing four bandits who pursued him for 10 blocks south in Pulaski road from 25th street. Bartell said the bandits fired several shots in an attempt to stop him. He said he had withdrawn the money to cash checks at his tavern.

BIG AIR BLOWS SIGNAL SECOND FRONT: STALIN

LONDON, May 1 [Saturday]—(AP).—Premier Josef Stalin in a May day order of the day declared that shattering air blows by the Americans and British in the west foreshadow the opening of a second front in Europe, and he ridiculed any Hitler peace talk.

"It is now clear that only the utter routing of the Hitlerite armies and the unconditional surrender of Hitlerite Germany can bring peace to Europe," Stalin said.

He praised the allied air blows against Germany and Italy in the west and the allied ground gains in Africa. He said those factors, combined with the Red army's winter successes, have placed Germany in a critical position.

Sees Crisis in Enemy Camps.

"For the first time since the beginning of the war," he said, "a blow at the enemy from the east dealt by the Red army has merged with a blow from the west dealt by troops of our allies into one joint blow.

"The time is approaching when the Red army together with the armies of our allies will break the backbone of the Fascist beast."

"It is clear that it is not because things are going well with us that the Germans are babbling about peace," he added. "The babble about peace in Fascist camps indicates only that they are going thru a great crisis.

"But of what kind of peace can one talk with the imperialist bandits from the German Fascist camp who have drowned Europe in blood and studded it with gallows?

Scoffs at Separation of Allies.

"To judge from the report of the foreign press, the conclusion can be arrived at that the Germans would wish to obtain peace with Britain and the United States on the condition that these two draw away from the soviet union, or, on the other hand, they would wish to obtain peace with the soviet union on the condition that it [the soviet union] draws away from Britain and the United States.

"Treacherous to the marrow themselves, the German imperialists have the nerve to apply their own yardstick to the allies, expecting that one or the other of them will swallow the bait."

Then he called for Germany's unconditional surrender.

Nazi War Machine Shaken.

Stalin told his army and people that combined allied operations which foreshadow "the formation of a second front in Europe" already have "shaken the Hitlerite war machine to its foundation," and have changed the course of the world war to create the "military prerequisite for victory."

The Germans and Italians, he said, are "facing catastrophe," but he warned that the final road to victory will not be easy. "They have not been smashed as yet," he said.

Stalin added that two or three more powerful blows were needed from the west and east, such as had been dealt during the last five or six months, to complete the "catastrophe" for Germany.

YANKS BRAVE HAIL OF LEAD TO DRIVE UP HILL

French and British Press On.

American and French troops battling against determined axis resistance along the northern flank of the Tunisian front made small gains yesterday among the hills near Mateur and Lake Achkel. From their new vantage points, Mateur now is within artillery range and Bizerte, 20 miles from Lake Achkel, is clearly visible.

Farther south, the British 1st army, with the aid of strong air support, was battling to smash back strong German attacks at Djebel Bou Aoukaz, 20 miles west of Tunis. This fighting was described as "confused and bloodier than usual."

On the southern flank, the British 8th army gained its objective in a local attack but fell back before a German counterattack.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, April 30.—Among the wild mountains and ravines of northern Tunisia the Yanks threw themselves again and again yesterday at the enemy's strongest positions.

They advanced probably half way up the western and southern slopes of the peak known as Hill 609, or Djebel Tahent, four miles east of Sidi N'Sir. This height and Djebel Meftah, southeast of it, which we hold, are both approximately 13 air miles from Mateur. From these heights they now have Mateur within artillery range.

Farther north where the French are pushing hard, advanced positions are three miles west of Lake Achkel and observers report that Bizerte, 20 miles away, is clearly visible from high ground.

French Capture Hill.

Another French force was reported now on Djebel Kef Touro, five miles northwest of Lake Achkel, after a 2½ mile advance within 22 miles of Bizerte. The Djebel Derhafla southeast of Pont Du Fahs was taken by other French troops.

Near Jefna village the Americans also have made some progress, tho slight, among the arc of hills surrounding the two towering peaks, Green and Bald mountains. North of Sidi N'Sir substantial advances were made thru a maze of hills, forcing the Germans to withdraw into the fastnesses of Djebel Anntra.

But it was about Hill 609 that the most fierce fighting was occurring in this sector. The Germans did their utmost to save Djebel Tahent, first with artillery and mortar fire from a high mesa to the east and then by infantry charges. But American artillery poured tons of shells among the German foxholes and behind this barrage our armored infantry slugged part of the way up the 2,000 foot height.

Yanks Repulse Charges.

Three times heavy German mortars counterattacked. Three times their infantry was reënforced by another battalion of the Herman Goering Grenadiers—it is unusual for the Germans to split this regiment. But three times our men held their ground.

About a mile south, but all part of the same fighting, the Germans in the late afternoon launched their heaviest counter-attack against the Americans lying without cover atop two small bald hills. Our troops were forced to pull back.

Boys in Teens Aid War with Midget Plant

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 30 [Special].—Two teen-aged brothers are operating a tiny war plant in the basement of their home here and are turning out delicately tooled airplane parts which army air force officials say are as good as those produced in million dollar factories.

The boys, Jerry Morrill, 15 years old and Giles Morrill, 12, run their plants after school and on weekends. In more than a year they have missed only one day of school—last fall when they had a rush order.

They got their first sub contract in February, 1942, after being investigated by a war department representative and the head of the prime contracting concern.

Father Finances Them.

Their father, Wayne J. Morrill, an electrical contractor, financed them and helped them set up their machines, which include a metal lathe, a drill, a punch and arbor press, and an electrical metal cutting saw. Mr. Morrill let them use some of his equipment, and they bought what else they needed.

"We were out of the red after our third delivery," Jerry said.

The precision required in their product, the identity of which could not be made public, is indicated by the fact that its eight parts must be tooled to an exactitude of two to four thousandths of an inch. Their records show that the army has rejected none of their work.

This skill was not acquired overnight. The boys have been working with tools under their father's guidance since they were small.

Feel Man Power Pinch.

Their contract, which rates an AA-1 priority, was obtained on their bid of about half the amount charged by a former contractor. However, he said he was glad to give up what he termed a "nuisance job" because of the smallness of the parts involved.

The Morrill shop occasionally feels the man power pinch. But the boys' mother, who is their purchasing agent, works occasionally on the assembly line, and their sister, Caralyn, 5, is entrusted with wiping parts before assembly.

BUTLER TO FIRE DAUGHTER OF SPIKE O'DONNELL

The girl whom city hall elevator operators recently called the most beautiful in the building is about to lose her job with the bureau of streets, but Joseph J. Butler, superintendent of the department, denied it is because she is Miss Dorothy O'Donnell, daughter of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, who punched Butler in the nose last Jan. 14.

Dorothy O'Donnell.

"She isn't going to be fired because Spike is her father," Butler explained. "It simply is that Dorothy and several other temporary employés in my office must be discharged soon because of restrictions in the 1943 budget."

The O'Donnell-Butler fracas was disclosed after O'Donnell was shot in the back March 15. Both the fight and the shooting were linked by O'Donnell to a paving deal in 1938. O'Donnell said $70,000 still was due him for his part in this deal.

Dorothy, 24 years old, is a former professional singer. She started work in the bureau of streets last Oct. 23 after the Democratic organization's regular patronage committee certified her for the job, and she is using part of her earnings to pay for night school courses in typing and shorthand.

"Why should it make any difference whose daughter I am as long as I do my work efficiently?" Miss O'Donnell wondered yesterday.

BROWN PLEDGES LOWER PRICES IN LABOR APPEAL

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown promised tonight to lower excessive prices in an extension of price control "across the board," and told the nation's coal miners they "can not better their position in a race between wages and the cost of living." Brown spoke over the Mutual radio network as the coal strike began.

Brown devoted much of his address to the cost of living issue which John L. Lewis has underscored repeatedly in his demands for a $2 a day wage increase for the miners. Brown declared it is not true that living costs have outstripped wage increases, but to some observers his speech was an 11th hour appeal to the miners—an attempt by the administration to assure them that more is going to be done to force down the costs of foodstuffs where they are unwarrantedly high.

Brown Mentions Meat.

He said he had issued instructions to his staff to act without delay to "roll back those prices which have got out of hand. The prices of meats, fresh and canned vegetables, and coffee, among others, will be rolled back."

"This office is holding as nearly as humanly possible to the principle of the stabilization act of last fall," Brown asserted. "Our answer to those who assert that we are not holding the cost of living line is that wages in industry, factory, and mine have risen amply and sufficiently to cover the inevitable rises in the level of living costs.

"There is no justification for breaking the stabilization program."

Crisis on Wage Front.

"Today we are faced by a crisis on the wage front," Brown said. "Demands are now being made for substantial wage increases. I am compelled to speak in opposition, just as a month ago I spoke up in opposition to the proposed rise in farm prices. I am compelled to point out that if this wage increase is granted, increases can not be denied to workers in other industries and increased prices can not be denied to farmers.

"These increases in wages and in farm prices can only mean further rise in the cost of living. What will it profit workers to have more dollars in their pay envelopes if it takes all these extra dollars, and perhaps more, to feed and clothe their families?"

CHARITY WEEK RACE PROFITS TO REACH $75,000

The week of horse racing sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which closed yesterday at Sportsman's Park, will net welfare organizations, including the United, Catholic, and Jewish Charities approximately $75,000. This was revealed after a preliminary audit last night.

A crowd of more than 8,000 attended yesterday's races, bringing the total attendance for the six days of the special program to approximately 60,000.

Total mutuel handle for the six days was $1,867,316. This exceeded by $51,148 the amount wagered in the first six days of Sportsman's 1942 spring meeting. Yesterday the fans wagered $254,281.

Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsored a similar program from Nov. 2 thru Nov. 7, 1942, concluding the season in Illinois. Out of those six days, the sum of $133,708 was realized for charity.

BULLETIN.

New York, May 1 (Saturday)—(AP).—Stoppage of work in 85 per cent of the bituminous coal fields of the country and in all of the anthracite fields, which are situated only in Pennsylvania, was general early today following the expiration of work contracts at last midnight.

(Map on page 7.)

New York, April 30 (AP).—Mining of coal in the United States—both in the bituminous and the anthracite fields—virtually stopped at midnight tonight, with the expiration of work contracts between operators and the United Mine Workers of America.

It was a stoppage which, if eventually 100 per cent effective, would strike at the very vitals of the production of essential war materials.

It came after nearly two months' negotiations had failed to produce an agreement in the bituminous field for a $2 daily increase in pay and portal to portal system of payment, and after a month of unsuccessful conferences over a new anthracite agreement bearing much the same demands by the miners.

Curtail Deliveries.

In the face of the impending strike the war production board at Washington clamped emergency controls on soft coal deliveries by rail to prevent shutdowns in war industry caused by work stoppages.

[Details of action by WPB to restrict coal deliveries are on page 7; survey of scant reserve supplies is on page 8.]

It was estimated by miners and operators alike here that not more than 20,000 workmen in both coal fields were immediately affected, because of the comparatively few night shifts.

But those who did throw down their tools and walk out joined some 100,000 other bituminous, or soft coal, workers who began leaving their underground jobs several days ago. There had been no reports of anthracite miners quitting before the expiration of the contract.

Expiration of the work agreement left approximately 85 per cent of the nation's bituminous coal mines without a union contract, with 15 per cent west of the Mississippi river still operative under a separate work paper.

Includes Anthracite Miners.

All of the anthracite mines situated in Pennsylvania were included in the contract with the operators of those fields, which expired at midnight.

There was no official strike call issued by John L. Lewis, international president of the mine workers' union. The stoppages merely carried out his oft-repeated statement that the workers would not "trespass" on coal property without a contract.

Revised figures from Washington fixed the number of bituminous miners at 409,000, and the number of anthracite miners at 74,000.

Lewis had until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to get the bituminous coal miners back to work before he had officially violated President Roosevelt's order that the men be on their jobs at that time or the latter would "use all the power vested in me as President and as commander-in-chief of the army and navy to protect the national interest."

Meeting Set Today.

The anthracite situation went before the war labor board tonight. The board directed that work proceed despite the expiration of the contract and that negotiations continue. The representatives of each side already had agreed to a negotiations meeting tomorrow but each said it expected no miner to be at work.

The situation in the bituminous fields reached the crisis after Lewis challenged the war labor board and the President, declaring that contracts only should be reached in negotiations with the operators themselves. The operators some time ago in both northern and southern regions, however, favored settlement thru governmental agency.

Hero of '18 Is Red Cross Worker in Tunisia.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, April 30.—A jeep in which were two Red Cross officials toiled up the rubble strewn road east of Sidi N'sir. The Red Cross officials were looking for Thomas F. Furness who has been doing Red Cross field work with a crack Yank division since he joined the troops last spring at home.

Thomas F. Furness.

Advice Often Sought.

Furness has been living with the fighting troops distributing comforts and helping in their personal problems since landing on the beach last November 8. But this non-combatant's advice is also often sought by the fighting men, too, for Furness was one of the first World war's heroes.

He received the distinguished service cross, the French legion of honor, the croix de guerre with two palms as a lieutenant serving under Maj. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. His job then was artillery liaison officer.

In a battered Chevrolet Furness has become a familiar sight to the soldiers of this division with which he fought in France in 1918.

The two officials who found Furness in the staff conference were Thomas Irving, of Lake Bluff, Ill., acting delegate in North Africa in the absence of William Stevenson, and William Giblin, of Boston, Mass.

Furness is 48 years old. He was a member of the class of 1915 at Williams college where he played football and was on the track team.

HOME IN LAKE FOREST.

Thomas F. Furness, 1078 Edgewood road, Lake Forest, Ill., was a member of the Chicago Stock Exchange and had been with Alfred L. Baker & Co., stock brokers, 111 South La Salle street, Chicago, since 1923 until he joined the Red Cross. In 1916 he served on the Mexican border with Battery A of the Massachusetts National Guard. In the first World War he served the 1st division and was wounded at Cantigny.

Tribune Man Watches Yanks Shell Nazis from Tunisia Hill

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN 2D CORPS IN TUNISIA, April 29 [Delayed]. — Red haired Johnny Dunphy, a first lieutenant from Duluth, Minn., grinned down from the hilltop and glanced at his wrist watch.

"You're pretty far forward," he said. "We're going to give them a dose in five minutes. Come on up, boys, and take a look-see."

The boys were Antoine Mazela, a French newspaper man, and myself. We had arrived at this point on Djebel Smala, the southern side of a stormily contested horseshoe ridge, after a long, bouncing ride in a peep thru mountain paths under intermittent shellfire and the western open end of the horseshoe where white tape unreeled by engineers marked a path around minefields.

We climbed the last steep yards to the crest and Dunphy's observation post.

Prisoners March to Camp.

Looking backward for a moment we saw a long file of German prisoners on the way to our enclosure. Forward and to the north spread a sunlit level space into which the Germans had hoped the Americans would rush before the Germans had been cleared from the eastern hills. But the Americans didn't bite at the bait offered by the smiling valley and the task of shoving the foe out of the eastern stronghold still went on.

Beyond the valley rose Djebel Meftah, the horseshoe's northern prong which was held by the Americans.

Crouch Behind Rocks.

We crouched behind rocks on Djebel Smala, and Dunphy pointed out a spot some distance away where the Luftwaffe unwittingly gave our troops air support yesterday. Three times the German planes dropped bombs there on their own troops, killing 60 and wounding 30.

Then he told us about the business in hand. On one of the eastern ridges beyond a burning farmhouse and a cactus patch there was a wadi [gulley] in which German activity had been observed. Apparently it was a Nazi supply route. That was the immediate objective of our artillery fire. Dunphy looked at his wrist watch again.

"Gun batteries ready?" he asked his field telephone men, Sergt. Norman Schlea of Toledo, O., and Pvt. Joseph Spudich of New Douglas, Ill.

The guns—75 millimeter weapons—were ready in their concealed positions, Schlea and Spudich reported. "Time!" the lieutenant shouted. "Fire!"

"S-s-s-sing," approximates the whining sound I heard as I looked up.

"You won't see them," Dunphy told me, "but train your field glasses in the direction of the objective."

I did and in some seconds I saw white smoke spreading near the cactus patch. Dunphy explained that the first bursts were phosphorous shells to locate the range definitely and the line of fire.

German Guns Reply.

A few minutes later came another s-s-s-sing and up there beyond our sight long arching strings of destruction were racing. Thru my glasses I viewed the pay-off—a thud and black and gray clouds rising from the wadi. Dunphy called for time bursts now. Once more there were s-s-s-sings. A longer interval of observation and then clouds almost ebony black and we saw the yellow lick of fire above the wadi.

"We won't know until later just what the results are," Dunphy said, "but I'll bet we hit."

That the Germans did not like it was quickly evident. They started thru the use of smoke shells to frame a pattern on our observation post. Then they fired some of the real business.

"Get going, boys," Dunphy told Mazela and myself. "It might be unhealthy here. We'll be moving in a few minutes ourselves."

FOURTH ARTICLE.

AMERICAN 2D CORPS HDQ. IN TUNISIA, April 11 [Delayed]—[Passed by censor].—Dunkirk was a hard and bitter lesson and the ensuing months and years in the western desert were another demanding schoolroom.

But from these experiences, in the opinion of their American allies, the British have emerged as good artillerymen with good guns.

Comparable in its use to our close support 105 millimeter howitzer is their 25 pounder, which is 87.6 millimeters. It is a very fast gun and when supercharged will outrange the German 88.

Better Antitank Gun.

Firing a 25 pound shell from which it gets its name, this gun has a normal range of 32,000 yards [close to 19 miles]. As an antitank gun it is considered better than our 105 millimeter gun, which because of its slower laying and lower muzzle velocity is not at its best against tanks, altho it has knocked out many of them. But in the desert warfare against the tanks the 25 pounder has proven invaluable.

Our allies also have a six pounder which an American officer described as "a real tank killer." This weapon of approximately 57 millimeter caliber, which is also mounted on some British tanks, has a very low silhouette and is easy to handle. Its six pound shell leaves the gun at a high muzzle velocity which accounts for its great destructive qualities.

Two Pounder Too Light.

Like our own 37 millimeter antitank gun, which has proven of limited value, the British have a two pounder of 40 millimeter caliber. But as we have found with the 37, this has been too light to be effective against enemy tanks.

In the field of bigger guns the British cannoneers have developed the 5½ inch howitzer, which is comparable to the German 155 millimeter gun. In Africa this weapon has produced excellent performances, particularly when used as a general support piece to crack well placed defensive lines. It has also done well in counterbattery fire, destroying many German gun positions.

'BREAKS' NEEDED TO WIN TUNISIA IN MONTH: LANZA

Believes Axis Will Fight as Long as It's Able.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

During April, the allied armies have made substantial gains in reducing the last remaining axis force in Africa. The axis is close to the last possible stand it can make and the end appears to be in sight. At this time, no other important fighting is going on elsewhere in the world, and eyes are naturally focused on Tunisia. What is the situation there?

At the end of March, the British 8th army fought and won the battle of Mareth, forcing the axis army out of southern Tunisia. Later, on April 6, a second attack forced the axis out of its next position which entended east and west near Gabes. The 2d American corps, from near El Guetar tried a flanking movement but the attempt did not succeed, and the axis was able to withdraw its troops to about where they are now.

Line Faces South and West.

This latest line occupies two sides of a rectangle. The long side faces towards the west, and is nearly 90 miles from north to south. The short side faces south, and is about 33 miles from west to east. Since April 20 this position has been under attack by the allies, in what it is hoped will be the last great battle in this area.

The method of attack has been to select some part of the enemy's front which from reconnaissances is judged capable of being breached. This is then subjected to an intense fire by the artillery. The allies have more artillery than the axis, and in this respect have a decided advantage.

The artillery may fire by night. When the positions of the enemy are known, the artillery can place its fire upon them, regardless as to whether they can be seen or not. If the artillery fire succeeds, and the enemy's front line is destroyed or substantially so, an attack follows, either by infantry or by tanks, or by a combination of the two. When this gets thru the hostile front, troubles are just beginning.

Armored Forces Ready.

For the axis holds its front line mainly with machine guns, small mortars, and artillery. Well back of these, out of range of our artillery, armored forces are parked, and waiting. The axis air force by radio phone advises where our attacking troops are, whether they are infantry or tanks, their course and rate of advance, and how many there are. With this information, the axis armored forces rush forward from their parks, and seek to encircle the attackers and either annihilate them, or drive them back.

There then follows a severe battle, with tanks and infantry fighting infantry and tanks. Both sides use all the artillery they can get forward, and both employ planes to fight off the opponent's planes, and to bomb and machine gun his ground troops. This fighting has been savage, and often continues on into the night and all night.

Italians Fighting Fiercely.

The great battle now going on in Tunisia started on April 20, when the British 8th army attacked the south side of the axis rectangle. In 10 days it has advanced about 3 miles, and is up against what seems to be a particularly strong enemy position, protected by an unusually large amount of artillery. Perhaps it may surprise many to know that reports from the British say they are opposed by Italians, who are fighting fiercely and even better than Germans. In the last few days no progress has been made here.

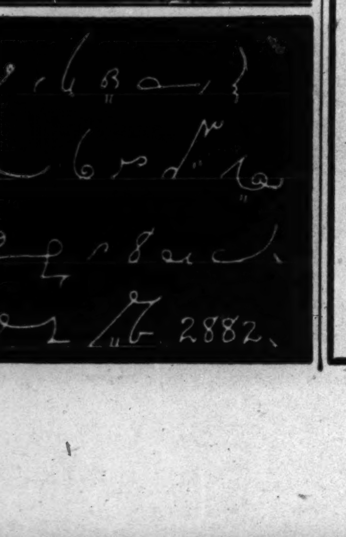
On the west side, starting at the south end, British and French troops have advanced about 13 miles to Pont Du Fahs. Next comes the British 1st army, which beyond Medjez el Bab has gained 4 miles. Then comes our own 2d corps, which has advanced across difficult country for some 6 miles. Lastly, at the north end, are more French troops who have moved forward over 10 miles near the coast.

The amount of advance is not a fair measure of fighting abilities. Resistance was stronger in some places than in others. Occasionally there was little. For the 10 day period, the average gain has been about a mile a day. This doesn't look like a large figure. But the axis is in a corner, with its back to the sea, only 25 to 30 miles behind them. If the allies keep on advancing a mile a day, the month of May will see the end of the axis in Africa.

Axis Likely to Fight On.

It seems certain that the axis will fight in Africa as long as it can. A considerable number of the huge transport planes, and of the ships, bringing reënforcements and supplies to Tunisia from Italy, have been shot down or sunk, by our intercepting air and naval forces. Still some get thru, and it must be presumed that some supplies will continue to trickle thru to the axis in Tunisia.

Whether our troops can continue to gain a mile a day, and will within a month push the axis out of Africa into the sea remains to be seen. If all the breaks are in our favor it will be done. If the breaks are all against us, some estimates are that the job may take until August. If breaks divide, partly for us and partly for the enemy, the final victory should occur in between the dates given.



Bitter Fighting Rages Along Tunisian Battle Line

BRITISH FIGHTERS RIP TRANSPORT LINES IN FRANCE, MINELAYER

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—British fighter planes today damaged an enemy minelayer off the French coast of Brittany and attacked transport targets in northern France.

R. A. F. Beaufighters atttacked a German convoy off the Dutch coast last evening and torpedoed two large supply ships and shot up a minesweeper and several other escort vessels. Both the supply ships and the minesweeper were ablaze when last seen. One Beaufighter was lost.

[A German communique yesterday said that "in the morning hours of April 29-30, German coastal guard vessels sank two British E-boats off the Dutch coast, heavily damaged another one, and set fire to a fourth." It added: "German U-boats sank 10 ships, totaling 53,000 tons, from strongly escorted convoys in the North Atlantic and in the Mediterranean. Another five ships, including one of the 'Winchester Castle' type of 20,000 tons, were torpedoed. One U-boat shot down one heavy enemy bomber."]

Tunisian Fight Called Confused!

Regardless of heavy casualties, the Germans attacked repeatedly last night and won back the 700 foot summit of this hill a few hours after British troops had gained it.

Thirty-five tanks and 1,000 fresh German infantrymen were thrown into the daylight fight trying to sweep the British from the southern and eastern bases of the rock ribbed natural fortress.

Latest reports said the front Tommies still were dug in on the lower slopes.

Bombers Raid Foe.

American and British bombers made several raids on enemy concentrations beside the northern base. Vehicles were reported gathered in this target area, and wave after wave of bombers blasted this lineup from end to end. Three enemy fighters strafing a British road in the salient were shot down by anti-tank guns.

Djebel Bou Aoukaz has been recognized by observers as the central feature of the German defenses guarding the Tunis plain and its temporary seizure by the British yesterday forced the axis to rally available reserves for a crucial counter-blow. "Confused and very fierce fighting" was the description given at headquarters.

German armored forces also were flung into the counter-attack around Peter's corner seven miles southeast of Mejez El Bab. On the road to Massicault, Churchill tanks engaged the enemy armor while British infantry advanced a short distance beyond Sidi Abdallah and took a height known as "Little Argoub." Abdallah is about two miles east of Peter's corner.

Another British night attack on Djebel Bou Kournine, northeast of Lake Kourzia, reached the crest, but for the second successive day a thundering enemy barrage from the flanks of the hill compelled the exposed infantry to retire.

Reports from the southern front said Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army had gained its objective in a local attack at an unspecified point, but suffered a slight reverse before a German counter-attack.

DOWN 14 PLANES

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, April 30 (AP).—While the weather again somewhat restricted allied air activity, a headquarters communique today said that the air arm and light naval forces sank three axis ships and damaged a dozen others in the Mediterranean.

Air observation indicated that the enemy vessels were loaded outbound as well as inbound. It was assumed that axis personnel was being taken out.

Yesterday's aerial score was 14 axis planes destroyed against 10 allied craft lost.

[The German communique said that "on the Tunisian west front, several local enemy thrusts were repulsed." It did not mention the southern front. A Transocean News agency dispatch said 38 British and American armored vehicles were destroyed northeast of Mejez-el-Bab, 21 of them in a 30 minute attack by the 60 ton Mark VI. Tiger tanks.]

FIND COUGHLIN "SCARE BOMB" IN POSTOFFICE

Nutley, N. J., April 30 (AP).—Postoffice employés today found in the mails what Detective Capt. Frank O'Neill of Newark called "a scare bomb" addressed to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin at Royal Oak, Mich.

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin.

O'Neill, a bomb expert, fired several rounds of machine gun bullets into it, but it failed to explode. Inside were a clock works, ground glass, a powder not yet analyzed, and a nine page letter which was not made public.

Father Coughlin is the nationally known priest of the Royal Oak parish's "Shrine of the Little Flower." He was last in the news about a year ago when postal authorities suspended mailing privileges of the magazine Social Justice on the ground it contained subversive statements.

DISREGARD NAZI ORDER, DUTCH EX-SOLDIERS TOLD

LONDON, April 30 (AP). — The Netherlands government in London appealed today to former members of the Dutch armed forces in the Netherlands to resist internment ordered by German occupation authorities. "Don't register," the men were told in a broadcast. "Keep quiet. Disregard all orders and decrees. This is the advice the Netherlands government gives you. Disregard summonses. Try to make yourselves unfindable." Some 400,000 veterans are involved.

[Swiss dispatches said the round-up already had started and that 18,500 had been arrested and sent to 14 concentration camps near the German border.]

OPA ANNOUNCES 41 REVISIONS IN VALUE OF POINTS

New Schedule Goes Into Effect Tomorrow.

Demands of the meat industry that point values for sausage and other luncheon meats be slashed and that canned fish, butter, cheese, and fats be segregated from meat rationing were ignored yesterday by the office of price administration in its first major revision of the meat-cheese-fats-fish point table.

The revised table becomes effective at 12:01 a. m. tomorrow and contains 26 reductions and 15 increases, each of one point value per pound. The old table became effective March 29, when meat rationing began, and was altered slightly on April 11.

Cut 11 to 50 Per Cent.

The reductions occur mostly among the variety meats [brains, sweetbreads, etc.], canned fish, and other special products with low point values. The point cuts range from 11 to 50 per cent.

The higher point values are placed mainly on popular priced steaks and roasts of beef, veal, and pork. The advances range from 14 to 50 per cent, with the majority 12½ per cent, representing a 1 point boost from 8 to 9 points a pound.

An anomaly of the new point schedule is that the higher priced porter house and T-bone steaks will require only 8 points per pound, while round steak, selling usually for 12 cents a pound less, will take 9 points.

Major Changes Listed.

The major changes in the schedule follow:

Point values of round steak [beef and veal], flank steak, veal cutlets, tongue slices, pork center chops, pork loin roasts, and ham slices were raised a point to 9 points a pound. Beef round tip roasts and veal sirloin steaks and chops rose one point to 8 points, and veal leg roasts, one point to 7.

Shank end ham dropped one point to 6 points a pound, pork spareribs and types of sweetbreads to 3 points, pork hocks and knuckles to 2 points, and tongues to 5 points.

Salad and cooking oils were cut in point value from 6 to 5 a pint or pound. Canned sea mussels, product of a new fishing industry, were listed as a separate fish category at 1 point a pound. Caviar and fish roe were cut from 7 to 3 points. Bouillon cubes, beef extracts, and other meat extracts are removed from rationing.

Fifteen reductions, all of one point except a two point cut for sausage with less than 50 per cent meat, were registered in the kosher meat point value schedule for May. The only increases were one point advances for sliced corn beef and pastrami.

GARAGE OWNER IN HIJACK CASE U. S. PRISONER

Edward J. Carey, 40 years old, 1008 Monroe street, owner of the Aberdeen garage at 24 North Aberdeen street where 200 cases of stolen liquor were said to have been stored, was turned over to the United States marshal by Chicago police yesterday.

Carey was arrested when evidence of an old prohibition custom—double hijacking—came to the attention of detectives. Last Saturday 566 cases of whisky valued at $20,000 was stolen from a truck. Three days ago George Mickow, a Hammond truck operator, received a telephone call directing him to send a truck to Randolph and Halsted streets to pick up a load of liquor for delivery to the Indiana state line.

There the driver, Walter Kuc, also of Hammond, was met by two men who directed him to the Aberdeen garage, where 200 cases of whisky were loaded onto his truck. At 77th and Halsted streets he was hijacked. Mickow then named Eddie Gordon, 44, a Cleveland liquor buyer, as the caller who ordered the truck.

Gordon denied making the call and escaped further questioning when his attorneys freed him on a habeas corpus writ. Mickow and Kuc also were questioned and released.

CIVILIANS FACE EGG SHORTAGE IN FALL, U. S. SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Consumers will face an egg shortage next fall as a result of a seasonal decline in production and increasing government buying, the bureau of agricultural economics said today.

At the same time, the bureau predicted a sharp increase in poultry supplies in the second half of this year. It reported that farmers' poultry sales in midwest primary markets were only about 45 per cent of the figure for March, 1942.

SET FARM POULTRY PRICES.

"On the farm" price ceilings for live poultry were established yesterday by the office of price administration for farms surrounding 56 representative cities. The ceilings affect sales by country growers to country shippers or wholesalers buying at the farm. Retail and wholesale ceilings were fixed earlier.

In the eastern zone, generally comprising all of the country east of Lake Michigan, the Mississippi and Illinois, the ceiling is computed by adding to the Chicago maximum base price the lowest carlot freight rate from Chicago for dressed poultry, multiplied by 1.22 to cover care and icing en route.

For the west, the ceiling is calulated by subtracting from the maximum base price in any one of the five cities—New York; Los Angeles, Cal.; San Francisco, Cal.; Seattle, Wash., or Portland, Ore.—whichever is nearest, the lowest carlot freight rate for dressed poultry multiplied by 1.22.

POULTRY CRISIS LAID TO OPA AND FDA REGULATION

Growers Fear Shortage Will Affect Army.

New York, April 30 [Special].—Food policies of the office of price administration and the food distribution administration need a thoro overhauling if the army is to get enough food and food riots are to be avoided in large industrial centers, members of a Republican congressional food study committee were informed today at a public hearing.

Speakers representing poultry raisers, farm coöperatives, egg dealers, poultry wholesalers, retailers, and feed dealers appeared before the committee, which is composed of Republican congressmen but has no official congressional standing.

The speakers were unanimous in condemning both the OPA and FDA.

Charges Raisers Misled.

Leon Todd, speaking for the Northeastern Poultry Producers council and the national poultry defense committee, asserted that the poultry situation is now so bad, as a result of OPA regulations, that the army will be forced to requisition poultry or make its purchases in the black market if any chicken or fowl are to be served to soldiers. He charged that the OPA had misled poultry raisers by promising one ceiling for chickens and then putting a lower one into effect after growers had enlarged their flocks.

Andrew Christie, poultry producer of Kingston, N. H., told the committee that there was a possibility of food riots if shortages are not relieved.

All the spokesmen for growers complained of high feed prices, labor costs and shortages and the new ceilings fixed last week by the OPA. They complained, too, that OPA officials appeared to have no understanding of their problems. All were agreed to that they did not want "incentive payments" or government bonuses.

Complain of Favoritism.

Dealer complaints voiced before Rep. August H. Andersen [Minn.] chairman of the committee, and his associates varied from charges of OPA attempts to "streamline" distribution machinery by forcing some handlers out of business, to claims that margins were insufficient for profitable operation and of OPA favoritism to some types of operators.

Leo Willi Jr., New York representative of the Seymour Packing company, poultry dealers, asserted that "certain officials" of the OPA were "out to eliminate—liquidate—the middle man." Rep. Charles Plumley of Vermont added the observation that the OPA policy appears to be "hit the middle man and drive the little man out of business."

PASSENGER CAR SUPPLY OF TIRES DROPS FOR MAY

Chicago area motorists will get fewer tires in May than they did in April, Michael F. Mulcahy, metropolitan rationing chief, said yesterday. Mulcahy's schedule lists 22,551 grade 1 and 2 tires available in May as against 25,980 in April, and 7,787 grade 3 tires available in May as against 9,570 in April. Truck tires however, are increased to 6,491 for May from 5,914 in April. The announcement probably will be a blow to many motorists who recently were declared eligible for new grade 1 and 2 tires by amended OPA regulations.

KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN.

Valparaiso, Ind., April 30 [Special].—Alfred Lowman, 78 years old, was killed today when he walked into the path of a Pennsylvania freight train at Hebron, south of here.

KENNA'S SECRETARY TAKES OVER WARD COMMITTEE POST

Michael Kenna, 1st ward Democratic committeeman better known as "Hinky Dink" or "The Little Fellow," resigned yesterday in favor of the man he suggested to succeed him—Joseph Clark, his secretary for the last 30 years. The action was taken at a meeting of the Democratic city central committee in the Morrison hotel.

Officially this ends Kenna's connection with the politics of the famous "richest ward" he has ruled for more than half a century. But the undertstanding is that Clark will continue to have daily conferences with Kenna in Kenna's suite at the Blackstone hotel. Kenna is 86 years old.

Kenna recently stepped out of the city council. He designated another of his lieutenants, John Budinger, for this place and his decision was ratified at the Feb. 23 aldermanic election.

New York, April 30 [Special].—Frenchmen must now have a special permit to go from France to Corsica, the British radio said today, in a report on axis preparations against invasion. The broadcast also said German patrols were keeping watch on the French-Italian border.

TAVERN OPERATORS WARNED.

Moline, Ill., April 30 [Special].—Mayor A. Henry Arp today warned the majority of the city's 83 tavern owners who have not renewed their licenses that unless they pay the licenses immediately the taverns would be closed.

HOW WE BOMBED TOKIO: CHINESE RESCUE FLYERS

Raiders Suffer Injuries in Plane Smashup.

BY LT. CHARLES L. M'CLURE.
As told to William Shinnick.
[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Sacramento, Cal., April 30. — My problem settled itself. Hurled unconscious from one of the B-25 planes that had bombed Tokio, after it had crashed into the sea off an unidentified Chinese beach, I had returned to a hazy thinking power. My body was wholly under water.

Almost to a certainty I knew I was 10 feet down and ought to get up, but couldn't figure which direction was up. The quandary was dissipated when my feet touched sand and my head rose to the surface. The water wasn't 10 feet deep; it was only chest deep.

As I started to wade ashore, I became acutely aware of something else. It was probably an instinctive move when I reached out with one hand to help the wading with a paddle stroke. To my astonishment I couldn't get the hand above the water. I looked at the hand and arm. Then I decided to reach the other hand over toward the upper arm on the opposite side.

Finds Arms Are Broken.

That was no go either. One arm was as limited in its scope as the other. Gradually I realized that both were broken, altho I could not determine just where. The breaks actually were in the shoulders.

The rest of the crew members were injured, too. Lt. Lawson's injuries were the worst. He had severe cuts on his face, almost as if he had been slashed with a razor, some of his teeth were knocked out, and he had a terrible cut on his knee. We thought at the time his kneecap had been severed as he catapulted out of the plane. The co-pilot, Lt. Dean Davenport, and Lt. Clever [Robert S.], the bombardier, suffered severe shock and numerous lacerations. Corp. Thatcher [David S., now sergeant], who had been in the tail of the plane, was in better shape than anybody else. He had a big bump on his head and he was dazed for awhile; that was all.

Thatcher's position saved him when we crashed. He was in the rear gunner's seat, facing backward, and had his safety belt fastened. When the ship struck and turned over he stayed in the chair. He was able after the turnover to release the belt. He was not knocked out.

Davenport helped Lt. Lawson [now captain] to the beach. So, I think, did the corporal. Somehow Clever and I met before we reached the beach. He was a little woozy too.

"Help me in," he said. "I think I have a broken ankle."

"Can't," I said. "I think both my arms are broken."

"You wouldn't kid me, would you?"

I said I wasn't kidding. This seemed to make him mad and he bawled me out for refusing to help him. He called me fighting names and I gave some back. Then we looked at each other disgustedly and dragged ourselves out of the water to collapse on the beach.

There was no sign of any inhabitants nearby, but we set up a cry in what we imagine was Chinese. Some of the navy men had taught us a single phrase. It sounded something like this: "Lay-shu-may-uh may-wah," meaning: "I am an American."

Chinese Rescuers Arrive.

By this time, as I remember it, Lt. Lawson and Lt. Davenport were off the beach. I was in terrible pain. I noticed that my right trouser leg was in shreds, but didn't investigate any further. Luckily the leg was not broken, nor hurt much.

About this time we saw figures coming down our way. We had to guess whether they were Japs. My pains were so fierce just then that I didn't seem to care if they were. But their silhouettes convinced us they were Chinese. They wore round, conical straw hats and straw raincoats.

They were poor linguists and they understood little if any of our Chinese. But they and a lot of other people of their race saved our lives and we always shall be grateful to them.

Heavy Load for Little Man.

Under other circumstances, the man appointed to carry me off the beach would have been the basis for a joke. He was a little bit of a squirt, hardly more than four feet tall and weighing not more than 100 pounds, wringing wet. But he backed up manfully and tried to take my arms over his shoulders—my weight was about 205.

My pained expression stopped him, and I tried with such sign language as I had to tell him what was wrong. Then he backed up again with his back bent and I mounted piggy back with my hands resting on his shoulders. Somehow he made it to a house that must have been 200 yards away.

There was a big room there. Davenport and Lawson were put in beds and so was I. Clever lay on the floor. Thatcher, recovered enough to be helpful, tried to work for all of us.

Tortured by Injuries.

My shoulder pains got worse. I couldn't lie down and I couldn't stand. There was no position that I could bear very long. Corp. Thatcher, at my request, would lift my head carefully and leave it up a little while; then he would lower my head and let me rest my hands on my knees. Every movement was excruciating pain and so was the staying in one position.

We tried to teach a Chinese the "up and down" technique with my neck, but didn't succeed. Thinking it would be a relief to get my clothes off, I ordered the corporal to cut my coat and shirt away and bawled him out most outrageously when he said that would ruin the coat. Then he split the sleeves and cut across the lapels. That enabled him to peel the coat off.

I was undressed completely and about this time a lot of people came in. My nakedness was embarrassing and I demanded a pair of shorts be put on me. I never saw my clothes after they had been piled with those of the others on a sort of rack in the middle of the room.

Sufferings Grow Worse.

My suffering increased as soon as I was undressed and a quilt was wrapped around me. Shock hit me and I felt that my body was going to leap without my will from the bed. It is no exaggeration to say that I expected to go crazy.

After a little of this I passed out temporarily. I would awake now and again to hear some of the others wondering what had become of the clothes. Once I heard Davenport trying to talk to a Chinese. He kept saying, "hospital—soon—get coolies—carry." Endlessly he repeated the words.

Morning came, and release from that mud floored house. Coolies were there, each pair with a single pole. I tried to figure out how the carrying was to be done.

Gets Kimono for Clothing.

Having only shorts and shoes, I demanded more clothing in exchange for what was missing. What I got was a small kimono, barely enough to cover my shoulders.

We found out how the carrying was to be done. The coolie pole was equipped with a triangular rope seat at the rear end. The front end was the apex of the triangle. It was no comfortable sedan chair; it was a primeval makeshift. We had gone in a few hours from man's most speedy transportation to his slowest.

When the coolies fell into line nobody wanted me; I was too big; and there was a lot of argument.

And Then It Rained.

That wasn't all there was to peeve me. I had sent Corp. Thatcher back to the plane for my camera, and bawled him out again when he reported he hadn't been able to break into the overturned plane. Unreasonable again.

To top it off it was raining. But the squabbles finally ended and two coolies put me in the little hammock under their pole and we were off. They slipped in the mud frequently and every slip jolted my torn shoulders.

The other officers were in pain also. We were all disgusted. We kept hollering at each other. Why didn't we have autos or a plane, or a carriage? Why hadn't we been fed, and why hadn't a doctor come? For one, I was too sore to reason about the facts as they were. We were off on a long and dangerous journey, and a kindly people were doing a great job for us.

[The next instalment will deal with the care given the flyers by the Chinese in a search for safety and medical treatment.]

JAPANESE OPEN SUB OFFENSIVE OFF AUSTRALIA

'Wolf Packs' Believed Periling Supply Line.

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, May 1 [Saturday] — (AP).—The Japanese have opened a submarine attack in force east of Australia, the high command reported today.

Gen. MacArthur said details of the submarine activity could not be released immediately.

Within recent months, communiques have reported sporadic sinkings of vessels by single submarines, but this was the first intimation that the Japs may be sending out subs in groups like the Nazi "wolf packs."

Japs Peril Supply Lines.

"The enemy has launched a submarine attack in some force in the waters east of Australia," the noon communique said. "Details will be given as soon as their release will not assist in his operations. This will somewhat delay their chronological recording in the communique."

It was almost a year ago that the Japanese opened their last underwater offensive.

To the east of Australia is the Coral sea and beyond it the ocean lanes used by the allies for reënforcement and supply. It was to protect those lanes that American marines recently occupied the Ellice islands. The new enemy underwater attack plainly is directed against allied supply lines from America and between Australia, New Guinea, New Zealand, and New Caledonia.

Little Aerial Activity.

On the aerial front, there was only reconnaissance northwest of Australia and limited action against New Ireland, New Britain, and New Guinea, to the northeast.

Near Kavieng, New Ireland, a cargo ship was bombed by a four engined allied bomber. Airdromes at Gasmata and Cape Gloucester, New Britain, were attacked. Enemy planes were caught on the ground at Cape Gloucester. In the Mubo area of New Guinea, enemy positions were bombed and strafed. Lae, on the Huon gulf, was bombed.

LOST 218 DAYS

BY LEIF ERICKSON.

A SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, April 30 (AP).—This is the story of Delmar D. Wiley's 218 days as a castaway, a saga of lonely survival on the open sea and on the beaches of islets fringing the enemy held northern Solomons.

Wiley is a 21 year old Glenwood, Ia., youngster and a naval aviation radioman, third class. Badly wounded, he was shot down last Aug. 24 in air action between carrier planes during a battle over the Ontong Java Islands east of the Solomons. After over seven months in enemy controled territory he reached American held Florida Island safely on April 11.

Fed and cared for by natives, he lived for five months as the only white man on a midget island chain less than an hour's airplane run from Buka, northernmost Japanese base in the Solomons.

Story of Adventure.

Then he was joined by nine army flyers shot down in a Flying Fortress Feb. 9 and carried in life rafts to Wiley's haven. Subsequently all 10 men were found and brought to an American base.

Official reports provide this account of Wiley's adventure:

Taking off from a carrier in a Grumman torpedo plane Aug. 24, Wiley and his pilot attacked a scouting Japanese cruiser. Soon Zeros swarmed upon the torpedo plane. Wiley's pilot was killed, and the young radioman was wounded in the thigh.

The Grumman crashed into the sea. Despite his wound, Wiley inflated his life raft. He drifted for 15 days. In that time his only food was the bitter flesh of two sea gulls he killed.

Natives Treat Wound.

On the 15th day he landed on an island inhabited by friendly natives who treated Wiley's wound successfully with coconut milk and a potion they called kabong. It was made of coral growth wrapped in palm leaves and roasted, then mixed with liquids.

The army flyers rescued with Wiley related that the potion likewise was used to caulk canoes and as a strong drink.

When the bomber crew, all of whom also were wounded, reached Wiley's island, they found him passing the time by teaching the natives the alphabet and to count to 100.

Capt. Thomas J. Classen, 24, of Stevens Point, Wis., the Fortress pilot, said Wiley had become well adjusted to castaway life. He observed it was lucky for him that the army flyers arrived, for otherwise he probably would have had to sit out the war on his island.

Almost Went to Jap Port.

"Wiley thought of trying to reach Buka, because he believed the Americans should have taken all of the Solomons in the weeks his wound was healing," Classen said. "It's a lucky thing he didn't try it."

With a native steersman, Wiley, Classen, and two other army airmen set out March 29 in a canoe equipped with palm leaf sails. On the second dawn they found themselves less than 10 miles from a busy Japanese port. Small craft were headed their way.

Providentially, a squall blew up. Their canoe nearly was wrecked. But when the storm ended, Wiley and his companions were alone on the open water.

A little later two Zeros roared low over the canoe. The tattered Americans could see the Jap pilots grinning. Resignedly they awaited bursts of murderous fire. But the planes flew on.

Rescued by Bomber.

Stopping at a second island, the four men encountered friendly natives who took them in larger canoes to a point where they made contact by signal with a navy patrol bomber.

The bomber took them to Florida Island. The six other army flyers, who had remained behind on Wiley's island, were rescued and returned to Guadalcanal, their starting point, on April 6, 66 days after they had begun what was to be a routine search mission.

MIDWEST YANKS MAN GUNS OF BIG BOMBERS IN INDIA

AT A U. S. BOMBER BASE SOMEWHERE IN INDIA, April 11 [Delayed]—(AP).—Many midwesterners are among the aerial gunners protecting the big bombers based here. They are the men upon whom the lives all aboard depend when attacked by Jap fighters. A gunner's outlook on a battle was told today by a Wisconsin youth, Staff Sergt. William Steinkellner, 23 years old, of Oshkosh. In protecting bombers after a raid on an airdrome near Rangoon, Burma, his plane was attacked by 14 Jap fighters. Of the fight, Steinkellner said:

"One came in so close I could count the rivets in his plane. I could have hit some of the others with my shoe—so you can imagine what I did to them with my guns."

Other midwestern gunners at this base include: Sergts. Russel W. Zeiss, Downers Grove, Ill.; George P. Sibulski, Berwyn, Ill.; Walter J. Kappel, Friendship, Wis.; Robert P. Latus, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.; John B. Niquette, Two Rivers, Wis.; Patrick G. O'Hara, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Bruce Turner Jr., Flint, Mich.

WITH A U. S. ARMY AERIAL TASK FORCE IN CENTRAL PACIFIC, April 24 [Delayed].—Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, commander of the 7th air force, studied a map of the central Pacific combat zone today and promised this week's heavy American bomber assaults on Japan's Nauru and Tarawa bases were merely a "warmup" for blows against strongholds guarding the main avenue to the Jap empire.

"It is no secret that these raids were the prelude of offensive action in the big central Pacific area," he declared.

"The attacks on Nauru and Tarawa fulfilled the prediction made after the December raid on Wake Island, that the enemy could expect to be hit harder and more often as our plans develop."

Longest Bomber Mission.

The daylight assault on phosphate-rich Nauru on April 21 and the moonlit raid on Tarawa 36 hours later represented the longest combined offensive mission by an American bomber force in any war theater.

"The fact that our bombers were able to range out to such Japanese bases means we can reduce the defenses of such islands by air. Even now our bombers are laying the groundwork for the future seizure of enemy bases to push back the Japanese outposts," Gen. Hale added.

He said concentrated bombings would be followed by occupation of islands from which Japan proper and other island possessions could be reached. He declined to discuss these plans in detail, asserting:

"Why tell the Japs when they are going to be hit? I can only say at this time that the blows are coming."

Four Ton Bombs May Be Used.

Gen. Hale disclosed that the forthcoming operations, like the recent raids, will be guerrilla-style aerial warfare: Striking the enemy suddenly where he least expects to be hit and then striking again.

"Right now we are building up to a campaign that will bring either repeated small raids or large concentrated attacks. Larger bombs, possibly two or four-ton blockbusters, may be used against appropriate targets."

The big Liberators used in the Nauru and Tarawa operations already are improved in range, defensive armament and bombsight equipment. For the long Pacific missions, Liberators are rapidly replacing Flying Fortresses because of their greater range and bomb capacity.

Hit Harder than Japs.

Gen. Hale pointed out that raids such as those on Nauru and Tarawa demonstrated that American aerial units operating in force can hit the Japanese more often and harder than the enemy can strike back.

"Raids such as these," he said, "will compel the Japs to spread their forces over a wider area and they are having a hard enough time now defending what they hold."

Hale described the Tarawa raid as the most perfect piece of navigation in his recollection.

General Led Raids.

"Notwithstanding their brief experience, our navigators have conducted the longest bombing flights of the war against pinpoint targets," he said. "The return of every bomber crew and the damage inflicted on the enemy emphasize the feasibility of such operations."

The 50-year-old general personally led both raids. He took command of the 7th air force when Maj.-Gen. Clarence L. Tinker was lost during a raid on Wake last June.

Midwesterners on the Nauru raid included Lt. Col. William Holzapfel of Racine, Wis., a pilot, and Staff Sergt. Carlyle Elrod of Anderson, Ind., an engineer. Another general who flew on that raid was Brig. Gen. Truman H. Landon, commander of bomber operations in the central Pacific. He manned a machine gun and served as command pilot of one of the Liberators.

Expect Australia to Ask U. S. for Labor Contingent

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch from Melbourne said today that Herbert V. Evatt, Australia's attorney general and minister for external affairs now on a special mission to Washington, D. C., was expected to discuss with the United States government the possibility of the United States supplying a labor contingent to Australia. The man power of the commonwealth is almost dried up, the dispatch reported.

WHEELER JOINS IN DEMAND U. S. FIGHT JAPS NOW

Urges Greater Aid for MacArthur.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] today joined in the growing congressional demands for increased concentration on the war in the Pacific and that more military aid be delivered to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In a letter to a constituent, Mrs. Opal I. Bartholf of Missoula, Mont., Wheeler acknowledged her plea that MacArthur be given more attention by the high command. The senator replied that "I am in thoro accord with your views that we should immediately send more help of all kinds to Gen. MacArthur to help our boys in the south Pacific fighting the Japs."

Disturbed by Russ Deals.

He told her that "like many others, I am disturbed that our ally, Russia, which has put up a gallant fight against Germany, is dealing so freely with our enemy, Japan."

Wheeler was referring to friendly trade relations between Japan and Russia and the recent Russian renewal of a treaty giving Japan fishing rights in Siberian waters and also control of a weather station on Kamchatka, providing the Japs with an advantage over the United States in weather forecasting and plotting military and naval operations in the Aleutian and Alaskan areas.

In his letter, disclosing his views on the conduct of the war in the Pacific, Wheeler also said, in part:

"I was one of those who opposed selling scrap iron, gasoline, material for making poison gas, and other materials, to Japan after she attacked China. Perhaps you will recall that I made several speeches in which I urged that an embargo be placed on shipments of scrap iron and other materials to Japan, and stated that I was afraid that it would some day be used against American boys.

Japan Greatest Menace.

"While I want to see Hitler and Hitlerism destroyed in the shortest possible time, I believe our greatest menace is in the Pacific. We went to war because of the dastardly attack by Japan on the Hawaiian Islands.

"The Japanese are becoming more and more strongly entrenched in China, in Burma, in the Philippines, and thruout the South Pacific. Unless more aggressive action is taken now against the Japs I am fearful that it will take a long time and the lives of many thousands of American boys before we can dislodge them from the countries which they have taken."

Bevin Appeals to Scottish Workers Not to Strike

ABERDEEN, Scotland, April 30 (AP).—Appealing to workers to settle disputes by arbitration and not by stopping production, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin told Scottish Trades Union congress delegates today that strikes "cannot be afforded at the present moment, when the last ounce of our energy is important." "We are getting nearer and nearer to the last lap," he said, "and we should endeavor to see that there is no interruption of production."

JAPS TO TAKE OVER DANISH CABLE LINE IN ORIENT TODAY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A Tokio dispatch broadcast yesterday by the Berlin radio said that Japan was taking over today the cable lines of the Danish owned Great Northern Telegraph company between Vladivostok and Shanghai with a relay station at Nagasaki, in southwestern Japan.

At one time the Great Northern was the principal telegraphic channel between Europe and the orient, the Danish company enjoying special facilities for its lines across Russian, Japanese, and Chinese territory. It also was one of Denmark's chief overseas enterprises.

The broadcast said that Denmark agreed in 1940—after the occupation by Germany—to cede her rights in the line to Japan after three years. Thus, the dispatch said, "henceforth all communications of every kind within the territories of the Japanese empire will in future be under Japanese control."

STILWELL GIVES REPORT TO F.D.R. ON EASTERN ASIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell, commander of American forces in China, Burma, and India, conferred with President Roosevelt today on problems and strategy in his theater of the war.

Gen. Joseph Stilwell.

While the general refused to discuss the conference or the purpose of his visit, it was generally assumed that he had supported Chinese pleas for more planes, weapons and supplies.

Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the 14th army air force in China, who accompanied Stilwell to Washington, did not accompany him to the White House. Chennault has a private appointment with the President tomorrow.

YANKEE BOMBER SINKS JAP SUB OFF ALEUTIANS

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—A Catalina patrol bomber sank a Japanese submarine off the Aleutian Islands with two depth charges, the navy reported today.

The bomber's pilot, Leland L. Davis, 26 years old, of Hattiesburg, Miss., was awarded the navy cross. Davis was listed as missing from another patrol flight made later on the same, unspecified day.

He sighted the submarine running on the surface while on regular patrol mission, flew into the clouds to escape detection, and came out one mile from the sub as it began to submerge. Almost immediately after two depth charges were released the sub exploded and sank.

YANKS WIPE OUT JAP PATROL ON GUADALCANAL

Party of Nine Found, but Mission Is Unknown.

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—A Japanese patrol of one officer and eight men attempting to escape from Guadalcanal Island in the South Pacific was intercepted and destroyed by American troops on Wednesday, the navy reported today.

A communique relating this incident also told of continuing aerial attacks from Guadalcanal against Jap bases in the Solomon Islands.

Interception of the enemy patrol near Beaufort bay, 25 miles southwest of Guadalcanal air field, resulted in the first reported land skirmish in many weeks on the once embattled island.

Japs' Mission Unknown.

What the Jap patrol was doing on Guadalcanal was not disclosed. It might have been a group of stragglers left hidden in the mountains after organized enemy resistance ceased Feb. 9, or it might have been a fresh unit put ashore from a submarine or small boat to reconnoiter American installations and defenses.

The air raids covered activities of Thursday. They began with an attack by Flying Fortresses on the Jap air base at Kahili in the Shortland Islands. Poor visibility prevented observation of the results.

Other Targets of Bombers.

Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless dive bombers then hit enemy installations at Gatere, on Kolombangara Island. An anti-aircraft position and a pier were destroyed.

In the afternoon torpedo and dive bombers started a fire at Pelpeli, two miles northwest of Gatere, and a similar group struck Munda, on New Georgia, blasting the enemy's runway, revetments, and an anti-aircraft position.

THREATENS AUSTRALIA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A Japanese army spokesman yesterday hinted broadly that the mikado's invasion armies are preparing for an assault on Australia, declaring Japan had completed the establishment of strategic bases in the southwest Pacific.

With island strongholds linked in a vast chain above Australia, the spokesman said, Japan has "paved the way for contemplated new operations."

The Tokio radio, quoting Maj. Gen. Nakao Yahagi, army press chief, said the bases were on Timor Island, on New Guinea, and in the Solomons.

Siberian Frontier Quiet.

The army press chief said the Japanese army had crushed enemy counter-offensives in all theaters of the war and the defense area under control of the Japanese army now includes a circular area within a radius of 3,100 miles of Japan.

Referring to the situation along the Siberian-Manchukuoan frontier, scene of many bitter clashes in the past, Yahagi said peace prevails.

Flying Ensign and Pupil Bail Out and Miss Crash

Ensign Clarence A. Noll, naval aviation instructor at Glenview naval air base, and Cadet Van Woert Smith, became members of the Caterpillar club yesterday when they bailed out of a primary training plane and landed uninjured near Barrington in Lake county. The plane crashed nearby. Witnesses said the flyers bailed out when the plane went into a spin. One of the flyers landed in a tree. Ensign Noll lives at Pleasant Gap, Pa., and Cadet Smith's home is at Tuckahoe, N. Y.

She was also granted $22.50 a week for support of herself and their two children.

NEGROES HAILED AS THEY END 1ST YEAR IN GUINEA

Praised by MacNider for Their Work.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, April 28 [Delayed]—(AP).—American Negro engineering troops, the first American soldiers to set foot on embattled New Guinea, celebrated the first anniversary of their landing today. They were praised by their commanding general as "one of the hardest working outfits in this man's army."

These soldiers, who under white officers have lived, worked, and died in constructing the allies' most important base in the Southwest Pacific, had their second day off in a year.

They celebrated with a smart parade where rifles replaced trucks, graders, and shovels. A drum and bugle corps stepped smartly around the dusty field. They played games and sang.

What They Have Done.

"You have helped make possible the destruction of a convoy in Bismarck sea, the flying of infantry over the mountains, and a hundred actions against the enemy," said Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Ia.

"You have built causeways and docks and even unloaded ships so that we could eat and fight. Some of you have been to war with tanks. You know all about bombs, from hanging them on planes to having them hung on you.

11 Killed in Action.

"All of us over here are proud of you. You have been good soldiers."

This engineering outfit unloaded the tanks at Buna which played a decisive factor in the annihilation of the Japanese there. Eleven of them have lost their lives in line of duty in New Guinea. One was lost recently in the enemy bombing of Milne bay. Partly thru their efforts this allied base has been turned into an army camp which the Japanese attempted to take three times.

Blame Reds for Bombing Near Swedish Naval Base

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 30 (AP).—Bombs dropped early yesterday on the Island of Verkoen, near the Swedish naval base of Karlskrona, apparently came from Russian planes, a Swedish communique said tonight.

RUSSIANS SEIZE KEY POSITIONS IN CAUCASUS DRIVE

Supporting Planes Rip Nazi Guns and Troops.

LONDON, May 1 [Saturday]—(AP).—Russian troops once more on the move in the northwestern Caucasus were reported by Moscow early today to have captured "several key enemy positions" in a drive which the Germans said was a Red offensive in which 150,000 men were attacking.

"Soviet aircraft supported the operation of land units and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy," added the midnight communique recorded by the soviet monitor. "Our assault [Stormovik] planes destroyed several dozen guns and over a battalion of German infantry."

Altho the Russian bulletin gave few details of the fighting, Moscow dispatches said the Russian capital was astir with the expectation of great military developments.

Nazis Tipped Off Drive.

Two days ago the Germans reported a Russian drive was under way to eject the axis troops from their last major foothold around the Black sea port of Novorossisk and the Kuban river valley to the north.

Russian reticence is customary whenever big operations are beginning, but Moscow announced yesterday that soviet airmen in the Caucasus had downed 116 German planes in two days. The latest bulletin told of the sinking by the Red navy of a German transport in the Black sea, apparently off Novorossisk.

Battle in Taganrog Area.

Russian troops by German admission last were reported entrenched in the hills overlooking Novorossisk. The Russians also had fought along the Taman peninsula to the north to within 25 miles of German held Temryuk, on the Sea of Azov.

The midnight communique reported action also on the north coast of the Sea of Azov west of Rostov, where the Red winter offensive stopped close to Taganrog. In this area, 30 miles west of Rostov, soviet artillery men partly wiped out a Nazi company.

Only scattered fighting was reported elsewhere. In the Ukraine, German reconnaissance units were beaten back in the Balakleya sector southeast of Kharkov. On the Volkhov front, southeast of Leningrad, soviet automatic riflemen captured several German blockhouses.

Reds Repulsed, Say Nazis.

German accounts of the Caucasian fight earlier said all soviet attacks had been repulsed, but mentioned the Reds' numerical superiority.

Yesterday's soviet noon communique had been routine in tone, but the government newspaper Izvestia thus prepared the public for an imminent change in the course of the struggle:

"Not many days separate us from big events. This May we are at the threshold of a decisive stage of our sacred war of liberation."

Rock Island Admiral Wins Navy Cross in Solomons

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—Rear Adm. Willis A. Lee Jr., 54 years old, of Rock Island, Ill., has received the navy cross for action in the Solomons. The navy reported yesterday Lee was cited for extraordinary heroism and superb tactical skill. The citation credited his direction with destroying at least one Japanese battleship, three cruisers, and one destroyer, and turning back the remainder of the enemy fleet.

OVER 1½ MILLION MEN AFFECTED BY MINE STRIKE

Total Pay Roll Adds to Nearly $20,000,000.

An average weekly pay roll of $16,292,000 distributed among the country's bituminous coal miners and $3,205,000 paid weekly to anthracite miners is involved in the critical labor controversy now approaching a head.

There are about 450,000 soft coal workers and 80,000 hard coal miners employed in 6,624 mines of the class producing more than 1,000 tons of coal annually. In 1941 these mines produced 511,000,000 tons of coal.

Various sources do not agree on the exact number of coal miners in the nation at present. Labor department statistics for February show that the average number of bituminous miners at work in that month was 409,000 and the average of anthracite miners 74,000.

Union Claims 625,000.

The United Mine Workers' union said there are 475,000 bituminous miners, plus 60,000 supervisory employés, and 90,000 anthracite miners. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, in certifying the anthracite dispute to the labor board, said about 80,000 miners were involved.

Latest figures of the bituminous coal division, a government agency, show that in 1941 there were approximately 456,500 bituminous miners working in the nation's pits. The division said they turned out about 511 million tons of coal in that year. John L. Lewis, UMW president, said that last year 650 million tons of bituminous and anthracite coal was produced and expectations are that well over 700 million tons of soft and hard coal will be mined this year.

Many Strikes in Industry.

In the last 40 years the coal industry has experienced scores of strikes, little and big, some orderly and many violent. The longest, in 1927, lasted a year and a half, and two others continued for 16 months.

President Theodore Roosevelt intervened in the 1902 strike of 145,000 anthracite miners and arranged arbitration after they had been out six months over a dispute involving wages and hours. President Wilson brought about the end of the big 1919 bituminous coal strike by an arbitration proposal.

Major Coal Strikes.

Following are the other major coal strikes since 1902, all by bituminous miners, except in 1939, when they were joined by hard coal miners. Union recognition, wages and overtime pay were the principal issues involved.

Year.	Miners.	Duration.
1910	10,700	16 months
1913	10,000	16 months
1919	400,000	3 months
1927	165,000	18 months
1933	60,000	11 months
1935	400,000	1 week
1939	600,000	2 months
1941	400,000	1 week
1941	53,000	1 week

In the 1919 dispute, a Federal District court in Indiana ordered the strike ended by an injunction. However, the miners refused to go back to the pits even when John L. Lewis, then acting president of the United Mine Workers, told them to go, explaining: "We can't fight the government." They finally accepted President Wilson's proposal for an immediate 14 per cent wage increase during arbitration and they eventually won a 27 per cent increase.

UNION SQUABBLE CONTINUES TO STALL WAR JOB

Production of engines for long range bombers still was being held up yesterday while a strike of 771 steamfitters and gasfitters halted installation of machinery at the vast Dodge Chicago plant.

The steamfitters went out on Thursday. E. K. Collison, vice president of the George A. Fuller company, general contractor on the project, said the strike was caused by a dispute over whether the steamfitters or the plumbers should install piping from city water mains to machines.

Production at the plant was scheduled to start soon.

Thomas E. Cunningham, general organizer in Illinois for the International Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters [AFL], met with William Quirk, business agent of the plumbers' local 130, and Charles M. Rau and George A. McKinley, officials of the steamfitters' local 597.

There was little hope of an immediate settlement, however, and all interests were waiting for the arrival today of Joseph Keenan, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor and associate director for the war man power commission.

PURSE SNATCHER TAKES $109.

Police yesterday sought a Negro purse snatcher who Thursday night knocked Mrs. Margaret Wallace, 53 years old, to the ground near her home at 3613 Ellis avenue and took her purse containing $109 and ration books.

Affected by the United Mine Workers strike are the coal mines east of the Mississippi river. The map locates the principal soft coal areas of the nation. In addition to these, Arizona, Georgia, Idaho, and Oregon have a total of 9 mines and 188 miners, producing 54,817 tons. The figures on map are those for 1941.

2,000 AFL COAL MINERS VOTE TO SUSPEND WORK

Springfield, Ill., May 1 [Saturday] —(AP).—Digging of coal in most of the mines in Illinois was suspended early today.

There was no indication that the United Mine Workers of America, with 25,000 members employed in between 175 and 200 mines in the state, had changed their minds about refusing to work after their working agreement with the operators expired at midnight, altho in some pits they consented to finish their Friday night tasks before quitting. Members of two locals of the Progressive Mine Workers of America [American Federation of Labor affiliate] late last night voted not to work today until further clarification of the situation.

All the UMWA night shift employés of five mines in the Springfield sector, who normally would have worked until 3 and 4 a. m., laid down their tools at midnight. Approximately 2,000 went out there, and a number had failed to report for duty earlier.

Complete Their Shifts.

Many UMWA miners in Franklin, Williamson, Jefferson and Saline counties went on duty at 5 p. m. yesterday, an hour earlier than usual, so they could complete their seven hour shift by midnight.

UMWA men went on their regular shift at 7 p. m. in the Springfield section. In the Peoria district, Albert J. Boles, president of UMWA local 1262, said that, by agreement, the miners would complete their night work extending beyond the midnight deadline, and then walk out.

Since night work in the mines was not general, the work stoppage was difficult to picture, but UMWA headquarters in Springfield had asserted the men "won't work without a contract."

The policy convention of the PMWA, the AFL affiliate claiming 18,000 adherents employed in 133 Illinois mines and 2,700 men in Kentucky, voted to continue work in response to appeals from President Roosevelt and William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor.

Vote Not to Work.

William Orr, president of PMWA local No. 1 at Gillespie announced members had voted last night not to go to work today until they get more information about the action taken by the policy convention. The Gillespie unit, largest PMWA local, has a membership of more than 2,000 men in four mines there operated by the Superior Coal company.

The UMWA, local 18, at Staunton also decided to abstain from work today for the same reason. The unit has 250 members in Consolidated Coal company mine 7.

Two other PMWA locals—the Victory coal mine local and the Pana Coal company local—planned to meet today at Pana to consider the question of working. The locals have a combined membership of 250.

Indiana Mines to Strike.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 1 [Saturday]—(AP).—The midnight expiration of the contract between the United Mine workers and Indiana's coal mines brought a halt to work which is expected to find about 8,500 miners idle within a few hours. There was no widespread walkout because comparatively few mines in the state's two districts—No. 11, the shaft and strip mines, an No. 8, the block coal field—operate night shifts.

MINERS START TO LEAVE PITS IN GREAT STRIKE

Lewis Stands Pat on Roosevelt Order.

of bituminous miners to report for work tonight came from Johnstown, Pa., where no 9:30 p. m. shift was on hand at the Revloc mine of the Monroe Coal company. The mine employs a total of 950 men.

From Lansford, Pa., came word that the Panther Valley miners committee, representing 5,000 miners in UMW district 7 voted to suspend work until ordered by Lewis to return. Miners said the 6 a. m. shift tomorrow would not report at the pits.

Earlier 1,200 workers at the Susquehanna Collieries company No. 6 mine at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., struck to protest a local grievance.

The Progressive Miners [AFL] at Springfield, Ill., announced there would be no strike in their group as they voted to continue contract negotiations for 30 days. Two of the union's locals tonight voted to suspend work tomorrow, however.

Lewis Stays in New York.

Lewis said late in the day that he had no plans for leaving New York. There had been rumors that he probably would go to some central headquarters in the coal mining regions. At the same time he said no mines west of the Mississippi river are affected at present, as operators and miners there have separate contracts.

The war labor board last Wednesday sent the soft coal case to President Roosevelt because of the failure of Lewis and his men to become a party to its consideration of the issues.

In Washington, where there had been talk by some lawmakers of possible legislative action authorizing seizure of struck plants, Sen. Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] issued a statement saying: "John L. Lewis has not only opposed the government, he has defied it. In time of war he is leading a rebellion, not so much to gain advantage for the miners as to gain power for John L. Lewis."

Counter Proposal.

The counter-proposal of Lewis' bituminous policy committee made no mention of the President's promise to the country to use all his power "to prevent further interference with the successful operation of the war" unless the mines were operating at 10 a. m. tomorrow. The telegram said:

"We want an agreement. We want to work. The bituminous coal operators have wilfully blocked the making of an agreement. We respectfully advise that in our judgment the making of an agreement thru a renewal of collective bargaining is the logical means of providing justice and equity to all parties."

President Roosevelt gave no hint as to the powers he might invoke if the miners do not return to work by 10 a. m. tomorrow.

A declaration of martial law in the mining areas could suspend civil government there, impose curfews, establish restricted sections, and ban such activities as amusements—but it could not, actually, force the miners to return to work.

The President could send soldiers into the areas to prevent picket lines from operating—as President Cleveland did in 1894 in the one week long Pullman strike.

The chief executive also could take over the mines, as he has done in some instances in disputes in war plants, or order soldiers to work the mines.

DEERFIELD BOMBER PILOT MISSING AFTER RAIDS OVER EUROPE

Capt. Craig Jack Harwood of the army air forces, who had been piloting a Flying Fortress in American bomber raids over France and Germany, has been missing in action since April 17, his wife, Mrs. Jane Todd Harwood of 849 Waukegan road, Deerfield, was notified yesterday by the war department.

Capt. C. J. Harwood.

Mrs. Harwood said that last Saturday she had received a letter, dated April 6, from her husband in which he wrote: "I have now passed the unlucky 13th raid." He added he was eager to return home to see his new baby son, Craig Douglas.

Capt. Harwood joined the air force in 1941 after his graduation from Maryville college, Maryville, Tenn. He had been stationed in England since the spring of 1942. Capt. Harwood is 23 years old.

WPB RESTRICTS COAL DELIVERY BY RAILROADS

Ten Day Supply Set as Maximum.

Canada Takes Action

OTTAWA, Ont., April 30 (AP).—Coal Controler J. McG. Stewart tonight froze all supplies of bituminous coal in transit to Canada from the United States and put into effect regulation of deliveries from Canadian stockpiles to large consumers in Ontario and Quebec. The order was made public by the munitions department. It became effective at once. Only soft coal is affected by the order—not anthracite—and Canadian householders are not affected in any way. The munitions department said the order was made necessary by the "temporary situation created by the United States coal strike" and its aim was "to assure equitable distribution of existing bituminous coal supplies."

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—The war production board clamped emergency controls on soft coal deliveries by rail today to prevent shutdowns in war industry caused by the work stoppage in bituminous mines.

The order, effective at 6 p. m. today, prohibits any consumer from taking delivery of soft coal from a railroad car if he has more than 10 days' supply already on hand, or would have more than 10 days' supply if the coal were accepted.

Railroads were ordered to divert coal in cars on their tracks, under directions from the interstate commerce commission, to any one certifying that he has less than a 10 days' supply.

The action was taken by Chairman Donald M. Nelson of WPB upon the recommendation of Solid Fuels Administrator Harold L. Ickes.

Acts Under New Powers.

Ickes acted under the expanded powers over coal production and distribution newly given him by President Roosevelt, including the power to say if, when, and where coal should be rationed.

No termination date was named. While the order is in effect, no one may take coal from a railroad without signing a certification that the delivery would not increase his supply above the 10 day limit. Those eligible for coal were instructed to file their first application with the local representative of the railroad serving them.

Exceptions to the order were provided for coal consigned for export, for water movement, for use aboard a vessel, for delivery to a connecting carrier, and for transactions specially authorized by Ickes or by the interstate commerce commission, coal shipped by rail to Canada is covered by the decree.

The ICC and the office of defense transportation will collaborate with Ickes in administration of the order.

Statement of Purpose.

The order was prefaced by this statement of its purpose:

"The stoppage in the production of bituminous coal and the fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States will create a shortage in the supply of bituminous coal for defense, for private account, and for export, and it is necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense to allocate and grant priority with respect to the supply of bituminous coal which is now in railroad cars on track."

Ickes' aides estimated there was only about one month's supply of coal above ground. The WPB order was designed to protect it by fixing its distribution evenly in accordance with consumer needs.

OPA TO IMPOSE CEILING PRICES FOR USED CARS

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—The office of price administration said today it is preparing to establish ceiling prices for used passenger automobiles.

The regulation is designed to prevent a sudden advance in prices resulting from a growing shortage of used cars coupled with a dwindling supply of new autos in the rationing pool.

The OPA said speculative buying in some sections had resulted in some late used models selling above the original new car price. While ceiling prices are in effect for used commercial vehicles, used passenger automobiles are not under control.

Michigan Sailor, 10 Others Killed in Scotland Crash

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—Lewis H. Carpenter of Caro, Mich., a United States merchant seaman, was among 11 persons killed when a plane crashed onto a bus at a town in southeast Scotland Tuesday, the United States war shipping administration disclosed today. He and the others will be buried tomorrow.

QUITS COMMAND AT GLENVIEW TO GO ON CARRIER

Commander G. A. T. Washburn relinquished command of the navy air station at Glenview yesterday for duty on a new aircraft carrier now being fitted for commissioning.

In the presence of the entire ship's company [naval term applied to the men at the station] of more than 4,000 men, he turned over temporary command to Lt. Comm. Truman C. Penney, executive officer. A review in the drill hall followed reading of the orders. The ceremony took less than 30 minutes and did not interrupt the station's routine.

Immediately after the ceremony Washburn left with his wife for Philadelphia. Under his supervision the Glenview station was expanded from a small field to its present position as the navy's largest primary flight training school. His permanent successor will be Capt. Felix L. Baker, who has served in combat areas and is expected to assume command early in June.

HIGHLAND PARK COUPLE LOSE A AND C RATIONS

Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago area OPA director, said yesterday the Highland Park rationing board had revoked the A and C gasoline ration books issued to Harry L. Appelman, a certified public accountant, and his wife, Mollie, a substitute Chicago school teacher. The Appelmans live at 1021 Ridgewood place, Highland Park.

Mulcahy said the board found that Mrs. Appelman had been issued a C ration book for her car on her plea of occupational driving as a school teacher and that her husband had been given an A book for his car. Mulcahy said Appelman admitted his car had been stored since Jan. 1 and that he drove his wife's car 3,700 miles in 50 days, part of it while she was in Florida on a vacation.

AUSSIE EDITORS GIVE VIEWS ON TRIBUNE ARTICLE

'What Is British Remains British': Sydney Sun.

BY W. A. O'CARROLL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, April 29 [Delayed.—The recent TRIBUNE editorial, "States Across the Sea," which pointed out that an easy way for union with the United States was available in the United States Constitution for those who say they seek integration of the free peoples, has evoked comment by Australia's leading newspapers.

Typical of the reaction observed in this British dominion was that of the Brisbane Courier-Mail which captioned its editorial, "This 49th State Business."

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is telling its readers that Australia is, practically speaking, out of the British empire today and is eager to join the United States," said this paper. "It is either pulling their legs or else has had its own legs badly pulled over this jesting war talk about Australia becoming the 49th state in the American Union."

"Proud of Nationhood."

"It would be a mistake to take THE TRIBUNE too seriously, but its readers should be told the truth about this country," the Courier-Mail editorial went on.

"Australians hope that out of the war time alliance between the American and British peoples there will develop a close and enduring association which will serve peace and freedom thruout the world. At the same time Australians remain intensely proud of their own nationhood with its roots deep in breed and loyalty."

The Melbourne Argus, under the headline, "New Worlds for Old," likewise did not take kindly to THE TRIBUNE suggestion.

"Setting up of an international organization to insure permanent peace and fair dealing among all nations will tax the diplomatic, political, and juridical skill of the victor nations," the Argus said in part. "The closest coöperation between the British commonwealth and the United States is necessary, but the interests and views of the other united nations have to be considered."

"Will Remain British."

The Sydney Sun labeled its editorial, "The Cartwheel Colonel," and commented:

"That stanch isolationist, Col. Robert R. McCormick, the big boss of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, seems to have departed from his isolationism in a series of mental cartwheels. If the gallant colonel is not, as might be suspected, a humorist who had long hidden his light under a bushel, he might postpone his big push and consult his fellow Americans.

"What is British will ever remain British and despite the McCormick thesis will stand beside Americans in evergrowing, close, and friendly contacts."

450 Resume Work Ending Western Foundry Strike

Approximately 450 workers returned to their jobs yesterday at the Western Foundry company, 3634 South Kedzie avenue, after a 24 hour strike over the status of a coworker. It was the third walkout in four weeks. The workers are members of the United Steel Workers, CIO. The third strike arose over Eliseo Garcia who was refused work by the company on the ground he had quit. The strikers insisted he hadn't. Federal conciliators, aided by Lt. George Barnes of the police labor detail, persuaded the men to end the strike, promising that all their grievances, including the Garcia matter, will be examined.

U. S. PICKS MAJ. GEN. RUSSELL MAXWELL TO COMMAND CAMP ELLIS

Maj. Gen. Russell Maxwell, former commander of United States forces in the middle east, with headquarters in Cairo, Egypt, today will assume command of Camp Ellis, the new army service forces training center near Lewistown, 55 miles southwest of Peoria. Gen. Maxwell's assignment was announced last night by Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, chief of the 6th service command.

Maj. Gen. Maxwell.

Gen. Maxwell, a native of Oakdale [Washington county], Ill., is 53 years old. He was appointed to the United States military academy from Modesto, Cal., in 1908 and upon being commissioned in 1912 was sent to Hawaii as a second lieutenant of field artillery. After commanding the army's largest powder making arsenal in World War I. he was sent to the army of occupation and spent two years in Coblenz, Germany.

The British made Gen. Maxwell a Companion of the Bath for his lend-lease work in the middle east.

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—The war department today announced award of the air medal to four Illinois members of the army air forces for anti-submarine patrol flights over the Atlantic ocean. Those honored are Staff Sergt. Richard A. Peterson, 1700 South Eighth avenue, Maywood; Sergt. Frank G. Zern, Deer Creek, and Staff Sergt. Arthur H. Burrow, Altamont, all radio operators, and Corp. Walter A. Bohnenstiehl, Troy, a bombardier.

MERGER OF FIVE STATE AID UNITS RECOMMENDED

Consolidation of five Illinois publice assistance benefits under the Illinois public aid commission to save the state money, avoid duplication of activities and provide better control of these closely related programs was voted yesterday at a meeting of the commission. The recommendation will be sent to Gov. Green.

Edward L. Ryerson, chairman, explained that the separate administration of old age assistance, aid to dependent children, unemployment compensation, old age and survivor's insurance, and blind pension programs serves no purpose and is wasteful of state funds.

He pointed out that in 1935 total public assistance benefits averaged $10,189,356 monthly, while in 1942, despite the fact that the need for general relief had declined from 9,800,444 to 2,766,499 payments monthly, the monthly average in public assistance payments had increased to $11,582,054. He said this was due to the expansion of the dependent children and blind pension programs and the organization of old age, unemployment, and survivor's benefits.

PIPE LINE CREWS ARM OVER UNION THREATS, CLAIM

Cincinnati, O., April 30 (AP).—B. E. Hull, head of War Emergency Pipeline, Inc., said today workmen on a vital auxiliary oil line at Illmo, Mo., near Cape Girardeau, had armed themselves because he said union organizers had threatened them.

Hull said a fight between members of the two groups had resulted in the jailing of two or three men who are now out on bond.

Hull said the sheriff "insists it is a matter for the United States government" to handle.

Hull said one contractor has employed armed guards after what he said was "plain intimidation of the men by organizers who have been offered work and have refused it.

"The organizers insist," Hull said, "that all they want is the union dues."

LAWMAKERS PUT U. OF I. OBSTACLE COURSE TO TEST

3 Demonstrate How Not to Run It.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., April 30.—House Floor Leader Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown] led two fellow legislators in a brief but exciting personal examination of the University of Illinois obstacle course today as members of the assembly completed their biennial inspection of the university.

It was an impromptu exhibition of how the obstacle course, or part of it, should not be run. For example, the lawmakers negotiated the "roost crawl" backward. The light was better for the photographers that way.

With Cutler were Rep. Ragnar G. Nelson [R., Chicago] and Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago]. Later Rep. Noble Lee [R., Chicago] tackled the entire run and scaled every obstacle.

An Earnest Exhibition.

Lee's exhibition was more earnest but less amusing than that of Cutler and his crew on the roost crawl and Cutler's attempt to get into the culvert crawl.

The legislators, not only the four active members but also the more passive men and women of the general assembly, showed interest in the obstacle course, which has been constructed as an aid in the Commando type of physical training. As the tour of inspection passed, a group of navy students performed the 440 yard run with its 25 obstacles as it should be done.

At a luncheon President A. C. Willard of the university listed one way the war is touching the university when he drew a comparison of the first 18 months of this war and all of the World war.

President A. C. Willard of the university in introducing Dr. Harno listed another way the war is touching the university when he drew a comparison between the first 18 months of this war and all of the World war.

70 Alumni Killed in War.

"In the first World war 10,000 men from the university—students, faculty, and alumni—were called into service," he said. "The names of 184 persons who were killed in that war appear on 184 of the 200 columns in memorial stadium. In this war so far I estimate that 12,000 alumni, students, and faculty members are in the service, and to date more than 70 of them have been killed."

At a reserve officers' training corps review this afternoon the legislators viewed another war time innovation—the women's auxiliary training corps. Uniformed girls participated in the review along with the corps of men officer material. The review provided an significant end for the first inspection of the university by a legislative group since the opening of the war.

An underlying and friendly pressure to increase the university budget to the requests made for it has been scarcely noticed on the inspection trip.

The controversy threatened to break into the open at last night's banquet, but the speakers steered clear of the subject except for a few slanting references to budget and appropriations.

STEEL PLANTS FIRST TO FEEL COAL SHORTAGE

Most Have Supply for Only Few Days.

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—A coal famine would hit the nation's war-vital steel making industry first and hardest. Some of the railroads see a danger signal, too.

An Associated Press survey made tonight, as the deadline for a work stoppage in the great majority of both soft and hard coal mines of the country neared, found steel men reporting that fuel on hand at some of the big mills is enough to provide only for three weeks or even less.

Fuels Coördinator Harold Ickes estimated that generally there is only about one month's supply of coal above ground.

A spokesman for United States steel said that corporation had a two or three weeks supply, but that a stoppage in bituminous production would mean a 25 per cent reduction of operations within the first week in subsidiary plants at Gary, Ind., and South Chicago.

Other Companies Report.

Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, commented that "if there is a coal strike it will be a matter of only two or three weeks before the industry is forced to shut down."

Carnegie-Illinois at Pittsburgh said it had enough for 10 days, but that if a complete stoppage of coal mining came steel production in the Pittsburgh and Youngstown, O., area would begin dropping as much as 10 per cent after three or four days.

In general, the smaller steel making plants reported situations similar to the big producers.

The supply prospects for other war plants appeared to be better than that of steel, with some exceptions.

Oscar F. Ostby, assistant deputy coördinator of solid fuels for New England, estimated there is 40 days' supply of bituminous coal in his area.

Power Supply Endangered.

But the Rochester, N. Y., Gas and Electric corporation said a coal strike would have immediate effect on the amount of electricity and gas supplied big war plants in that city, including the optical firms of Bausch & Lomb and Eastman Kodak.

From the great industrial cities dotted along the shores of the Great Lakes, especially steel towns, came expressions of fear of imminent danger of coal famine. William J. McGarry, manager of the Cleveland Ore and Coal Exchange, said that coal on hand and in transit on the lakes represented "less than seven days' dumping to Great Lakes vessels."

Railroad Supplies Low.

Some of the railroads, busy in these days carrying coal to war plants, themselves are worried over coal supplies.

Missouri-Pacific spokesmen said that road was in "bad shape" for coal, would begin to feel the effect of a coal strike in a week and shut down 17 days after one started.

In the Chicago area, a survey indicated that railroad stocks varied from 10 to 45 days.

In most cases the shortage was not so imminent for utilities which, generally, said they were well stocked. And with spring here, householders in most areas had little reason to worry.

Never to Marry
by ALICE DUER MILLER
Author of Marry My Daughter and many other popular novels.

A different kind of a heroine in this interesting new serial beginning tomorrow in the Chicago Tribune
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

HERE'S HOW THE STORY STARTS:

THE December sun poured through the wide, square windows of one of the small classrooms in the science building. A senior leaned forward with her fountain pen poised.

"Dr. Carey," she said, "may I ask if it is correct—that someone has said that mathematics is the subject in which you never know what you are talking about, or whether what you say is true?"

Dr. Carey, Ph.D., was, rather surprisingly, a pretty woman of 26. She leaned back against the blackboard, with her hands on the narrow ledge that holds the chalk, and looked down at her class.

"I believe," she said, "that Bertrand Russell did say that once—in one of his more impish moments."

Another student spoke up. "Dr. Carey do you absolutely believe in the Fourth Dimension?" She spoke, not so much from interest in the subject, as in the hope this was the sort of question that did you good at examination time.

Dr. Carey gave a low light laugh. "You couldn't have asked me a more awkward question," she answered.

"I believe God gave us the integers and from them, with nothing but our intellects to help us, we have reared a body of knowledge—mathematics—that brings us nearer to the eternal verities than any other form of human knowledge. Only I know Mr. Pegrim not only disagrees with me, but would like to boil me in oil, for venturing to teach such heresy to undergraduates . . ." She stopped, aware that she ought not to have said Mr. Pegrim would like to boil her in oil, although she most potently believed it.

Instantly all the seniors decided to accept Miss Carey's mathematical creed, not because they were idealists, but because Mr. Pegrim was a dull young man, who snuffled when he lectured, whereas Lorna Carey looked like something between a madonna and a nymph.

As the lecture ended, several of the class grouped themselves about Miss Carey's desk—interested in the subject of higher spaces, but more interested in the problem of the lecturer's inner self. Even seniors who had had more than three years of experimentation in managing their instructors found themselves baffled by this newcomer, who was so vivid and intimate as a lecturer and so cool and elusive outside the classroom.

THEIR investigations were cut short, however, by the entrance of a small, serious colored boy in a page's uniform, carrying a telegram for Miss Carey. She held out her hand calmly. An orphan without brothers or sisters, she would not in any case have anticipated disaster, for she was naturally optimistic. As she opened it, her mind was busy with the possibilities of good news—that she had been called to a great coeducational western university—that some college president had read her articles in the current Scripta Mathematics and felt he simply could not carry on any longer without their author.

Having decided rather definitely not to marry, and yet having no taste for the cloister, she knew that a coeducational college would be the best place for her. She had seen too often the fate of women scholars who married—always sacrificing their own careers for their husbands'. Her own career was dear to her, but at the same time she relished the society of the opposite sex . . .

She read the telegram—sprang up, made her way out among her pupils and once outside began to run across the campus.

Is Lorna Carey to be jolted out of her peaceful college career? Will her beloved mathematics shield her from romance? Be sure to read this exciting new serial. It has a different slant and a surprise ending—beginning tomorrow in the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

U. S. BREAKS TIES IN MARTINIQUE; RECALLS ENVOY

Abrogates Agreement Not to Occupy Isle.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—The United States today acknowledged that all its efforts to persuade the French administration in Martinique to join the allies had ended in a diplomatic failure.

Adm. Georges Robert.

In a sharp note to Adm. Georges Robert, the state department served notice that this country is terminating all existing agreements with him because he is regarded as still loyal to the Vichy government of France.

At the same time Marcel E. Malige, American consul general at Fort de France, was recalled. Diplomatic relations will not be completely severed because Vice Consul Ora Sitton will remain at the island.

[The United States navy is on the job in Martinique, says Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, according to an Associated Press dispatch. "We have representatives right there," the secretary is quoted as saying.]

Occupation Pact Voided.

However, it was explained, Sitton has been instructed to restrict his activities to the protection of American interests and has not been authorized to conduct any negotiations with Adm. Robert.

The action was announced by Secretary of State Cordell Hull. The agreements abrogated by the note include one pledging the United States not to occupy Martinique or other French possessions in the western hemisphere and another under which the admiral pledged himself not to put French men of war in the islands into service.

The abrogation of the agreements would leave the admiral free to recondition the vessels, but they have been partially immobilized and have been idle so long that it is doubtful whether they could be put into action.

Commands Men of War.

French men of war under Robert's command include the aircraft carrier Bearn, the light cruiser Emil Bertin and the training ship Jeanne D'Arc. There are also three armed freighters at Martinique. The Bertin brought a hoard of gold, estimated at from 250 million to 1 billion dollars, to Fort de France after the fall of France in June, 1940.

No immediate explanation of the significance of the abrogation of the agreements and the recall of the consul general were given at the state department, but the moves were interpreted as acknowledgement of the collapse of the diplomatic campaign to persuade Robert to join the allies.

Martinique and French Indo-China are the only segments of the French empire still allied to Vichy. French Indo-China is under Jap domination so that its association with the axis is enforced.

Negotiations with Adm. Robert began last summer and were apparently proceeding smoothly until the American invasion of North Africa. To break the admiral's stiffened attitude toward this country, the state department played its ace card and shut off sorely needed food shipments to Martinique.

AXIS SETS ASIDE ZONE FOR SAFETY OF BEY AT TUNIS

New York, April 30 (AP).—The office of war information tonight reported the Berlin radio said the axis has set up a "neutral zone" in Tunisia for the personal safety of the bey of Tunis and his court.

The broadcast said the zone was set aside "at the personal request" of the bey and that the axis expects the allies to respect the area by refraining from air raids there.

The zone includes the bey's residence, near the Tunis harbor, the broadcast said, and is an irregular area bounded by the sea, being three miles long on its longest side.

SMITTY—GETTING THE SHORT END OF IT

Does Her Part in Two Wars

WAAC WHO WED '17 YANK AWAITS GRANDMA ROLE

Hopes Baby Arrives on Her Furlough.

She packed bullets for British Tommies in World War I., but she married a Yank, and she's in Uncle Sam's army now. That is the war work story of Auxiliary 1st Class Jessie Graham, 44 years old, home on leave from Camp Upton, N. Y., and hoping she'll be a grandmother before she has to go back!

Mrs. Graham was working in the Woolwich arsenal, London, when she met Harry R. Graham of Chicago, overseas with the 33d division in 1918. He was wounded at the Somme and shipped home, but he remembered the girl in England and went back for her in 1920. They settled in Chicago, where Graham represented the third generation of a family in the cleaning and dyeing business. America wasn't new to his wife. As a youngster of 15 she'd toured the United States, singing in a traveling company of the musical show, "Irene."

Active in Legion.

Thru the years the Grahams were active in American Legion units. Mrs. Graham is the immediate past president of the John F. Conley Post auxiliary and the first WAAC in the 9th legion district. And besides working in the auxiliary, Mrs. Graham also helped her husband.

When this war came, the Grahams wanted to serve again. Mrs. Graham wound armatures for industry before going into the WAACs last December.

Husband Harry, 46 years old, twinkling eyed and proud of his wife, is ready to join any service that'll have him. "Until they need me," he says, "I'm an OCD auxiliary policeman, a chairman of the 9th district Sons of American Legion for the fourth year, and, believe it or not, a regular reader of THE TRIBUNE column, Women in War Work. I have to keep up with those girls."

Sister Also a WAAC.

Auxiliary Graham was trained at Fort Des Moines, Ia., and is now in charge of the war department stationery warehouse at Camp Upton, N. Y., where her husband shipped out in 1918. But she has signed for foreign duty and her dream is to return to England to take up this war's duties where she left off last time. She might even meet her sister from California there, because the latter has joined the WAACs, too.

With mother in the WAACs and dad willing to join any outfit that'll take him, the Grahams closed their home at 18 South Kildare avenue and are staying with their son, George, 21 years old, and his wife, at 1228 North Lawndale avenue. A war worker now, young Graham expects to be in service soon, too.

Meanwhile, the entire family is awaiting a blessed event. The prospective grandmother said her furlough ends a little before that special date, but, she added, "I'm still hoping. Miracles do happen, you know, and I'd like one in the next day or so."

GERMAN LABOR GETS VACATION MAY DAY, BUT RUSSIANS TOIL ON

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

German war workers were given a "day of rest" today in observance of May day, but Russians went to their jobs as usual on this traditional soviet holiday. Occupied France delayed its celebration until Sunday.

Mixing propaganda with benevolence, the Berlin radio said last night that "foreign workmen will thus see for themselves how National Socialist [Nazi] Germany celebrates this festival of working people." No parades or meetings were planned in Germany, but the radio said Robert Ley, leader of the labor front, "gave a sign of appreciation for the efforts of the German people, as well as foreign workmen employed in Germany."

In Russia May day frequently has been a festive occasion for a display of military might, but Moscow dispatches said the soviet workers today would continue turning out war material.

The Vichy radio said Marshal Petain would make a broadcast as part of France's Sunday celebration.

FATHERS IN JOBS NON-ESSENTIAL BEING DRAFTED

Inclusion of fathers in Illinois draft calls by some boards when they ordinarily would have a 3-A classification was explained yesterday by Col. Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service. The men being called for induction, according to Armstrong, are those engaged in nondeferrable activities.

Men engaged in 70 nondeferrable occupations and services are being reclassified to 1-A and made subject to induction according to their order numbers regardless of the age of their children. These men were told in February to quit such occupations as the glass, jewelry and art trades, liquor, candy and florist businesses, bartending, elevator operating, houseman, messenger service, beauty parlors, and other luxury services by April 1 and get into one of 35 essential occupations or face induction.

The present order for calling men for induction takes single men first, men with collateral dependents second, childless married men third, and those who have not qualified for 3-A deferment last. No father who is not engaged in a nondeferrable job may be called without orders from the national director of selective service. This category includes men whose children were born before Sept. 15, 1942.

JAP-AMERICAN MECHANICS OUT OF CHICAGO JOB

Efforts to place interned Japanese in Chicago industries which are short of workers struck a snag yesterday. Don Burrows, business manager of the Auto Mechanics union, local 701, sent a complaint to the American Federation of Labor, charging that two former internees are now working as mechanics for a Chicago automobile dealer whose shop has been picketed by the union for the last four years.

According to Burrows, the men are employed by Petersen's Michigan Avenue Chevrolet Sales and Service, 2401 South Michigan avenue. Until the government establishes stricter supervision of released internees, he will permit no more of them to work in shops controled by his union, Burrows said.

Carl Petersen, head of the picketed company, said he had been informed the two men were not Japanese, but Chinese-Hawaiians. Elmer L. Shirrell, regional director of the war relocation authority, said his investigators had reported one of the men was a Chinese-Hawaiian and the other a Japanese-American citizen from an internment camp. Shirrell informed the Japanese of the union protest, and said the man had agreed to quit the job at the end of the week.

FINLAND SHIFTS DIPLOMAT; BID TO PLEASE U. S. SEEN

HELSINFORS, Finland, April 30 (AP).—Aaro Pakaslahti, secretary general of the foreign office [undersecretary], was appointed Finnish minister to France today and was succeeded at the foreign office by Paavo Hynninen, once Finland's envoy to Moscow. Pakaslahti's transfer, observers said, was calculated to please the United States legation.

[Stockholm dispatches this month said Pakaslahti was known as strongly pro-German. Other Stockholm dispatches today reported that Gen. Axel E. Heinrichs, chief of staff, has succeeded Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim temporarily as commander of the Finnish forces. Heinrichs was trained in Germany and is regarded as pro-German.]

GOVERNOR SAYS 4TH TERM WILL BREED HATRED

St. Louis, Mo., April 30 (AP).—A fourth term campaign by President Roosevelt would bring "bitterness and hatred" even if it were successful, Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska told the American Foundrymen's convention tonight.

"It will receive the bitter disapproval of such a large percentage that the very campaign itself will throw a terrific strain upon our war effort," Griswold asserted.

"Yet there is nothing any of us can do. The decision to throw the nation into that maelstrom rests in the hands of one man. We can do something concretely, however, to pledge at least one 1944 candidate to only one term, and a man should be nominated who sincerely believes in that policy."

TURKEY FREES 16 U. S. AIRMEN AND SIX BRITISH

ANKARA, Turkey, April 30 (AP).—Sixteen United States airmen and six British flyers interned in Turkey after forced landings on Turkish soil left Ankara today for Cairo.

They were freed under an agreement among the Turkish government and belligerents providing for the release of interned allied and axis airmen.

Some Americans had been in Turkey since June 12, 1942, when they were forced down during the first all-American raid over Europe, an attack on Rumanian oil fields.

POLES DROP PLEA FOR SMOLENSK SLAYING PROBE

Request 'Has Lapsed,' Premier Reveals.

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—The Polish government in exile said in an official statement today that its request for an investigation by the International Red Cross into German charges that Russia had killed 10,000 Polish officers near Smolensk now was regarded "as having lapsed."

The announcement was welcomed immediately in some diplomatic circles here as an indication that the question of an inquiry was not to be pursued, and would aid efforts to mend broken Soviet-Polish diplomatic relations. But these sources said it should have been issued as part of Wednesday's statement which appealed "for the release" of Poles still in Russia.

"In their communique issued April 28 the Polish government did not revert to their appeal to the International Red Cross committee to investigate the graves of Polish officers found near Smolensk, the discovery of which was exploited by German propaganda," the statement said.

Appeal Now Has Lapsed.

"In their reply to the Polish government, the International Red Cross committee explained the difficulties which they found in the way of complying with the Polish request.

"In the circumstances, the Polish government regard their appeal as having lapsed."

Despite today's announcement soviet circles took the view that the question of an inquiry had become a secondary matter. The British Press association quoted one Russian source as saying:

"It is now a comparatively minor point.

"The Poles will have to go a long way further before there is any hope of healing the breach. The Polish statement tonight was the least the government could have done and it only was issued in response to world opinion."

Relations Severed Sunday.

Russia severed diplomatic relations with the Polish government in exile last Sunday.

[Die Nation, an anti-Nazi newspaper of Berne, Switzerland, suggested in an article reported to the office of war information in New York Friday that if an International Red Cross commission investigates the Nazi stories of bodies near Smolensk, it should "visit Warsaw and the mass graves on the outskirts of that town" en route. "The investigation probably would be worth while," the newspaper added. "It belongs to the picture of 'new Europe.'"]

New Attack by Polish Paper.

MOSCOW, April 30 (AP).—The Polish language newspaper Volva Polska launched a new editorial attack today on the Polish government in exile in London, declaring that it had "fulfilled a suicidal plan of worsening relations with the soviet union."

The editorial, reprinted in the Communist party organ Pravda, asserted the Polish people themselves knew the Germans had accused the Russians of slaying 10,000 Polish officers in the Smolensk area merely for propaganda purposes.

REPORT LAVAL HURT BY BOMB ON HITLER TRIP

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Brazzaville radio of the Fighting French in Equatorial Africa said last night in a broadcast reported to the office of war information that Pierre Laval, French chief of government, was injured by a time bomb while returning to Paris from a conference with Adolf Hitler. The report was not confirmed immediately by any source.

The Brazzaville report said a bomb exploded in the sleeping compartment occupied by Laval and his finance secretary, Pierre Cathala, and that cathala has been wounded seriously. Laval, it was said, was wounded only slightly.

The Berlin radio said Laval conferred with Hitler at the latter's headquarters Thursday and that "full understanding" was reached on "questions pending between Germany and Italy on one side and France on the other."

CURB ON F. D. R.'S 11 MILLION ARMY GOAL DEMANDED

Program Exceeds Need, Senators Assert.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Attacking President Roosevelt's determination, as expressed yesterday, to build an army and navy of 11 million men by the end of 1943, two influential Democrats in the senate today demanded that corrective steps be taken to halt expansion of a huge standing army which cannot be sent abroad.

Sen. E. C. Johnson.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] declared that he will press for passage of his bill to exempt married men with children from the draft, saying that homes are going to be broken up unnecessarily and morale and morals endangered if the administration sticks to its plans. Sen. Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], member of the senate military affairs committee, again demanded that all drafting except of 18 year olds for replacements be halted immediately.

Huge Political Army Seen

Johnson said that some people are more interested in building a huge "political" army, to impress the other nations when the peace treaty comes up for discussion, than in a strictly "military" army.

The fear has been expressed in some congressional quarters, also, that the militarists are building an enormous army to control the country rather than to make war.

"I'm interested only in the military angles and my conclusions are based upon mathematics, as used by the military authorities themselves," said Johnson.

"When the war department itself says it can have only 2,700,000 men overseas in 1943 and a total of 4,750,000 overseas by the end of 1944, I can certainly see no necessity for an army of more than 6,500,000. If drafting is stopped now there would still be ample men in the army to fulfill the needs. There are 73,000 18 year olds qualified for military service coming along monthly and these would supply the necessary replacements."

Black Markets Encouraged.

Wheeler also contended that the administration is absorbing more men into the army than can be sent to the fighting fronts in view of shipping facilities. Also inflation and black markets are being encouraged by reducing production of civilian goods thru the shifting of men out of production into the army, he said. Another result of the oversized army, he added, will be an increase in juvenile delinquency as homes are broken up and mothers are forced to work while the fathers are standing around in the army somewhere in the United States.

"I noticed President Roosevelt's statement to the effect that he has no intention of changing the size of the army," said Wheeler. "I would find no fault with the President's determination to build up an armed force of 11 million men providing that it were possible to use them effectively in Europe or Asia.

"But when one realizes that it's impossible to send more than 2 million men with equipment and supplies to Europe or Asia or Africa this year, and, when if we didn't take any new men into the army before Dec. 31, 1944, we would still have left in this country something over 1,500,000 men, it just doesn't make sense to me to have all these boys in camps thruout the United States doing nothing except drilling.

Called Bad for Morale.

"It isn't a good thing for the morale of the country or the morals of the country," he continued. "When these men are taken into the camps you're taking them out of productive pursuits. We are talking a great deal about preventing inflation and preventing black markets. But the way to stop black markets and prevent inflation is to increase production of domestic food products and everything else that civilians not only need but want.

"If you have an abundance of food, clothes, shoes, and everything else that civilians buy you never need to worry about inflation.

"Again, why should we break up the homes of America, taking married men and married men with children and putting them into camps to train when we haven't got the ships to send them to the fighting fronts? What can be the real purpose of such a move? Certainly, there's no danger of an invasion of this country when the Germans couldn't invade England and the Japs are all tied up in the south Pacific.

"If we didn't take another man into the army in 1943 we would still have left about 4 million men in the army, to say nothing of the navy, to defend this country."

Wheeler then struck at draft dodging within the administration burocracy. He recalled that Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson opposed the Wheeler bill to exempt married men with children and declared that if Stimson would examine the civilian pay roll of his own department "he would find the war department is one of the worst offenders in draft dodging by single men."

"What the American people want isn't a lot of ballyhoo on fighting the war by Washington propagandists but some common horse sense used in the administration of the various departments, including the war department itself," Wheeler added.

9 YANKS IN SICILY BOMBING SAVED AT SEA BY R. A. F.

2 Chicagoans Hurt, One of Crew Lost.

VALETTA, Malta, April 30 (AP).—Nine American airmen whose B-24 [Liberator] bomber crashed into the sea 160 miles off Malta after a bitter battle over Messina, Sicily, Wednesday, told today how they "rubbed Aladdin's magic lamp" and were picked up in the nick of time by an R. A. F. rescue launch.

A one hour miscalculation on time played an important part in their rescue but the boys, recovering in a hospital from their crash injuries, still scarcely realized their good luck in this respect.

The rescued are:

Crew Member Believed Killed.

The 10th crew member is missing and believed killed in the crash.

The survivors, all injured and recovering, said:

They were flying many thousand feet high almost over the Messina target when one engine quit, but they were so near their objective that they tried to continue and were jumped by eight Messerschmitts.

All agreed that four of the attackers were downed for certain and probably a fifth but the remaining Messerschmitts shot out the second engine on the same side.

The pilot, unable to maintain altitude, turned home, but seeing that he would be unable to reach base he gave the crew this choice:

"Do you birds prefer to turn back and bail out over Sicily or try to reach Malta and probably land in the drink?" All unanimously elected to try Malta.

Plane Breaks in Three Parts.

Finally the plane crash-landed in the ocean and broke into three parts. Nine men were thrown or climbed clear and managed to inflate two dinghies.

A companion Liberator remained overhead covering them until an R. A. F. Baltimore arrived on reconnaissance. The Baltimore dropped chocolate bars, hand flares and this note:

"There will be a rescue launch after you at 1900 G. M. T. Good luck to you blokes. Cheerio." The Americans figured this would be 10 p. m., not realizing that because of the difference in Malta time it actually would be an hour earlier.

All afternoon the men remained cheery, but when it got dark, Savaria said, "we were pretty skeptical about being picked up." Huddling in the dinghies in the chill dark, the wounded men anxiously waited until exactly 10 o'clock, then set off their flares.

Like Rubbing Magic Lamp.

Almost at once, seemingly out of nowhere, appeared an R. A. F. launch. "It was like rubbing Aladdin's magic lamp—and there the boat was," exclaimed Sergt. McKinley.

Actually the launch had been searching the assigned area for an hour. The dinghies had drifted 30 miles and might have been missed if the men had used the flares at the correct time instead of unwittingly waiting until the launch, which was moving in widening circles, was near enough to see them.

"It was lucky for us," said McKinley, "as we are sure some of the men wouldn't have been able to survive until morning."

In Wednesday's daylight attack on Messina by a Liberator formation of the 9th United States air force, numerous direct hits were scored on ferry slips, terminal building, railroad sidings, and on a port power station.

SMASH WINDOW, ROB CAFE.

HAMMER ATTACK SUSPECT PLEADS HIS INNOCENCE

Two minutes after five indictments were returned yasterday against Eugene A. Schmittling, 24 years old, accused hammer and knife attacker, he was arraigned before Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court. He pleaded not guilty to each charge.

First Assistant State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley asked Schmittling to submit to a psychiatric examination in the court's behavior clinic, and the prisoner agreed. Judge Sbarbaro set his first trial for May 10 on a charge of assault to kill Dorothy Fendrick, 14, of 1814 North Francisco avenue, who said she dodged a knife flung at her by Schmittling.

Two other indictments charge him with assault with intent to kill, and the two remaining ones charge assault to commit rape. Schmittling, a factory worker, lives at 322 North Kedzie avenue.

Tells Judge Gentleman Certainly No Gentleman

Patrick Gentleman, 49 years old, faced Judge Frank E. Donoghue yesterday on a charge of attempted extortion. "And he's certainly no gentleman," Miss Henrietta Luedthe, the complainant, told the court. "He came into my beauty shop and threatened to kill me unless I gave him $25 for a ticket to California." Gentleman denied he had threatened Miss Luedthe, and when evidence showed he had been drinking, Judge Donoghue placed him on probation for a year.

DO YOU WANT AN ESSENTIAL OCCUPATION WITH A POST-WAR FUTURE?

We need a number of men for permanent positions as "mechanical tabulating equipment mechanics"—officially defined by Selective Service headquarters as an essential occupation.

WE are a large, well-established manufacturer of office machines and equipment. Our entire production is going to war manufacturers and government bureaus. We urgently need men who are mechanically minded—not necessarily with mechanical experience—to keep these essential office machines operating at top speed in war plants and government offices. We teach you everything you need to know about the machines, and we pay you a salary while you are learning. The positions are permanent, with excellent opportunities for advancement.

YOU are a man with a knack for mechanical work, even though you may not be using that knack at present. You are a high-school graduate and U. S. citizen. The armed forces have passed you by, and will continue to do so. You are not doing war work now. You are ambitious, loyal, a good worker, eager to get ahead.

YOU AND WE should get together. Write us a brief confidential letter, telling us about yourself. Give us also your age and phone number. Write today if possible.

ADDRESS B T 464 Tribune

P.S. Do you have a friend who should know about this opportunity? We'd appreciate your calling him about it—and so would he!

Thought He 'Wasn't Ever Gonna Be Home Again.'

Washington, D. C., April 30 [Special].—Seaman John Andrew Urtchock, a New York sandwich maker before he joined the navy in 1942, told today thru a navy department release how he was washed off the deck of his destroyer and 40 minutes later was tossed on another destroyer by a huge wave.

Urtchock had just finished evening chow in the crew's mess forward, and was heading aft for his quarters.

It had been a rough day, and Seaman Urtchock wasn't feeling so good. The ship was pitching and rolling, and he had never seen anything like it all the time he'd been to sea. You just couldn't get by on the main deck, so Seaman Urtchock, as the navy explains it, "was using the torpedo deck and top of the after deck house for passage aft." In landsmen's language, that means he was taking a detour to get home.

Goes Sailing Overboard.

At the after gun, Urtchock stopped to chat with a friend. "Maybe we'll be home tomorrow?" Urtchock said. The friend seemed skeptical and mumbled that something might happen.

"Why," said Urtchock, "what do you mean? What could happen?"

The ocean gave answer. It came up with a rush, a big wave hit the deck house, the destroyer shook, and Urtchock went sailing overboard.

"My first thought," Seaman Urtchock said, "was that nobody saw me go over."

But they had. The cry went up, "man overboard!" and they started in trying to rescue him. Urtchock's chances didn't look good.

"The waves," he said, "looked the same as three story buildings." The destroyer couldn't get near him; there wasn't a chance of lowering a boat.

Struggles for 40 Minutes.

He struggled for 40 minutes, aided by a life ring somebody tossed out to him.

"I was getting very weary, you might say, and I thought I wasn't ever gonna be home again—not ever," Urtchock related.

Then it happened. Another destroyer came bearing down and a big wave came up and washed Urtchock right up on it. He landed with a slam on the new destroyer's fantail, and several sailors leaped on him to prevent him from washing right back overboard again.

"Thanks, buddies," said Seaman Urtchock. "This deck sure is a sight for sore eyes."

Inquest Ordered in Death of Boy Injured by Knife

The lad died Thursday in County hopsital. His mother, Mrs. Miguel Barra, said he fell on the knife last Dec. 14 while playing, and that the blade penetrated his head.

SAYRE DEMANDS WORLD LAW IN POST-WAR ERA

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—Rome's ancient empire and the commonwealth of nations evolved by imperial Britain, based on foundations of law and justice, blazed the trail which planners of a free post-war world must follow, Francis B. Sayre, special assistant to the secretary of state, said here tonight.

Francis B. Sayre.

In an address before the American Society of International Law, Sayre asserted the world must build up a body of practice and of law giving expression to the conscience of mankind insofar as it relates to the rights of nations and of peoples.

"This does not mean," Sayre explained, "creating overnight a world government with sweeping and general power to invade the domestic affairs of sovereign states. It does mean the delegation to some international organization of certain carefully defined and restricted power."

Such powers, he suggested, would prevent territorial aggression, regulate and control heavy armament building in all countries, administer and supervise the government of backward areas, and attack "certain discriminatory and anti-social practices in the field of international trade and finance."

EX-BELLHOP, 24, ON FEDERAL LIST AS KEY WORKER

House Probers Tell Fight to Escape Draft.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—A 24 year old ex-bell hop and a junior engineering aid, 18, with less than a year's experience on the government pay roll, are among the "nonreplaceable" government employés who have received draft deferments, a house subcommittee revealed today.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. John M. Costello [D., Cal.] cited four cases of unidentified young men who were deferred from fighting service as essential employés altho their previous experience included such jobs as valet, theater usher, chauffeur, and insurance salesman.

Start Hearings Monday.

At the same time, the investigating group announced that public hearings will begin Monday in connection with complaints over deferments which have been granted to employés of the office of war information, the administration's propaganda agency which has been a storm center of criticism in and out of congress for several months.

"It appears that a certain percentage of OWI personnel being sent overseas is made up of persons of draft age for whom deferments have been obtained," the Costello committee's announcement said.

Altho these individuals are being sent overseas, it was noted, their job is not fighting but merely continuation of the propaganda work which they have been carrying on at home.

The committee gave no clew to the identities of the individuals in the four deferment cases it cited or to the agencies which requested the deferments.

The first case was that of an unmarried man, 23, employed as a cipher and code clerk, who previously was a theater usher, chauffeur, and insurance agent. The report said that nothing indicates he has had previous experience in code or cipher work, yet he is awaiting assignment overseas for confidential service.

Brief Employment Indicated.

The committee said this individual has been classified 4-F [deferred because of physical disability] and there is nothing to show that his physical condition would justify overseas service any more than his experience justifies his holding his present job.

Another case was that of a senior engineering aid, 24, also unmarried, whose previous jobs included those of theater attendance checker, bellboy, elevator operator, and valet. In this case, it was disclosed, the government request for "continued classification as 2-B" [deferred because of employment in war production] for him has been rejected and he has been reclassified 1-A [available for military service].

An army tank engaged in 2d army maneuvers over the rolling country in the vicinity of Lebanon, Tenn., has found one ditch a little too tough, and has ended up a "war" casualty, with its crew planning the next step. The men in the maneuvers are being given a "hardening" course.

WAR MANEUVERS PROVE 2D ARMY IN FIGHTING TRIM

Troops Await Next Phase of Combat Problem.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Field Headquarters, 2d Army, Lebanon, Tenn., April 30.—Second army troops are nearing their finished fighting form, in the opinion of their officers, it appeared from observations of commanders at the close of today's critique on the first problem in the 1943 maneuvers which ended yesterday with the Blues' capture of the Lebanon rail head.

The officers' discussion, in which the results of the recent action were taken apart and examined, was closed to the press, as in previous maneuvers.

Reports emanating from the critique, however, said there was general agreement that the troops acquitted themselves well, and are better disciplined and better trained than those in last year's war practice.

Fredendall Finds Improvement.

Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, new 2d army commander, commented on the great improvement shown, particularly in the response of men to orders and the rapidity with which jams in the movement of large quantities of weapons and equipment were cleared up.

The general stressed again the extreme need of air consciousness by officers and troops alike.

He told officers to drill their men in the doctrine that digging in should become automatic. At the front men should fight from fox holes and sleep in slit trenches to minimize danger from the skies, he said.

Gen. Fredendall has announced that air borne troops will participate in the current phase of the present maneuvers, perhaps early in June. Both parachute and glider troops will be employed. Air-ground coördination is the principal innovation in these games, which are built around the recently developed use of self-sufficient combat teams.

Air Force Wants Action.

Col. Robert M. Lee, spokesman for the air forces participating, urged the officers at the critique to make full use of this arm, emphasizing that his squadrons are "rarin'" to take on the toughest assignments.

Main roads surrounding this village of 6,000 persons were alive today with mechanized and wheeled units moving into bivouac areas handy to the scene of next week's problems, the locale and nature of which will remain secret until action opens.

The weary troops, some of whom made forced marches of 35 miles in seven hours during the recent engagement, will rest up over the week-end. Midnight passes will be given 75 per cent of the men each night and they will be transported to and from the furlough points of their choice within a radius of 60 miles from bivouac.

With her husband, she had written several works on trade unionism, government, and coöperative movements.

CHICAGOANS CUT MAY 1 JOB DOWN TO MOVERS' SIZE

Only Half as Many Change Addresses.

The annual May 1 move of thousands of Chicagoans to new living quarters started yesterday with prospects of one of the quietest and least confusing moving days on record, movers, rent authorities, and real estate operators agreed.

Records of the Illinois Bell Telephone company and Commonwealth Edison company indicated that the number of families moving is nearly 50 per cent below last year's total. Thru April 28, the telephone company reported 12,748 telephone changes for the month, compared with 24,840 in the same period last year. Orders to turn on electricity totaled 21,966 from April 1 to 29, compared with 40,192 last year.

Near Completion Today.

Daniel Healy, secretary of the Chicago Movers' association, reported that moving was on a large scale yesterday, with the prospect that it would be almost completed tonight. Little need for movers to operate their equipment tomorrow was seen.

Coöperation between families who have arranged mutually convenient moving days has done much to solve problems of moving companies, Edward D. Byrnes, executive secretary of the National Furniture Warehousemen's association, said yesterday. "Many tenants have visited the families occupying the properties to which they plan to move and agreed upon moving days to avoid the rush," he said. "This neighborly spirit is new and has solved many of the difficulties of former years."

Lack of help is creating problems for many moving companies, Healy and Byrnes said. This was being relieved to some degree by many families who, rather than employ moving companies, have rented small trailers to attach to their family automobiles and have done their own hauling. Several trailer renting concerns in the city reported their business doubled.

Urge Staggered Leases.

Support was being given yesterday by the Chicago Real Estate board and the movers' association to staggered house and apartment leases which would spread moving days thruout the year. "The increasing number of month to month leases necessitated by the war moves is a step in the right direction," said Leonard Downie, business manager of the real estate board.

Burt R. Kiely, president of the real estate board, said that the present occupancy rate of 99.7 per cent was responsible for the decrease in moving.

Few of the anticipated disputes between landlords and tenants refusing to give up their dwellings were reported by John F. McCarthy, attorney for the Chicago rent office.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

Shoot to Kill.

April 30, 1943.

STRAY dogs again are causing serious trouble on the farm and orders have gone out to shoot to kill.

One noon, this week, the flockmaster was eating lunch when he heard his dog bark furiously. Upon investigating he found three mongrels running the yearling ewes. One big black dog had one of the sheep down and was at its throat.

The other two dogs were chasing the sheep up and down the lane leading to the barn. The flockmaster rescued the ewe being attacked, and then ran for his shotgun. He got in one ineffectual blast before the strays disappeared into the woods.

Three Ewes Missing.

A count of the ewes revealed that three were missing. They finally were found in the back of the pasture against the fence where the dogs had chased them. None of the three had been harmed.

Word of the dog raid was phoned thru the farm and the workers quickly assembled with their guns. The flockmaster took his .12 gauge shotgun and saddle horse and covered all the lanes and roads. The other men beat their way thru the woods hoping to catch a glimpse of the culprits.

The dogs disappeared for the rest of the day. On two successive days they were sighted but each time managed to get away before a man with a gun could get within range.

One dog easily may kill 10 or 20 ewes in a short time if it gets among them. This is what generally happens. One or two dogs will run a rabbit into a pasture among a flock of sheep. The sheep become frightened, herd together and start running. This excites the dogs and they chase the ewes. From chasing the fun soon degenerates into wholesale killing. Once a dog gets a taste of this it must be shot, for it cannot be trusted again around sheep.

Fear Loss of Lambs.

The raid this time was particularly dangerous as the ewes were bred late and have not lambed. All are heavy with young, and the running and excitement might have caused them to abort and a lamb crop would have been lost.

There are some new spring arrivals at the farm which have appeared despite cold nights and chilly daytime winds. They are butterflies and dragonflies. Several butterflies were spotted on a trip thru the woods where the cold winds have not robbed the sun of its warmth. The dragonfly was seen darting over the new clover in one of the fields.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

WITH meat rationing affecting the diet of American families, we're likely to see soup moving out of its usual rank as the first course of a meal to become the main course. Housewives can buy soup bones with the surrender of only a few red stamps, so they're looking around for new methods of making nourishing soup dishes.

Many experienced gardeners raise 15 to 25 okra plants every season to be used as soup ingredients. Since okra usually is planted during the first ten days of May, these hints on its culture may be helpful:

Tall Perkins variety is used in the sample gardens on the Tribune's Wheaton farm. The seeds should be planted an inch deep, and when the stalks are six inches tall the seedlings should be thinned to stand a foot apart in the row.

Okra plants produce a large, attractive orange flower somewhat similar to the hibiscus. After the flower falls a bud forms, and when this bud grows to a length of two to three inches it is ready for use. These bud fruits must be picked often for best flavor, and will continue to produce all summer.

THE TAX BILL.

The treasury department has given its indorsement to the tax bill recommended by the majority of the ways and means committee of the house. Debate on the proposal will start when congress reconvenes on May 3.

The bill is described as a pay-as-you-go measure, which in a sense it is, but that is not its principal characteristic. Primarily it is a bill to increase the treasury's revenues from income taxes in the next few years. It is from that viewpoint that the measure must be examined.

So far as the lower brackets are concerned, there will be little or no change. As incomes rise, the percentage of tax increase rises until, in the highest brackets, the tax bills will be something like 20 per cent higher than under existing arrangements. So far as the very largest incomes are concerned, that will mean that the obligation to the government will actually exceed the total year's income of the taxpayer.

These results are achieved by the scheme adopted for forgiving the taxes on 1942 income. Those in the lower brackets will be forgiven all or almost all of the 1942 obligation and the payments they make this year will be credited to 1943 incomes. As incomes rise, the percentage of forgiveness falls and on the highest incomes only about 10 per cent is written off. The balance due on 1942 account must be paid in not more than three years. That means, to take the extreme case, that the very rich man whose tax now amounts to nine-tenths of his income will have to turn over about 115 per cent of his income received in 1943. To those in the middle and upper brackets who set aside in 1942 the money to pay their taxes on 1942 income, this revision will present no added hardship but those who have not done so will find themselves in desperate straits.

In the narrow political sense, the bill has its attractions. It soaks the minority and adds nothing to the tax burden of the vast majority of the voters. On the other hand, as a measure to increase the government's revenues and particularly as a measure to prevent inflation, there is little to be said for the bill. The great threat of inflation arises from the extremely rapid increase in incomes at the bottom of the scale. They are almost untouched.

MR. DAVIS' HELP.

A member of THE TRIBUNE'S Washington bureau, writing recently about the draft deferments among the 3,641 employés of the office of war information, referred instead to 3,641 deferments for OWI employés. We regret the mistake, and particularly the fact that it was repeated in the editorial columns. Elmer Davis, head of the OWI, seized upon it to denounce the criticism of his agency as "about as much misinformation per square inch as I have ever seen."

Mr. Davis himself admitted in his Chicago speech that the OWI has obtained or sought deferments for nearly a hundred of its employés. He is running a propaganda agency which in its domestic activities is principally engaged in painting the Washington blunderers as attractively as possible, with the object of promoting the fourth term. The contention that a single person could be more useful in such work than in uniform is, of course, ridiculous.

The gravamen of the charge against the OWI lies not in the number of deferments it has sought nor the proportion of draft dodgers among its employés but in the fact that it should have sought a single deferment or should be sheltering a single draft dodger.

Mr. Davis took exception also to our remarks on the infiltration of the agency by Communists, observing that he is as zealous to keep Communists out of the OWI as is Congressman Dies. Again, his own admissions gave him away. Mr. Davis inherited his organization from the fellow traveler MacLeish, who had it well stocked with his breed. Mr. Davis admitted that investigations by the federal bureau of investigation have resulted in the dismissal of some few of his employés. Those who remain he prefers to regard as ex-Communists.

That is a dubious definition. There may be a road back from communism but the deception which is the first principle of that cult makes it impossible to accept gestures of renunciation by its practitioners. If you believed the Communists themselves, when they are trying to cover up, about the only member of their party who could be identified as such in the United States would be Earl Browder.

Mr. Davis has been engaged in journalism for most of his adult life. If, with his experience, he can't spot a Communist without the help of the FBI, he's not smart enough to be running the OWI.

THE PULLMAN SHIP YARD.

The Pullman company's activities in the shipbuilding business form a valuable addition to the war industry and industrial pay rolls of the Chicago area. The company's participation in the war shipping program is of even greater value, however, to the nation.

The Pullman company was founded on an idea for the improvement of transportation so radical and successful that Americans were soon traveling across plains, recently won from the Indians, in greater comfort than Europeans enjoyed in journeys between their ancient capitals. It has been as progressive in its art as the shipbuilders have been backward in theirs, and when it entered that backward industry it took its progressive spirit with it.

Not until this war did the world see the application of the real technic of mass production to shipbuilding, and when it was applied it took such newcomers as the Pullman company and the Kaiser yards to apply it, while the old line shipbuilders were still crying that it couldn't be done.

England led the world in shipbuilding because of its pool of experienced and relatively low paid labor, and in spite of a conservatism in both management and its trade unions that militated against progressive ideas. Our own shipbuilding industry was a second rater because it imitated British practices and sought to overcome the difference in labor costs thru government subventions. Both shipbuilders and ship operators were more interested in lobbying for government pap than in improving their efficiency.

The United States can have a healthy postwar shipbuilding and shipping industry if it wants it. It must adopt the progressive methods that have been originated by the newcomers in the industry. It must kick the shipping lobbyists out of Washington and send them back to their ship yards and ports. And it must run the Communists out of the merchant marine, where they are just as great a threat to our national safety as they would be in the navy.

CLOSET CONFERENCES.

It is impossible to view the secret conference on refugees just concluded in Bermuda with anything but anxiety. The anxiety springs from the secrecy that attended the discussions and not from any lack of appreciation of the harrowing cruelty to which millions of people are being subjected by a bestial conqueror.

The conferees, in that portion of their agreement which they were pleased to make public, were compelled to recognize the most obvious fact of the problem—namely: that the actual refugees are but a tiny proportion of the suffering peoples; that it is impossible to negotiate with the enemy for improvement of the condition of those remaining in his power; and thus that the only real solution depends upon destroying Hitler by military victory. Such measures as can be taken to palliate the distress of those who have escaped the oppressor are to be taken, always with the proper proviso that winning the war must be the first objective.

It was not the announced subject matter of the conference that made it suspect, but the manner in which it was conducted. It cannot be regarded in any other light than as an excuse and improper precedent for further invasion of the rights of the citizen. It is further evidence that the administration's interest is not in operating a government of the people but, instead, a government of insiders, secretly attacking the liberties of the people.

This secrecy in nonmilitary discussions must be stopped. It will be stopped as soon as congress makes clear to the administration that any agreements made in such a manner are valueless inasmuch as they bind no one except the persons in transient power who make them.

CANADIANS GET THE TRUTH.

Postmaster General Mullock of Canada was faced recently by charges, sponsored in some instances by members of the city councils of dominion cities, that cigarets and other gifts sent to soldiers overseas were being stolen from the mail. He set about in systematic fashion to prove the falsity of these rumors. He conducted an investigation in the postal system, got statements from troops overseas, and clinched his case with assurances to the public that the only gifts that had failed to reach the soldiers were those that had been sunk at sea. In proof of this he made public a detailed list of the dates of sinkings and the goods lost.

This is a procedure that could be copied with profit in the United States, and not merely for the reassurance of families that have sent gifts overseas. No one who is acquainted with the uncompromising morality of the postoffice inspectors has many fears about thefts from the United States mails. However, if Postmaster Mullock, to quiet relatively trivial rumors about thefts from the mail, can give the Canadian public details about ship sinkings, why cannot Secretary Knox quit his obfuscations and evasions and make public more informative statistics on our shipping losses to submarines? The Truman committee holds that his hush-hush policy has been a valuable aid to Dr. Goebbels' propaganda that Hitler's submarines are winning the war for Germany.

IT'S UNITED STATES.

Some people persist in writing and speaking of "the States" when they mean the United States. The Oxford dictionary traces the usage as far back as 1777 when it appears in a letter of John Adams, but despite that sponsorship the phrase is lacking in dignity and carries overtones of disrespect. We have no doubt that many of those who speak of "the States" do so with the deliberate purpose of cultivating a feeling of disunion in this country. People who have been using the slighting expression thoughtlessly will no doubt mend their ways now that the matter has been called to their attention. Those who persist in using it will be recognized as disunionists.

PROGRESS IN TEXAS.

[Dallas Morning News.]

Many Texans have been shocked at the well documented reports from Germany showing that Adolf Hitler has quietly had put to death by gas many patients in institutions for the mentally diseased and the senile, so that his war bent nation no longer would have the expense of feeding and caring for these unfortunate persons. But Texas' own treatment of persons suffering from mental ills has not been anything to which to point with pride. Many have languished in barred jail cells, tho they had committed no crime, while others suffered from overcrowded conditions and inadequate care in state hospitals.

Every few years the legislature has become aroused over this situation and has voted an appropriation to build another hospital or to put a new wing on an old one. This was intended to take the mental patients out of the jails and to give them the medical treatment they needed. But by the time construction was completed the lunacy courts provided a new crop of inmates for the jail cells. This does not necessarily mean that more Texans per ten thousand are going insane than before. It does mean that the state's population is increasing and that mental patients formerly cared for in homes of relatives are being committed to state institutions so that wives and daughters can take war jobs.

Today, however, the way seems open to clear Texas jails of the insane for the first time since 1920. This will be made possible by completion of a new ward building at Terrell State hospital and by conversion of part of the State Confederate home at Austin into a hospital for senile patients. Removal of the 700 insane persons held in jails recently will be a step forward. It is hoped that in the future the state hospital system can be kept abreast of needs and thus keep mental sufferers out of the jails.

MR. PEPYS SHUFFLES ALONG.

1st May—Now comes the merry May day, with its traditions of dancing on the green, and Communist parades, and other festivities more talked about than seen, and Mr. Waldorf at Northwestern has arranged a carnival of sports where I might bask in the sunlight, unless it rains. But I have been in the grip of a mysterious malady, like many others, and may not be able to drag myself there. Understand my ailment is that which causes the Cubs' best pitchers to fade out in the first inning, and when I complained about it to my doctor he said, "Others are in the same boat, and don't groan so loud because you're not very sick."

Have heard that Pitcher Passeau of the Cubs attributed his loss of strength to the disappearance of his buckeye charm, which had been stolen by a squirrel. It happens I have a large supply of buckeyes from last fall's crop, so I sent a choice specimen to Passeau, by courtesy of Mr. Burns, the baseball author, who turned it over with a neat presentation speech. Hope Passeau is now feeling stronger, and if he is not cured will send him my brass medal, awarded to me for pitching a baseball thru a small glass bull's-eye at A Century of Progress. If that charm does not work, will send my cane I won at the same fair for hurling a baseball so accurately it knocked a colored man off his perch and into a tank of water.

Saw the exhibition of Healy's portraits of Chicago ancestors at the Chicago Historical society, but missed other fiestas I had planned to attend. Now to withdraw into my ivory tower and watch the war gardeners getting backaches.

MOVING DAY.

Today is moving day
And all our things are gone,
Packed into the moving vans,
For we were up at dawn

To look once more on closet shelves,
And leave the cupboard bare;
Make sure no lost galoshes lurk
Behind the cellar stair.

With curtains down, the windows have
A bleak and lonely stare,
And every room reminds us
Of how we loved it there.

We've taken slips from lilacs
And from the rosebush sweet.
How will they grow away from home,
We wonder as our feet

Echo thru the silent rooms
And down the lonely hall,
Turning the key on happy days
That come no more to all.

For this is moving day at last
For all the world, it seems,
If not from home where we grew up,
Then from our house of dreams.

A new world, smaller, lonely, strange,
Awaits our efforts now. . . .
God grant our rose and lilac hopes
May live and bloom somehow!

Chicago's Fairest Memory.

The glory of the White City has passed, but the vision supreme remains enshrined in the memory of all the living who came, and saw, and were conquered by its wonders. Only these fair buildings were preserved on their sites: The Fine Arts classic Greco-Roman pile, first home of the Field Museum of Natural History, after permanent reconstruction the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry; La Rabida convent, built on a neck of lake shore land adjoining the wooded island on the north, converted into a sanitarium for heart-afflicted children; the Iowa state building at the northeast extremity of Jackson park, used as a shelter and resthouse; the German medieval building facing the lake; the Japanese building on Wooded Island. The nucleus of the Field museum exhibits consisted of a geological collection bought by Marshall Field from the mines and mining exhibit.

THE SONG OF MAY.

May,
Fragrant and lovely,
Rises from her soft couch
Of hawthorn bloom
And stretches her fair form
Luxuriously.
Then, bending to the earth,
Cups her small hands
And gathers silvery dew
To bathe her glowing cheeks
Refreshingly.
Then, with a merry laugh,
Gambols across the velvet grass
To peep between the shimmering leaves
That screen and shelter her abode;
And as her eyes rest on the quiet vista
Of fertile plains and golden hills,
She softly sings
A madrigal.

Victory Garden Lowdown—III.

No Victory garden is complete without seeds. You can purchase them most anywhere now, at the 5-and-10, drugstores, hardware stores, grocery stores, dry goods stores, flour and feed emporiums, and seed stores. It is helpful to be able to distinguish seeds on sight, but not essential. Could you tell an onion seed if you saw one? Do you know what potato seeds look like? These are only a few of the many, many, many, many interesting facts you'll have to learn about seeds.

Insist on fresh seeds. Never buy used seeds. If you are in doubt about what seeds to buy, ask your dealer for assistance. There are, roughly speaking, about 300,000,000 kinds of seeds, and any dealer can tell you the 10 best sellers. There are many fine books on seeds. I would recommend "Seeds I Have Known," by Azalia Weepnomore; "Seeds and Their Global Aspects in Relation to the Migratory Habits of Hypocotyls," by Hans von Kohlrabi, and "Childhood Delinquency Among Cotyledons," by J. Hornbeam Sulphurbottom. My next lecture will be on planting.

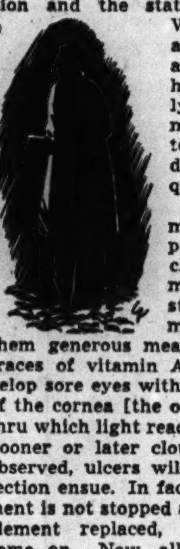
THE INFLUENCE OF VITAMINS ON VISION.



THE "windows of the soul," our eyes, may be disturbed by a food deficiency. The functioning power of these organs depends largely upon the circulation and the state of nutrition. When the tissues are well fed, as a rule they behave satisfactorily. But trouble may be encountered should the diet be inadequate.

One of the most striking proofs of this close relationship may be demonstrated in animals. If we give them generous meals but omit all traces of vitamin A, they will develop sore eyes with marked drying of the cornea [the outer clear layer thru which light reaches the retina]. Sooner or later cloudiness will be observed, ulcers will form, and infection ensue. In fact, if the experiment is not stopped and the missing element replaced, blindness may come on. Now, all of this signifies that we must make certain that our menus are planned accurately.

Another peculiar handicap is termed "night-blindness." The victim has difficulty in discerning objects in twilight. Attempts to get about in the dark may be attended with considerable danger. This is a real handicap to many, particularly sailors, drivers of automobiles and trucks, aviators, and soldiers. Here again vitamin A is the remedy. Under huge daily doses—20,000 units—supplemented with B [2 teaspoonfuls of yeast powder], and proper eating habits, the sufferer will be able to find his way with perfect ease during a black-out.

Curiously enough, many victims of color blindness have been helped substantially with this identical treatment. There is reason to believe that a kinship exists between the inability to detect colors and night-blindness. High feedings of sources of A seem indicated.

But this is not all. Many of us have friends who complain of irritation of the margins of the lids or about the roots of the lashes. Such persons are prone to develop sties and to exhibit a mild mucous discharge. If the eyeball is examined critically, it may be found to be drier than normal. The causative factor may be lack of a balanced food program. Supplying large doses of cod liver oil and B complex has brought about recovery within a few weeks in many cases. In other words, there was a deficiency sufficient to bring on the symptoms.

Every eye specialist knows that the orbs will respond rather accurately to the condition of health. When marginal ulcers attack the cornea, the physician will do everything possible to improve body hygiene and, among other useful reinforcements, will usually include vitamins.

The claim that the development of cataracts can be retarded by means of vitamin therapy is based solely upon the resulting improvement of the patient's general well being. There is no change in the lens which is becoming cloudy. Furthermore, the cataract does not recede or dissolve. Nevertheless, vision may be slightly better.

While accessory edibles will not work miracles they are just as necessary for these delicate seeing structures as they are for the integrity of the heart, the liver, the digestive tract, and the skin.

THE BALANCE OF POWER.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., April 23.—Whenever there has been a gigantic war in old Europe, and the victors become the dictators of the vanquished, numerous philosophic statesmen of the passing hour convene in brotherly harmony to draw up a covenant that may establish a permanent peace for the generations that are to follow. It was so after the first Napoleon found himself a prisoner at St. Helena. The inspired compact at that time was a declaration established upon the "Gospel of Christianity" containing the principles of "justice, charity, and peace." Part of its aim was the extension of the monarchial system to America. It was known as the Holy Alliance, and it was quietly liquidated by the Monroe Doctrine—a simple, little American statement expressed in democratic language which had the desired effect of intimidating kings, emperors, and sundry narrow minded despots. Incidentally, it proved the means of saving much of American life and property.

Now, was it the military strength of the United States that alarmed those veteran warriors of the past? One could hardly think so when summing up the standing armies and battleships that rocked [and wrecked] old Europe. Wasn't it that never-dying antagonism that swayed the "balance of power" among themselves? Whichever group might take offense against America would find themselves confronted by another group of enemies at home. Uncle Sam had the indifferent friendship of all, as long as he mixed not with that balance of power, and steered clear of the never ending quarrels of race, religion, boundaries, and ideophrenia that troubles Europe.

But why rant about a world association? Where is the Kellogg pact, that harbinger of peace? Of all the scraps of paper signed by man—give me the Monroe Doctrine bred on my native soil, rather than any league of nations foreign born.

WALTER SCOTT HOWARD.

THE RECORDING BOYCOTT.

Chicago, April 28.—In yesterday's Tribune the National Association of Broadcasters had this to say: "In the most critical period in our nation's history, Petrillo . . . has deprived the entire nation of supplies of music from many sources. Popular recordings help sustain the morale of the fighting forces."

This is "begging the question" with a vengeance. When the American Federation of Musicians issued its dictum on recording at its 1942 convention, it was accompanied with the statement that the federation would make whatever recordings were requested by the President of the United States, or by the forces of this country and the other united nations. That promise has been lived up to.

VEHICLE TAXES.

Chicago, April 24.—One thing I can't understand is why they do not prorate vehicle tax according to ration gas books. For example: A cards, 50 per cent of full amount; B cards, 75 per cent; C cards, 100 per cent. I can't see why people should pay the full amount for a lousy four gallons a week.

When they distribute the next ration books they should pass them out according to the amount the license plates call for. In that way they would get all people to get their plates or they would not be able to drive.

W. A. JANTSCH.

STRIKERS VS. SOLDIERS.

Chicago, April 28.—It depends on what branch of necessary war service you happen to be in, what you can get away with. Strikers, in comparative safety, receiving three and four times the salary of their brothers who are fighting, greedily demand more and more money and John L. Lewis refuses to coöperate with the war labor board by absenting himself from its hearings. The men are courteously asked to return to work.

Soldiers receiving $50 a month, enduring hardships and deprivations, are willing to pay with their lives to insure the freedom of union men to strike against them, endangering final victory. If they refused to work at any time of the night or day they would be court martialed and they could be shot. Does this make sense or add up right?

MARIE SULLIVAN.

HE WAS A MINER.

Chicago, April 27.—I may be able to enlighten some people about the so-called "unpatriotic miners."

Here are some of the reasons for which they want, and should have, more money:

Low pay—A basic wage of $6 a day.

Long hours—In most mines it takes from one-half hour to over an hour to reach the "face," or area in which the actual mining is done. Many men have an additional two hours underground each day for which there is no pay.

Danger—A conceded fact that it is one of the more dangerous occupations. Ask any insurance agent.

Unsteady work—If you faced a three to five month layoff each summer, or the same period of time in which you worked one or two days a week at the most, wouldn't you be justified in asking for enough remuneration to keep your family for the entire year?

I worked in the mines for several years during the day and took my high school education at night. I was rather young but the work was hard, the hours long, the wages low, and if I should never burn coal again, I'd let all the mines fill with water before I'd do the same work for the same amount of money again.

HERE YOU ARE, GIRLS.

Peoria, Ill., April 27.—Just a suggestion to put an end to the too short hose controversy. I, too, have some nylons which didn't quite reach so I cut tops from old hose and sewed on. This wasn't an original idea. I read or heard of it somewhere. It doesn't look too good, but saves wear and tear and is comfortable. At least it works in Peoria. In the Windy city—I'm not so sure.

WHY DRAFT BOARDS HAVE HEADACHES.

Chicago, April 23.—Could you explain something for me? I am a single girl employed in an office of a plant doing mostly defense work.

My employer has written several times to the draft board of his shop foreman, begging deferment for just this one man, as my boss is in ill health and this man is really badly needed. This foreman was married before the draft law was passed and also supports his mother who lives with them. He is 34. Nevertheless the board has now called him in for examination.

Yet a few weeks ago they returned from the army an employé over 38—a man who can be used but whose job is far from essential, a single man in good health who lives in a rooming house and has no relatives in the world. He is needed nowhere in civilian life. We gave him a letter stating his job was still open—but it is a job anyone could fill. He is only a few years older than the foreman who is so sorely needed both in business and at home.

I know this is not logical and far from fair. I would like to know why such things are done.

WANTS MORE WILLKIE LITERARY TEAS.

Downers Grove, Ill., April 25.—So that verbose and noisy traveler, Wendell Willkie, has capitalized on his hop, skip, and jump tour of the world by writing a book. Well, it is to be hoped that the gentleman's literary activities, such as teas, talks, autographing copies for friends, replying to admirers [if any], etc., will keep him so busy that he will not have the time to annoy the Republicans this coming year.

As one of your correspondents of this department so aptly said some time ago, millions of us Republicans held our noses and voted for this New Deal stooge in 1940, but definitely we are not going to do it again, and the sooner he and his small band of cheer leaders realize this fact the better for all concerned.

THE PLANTING SEASON

[Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.]

FLYING WOMAN SECRETARY WINS FERRY DIPLOMA

Chicagoan in First Group Trained by Army.

Mrs. Molly McCormick, 7818 East End avenue, helped pack a suitcase yesterday and opined that her daughter, Margaret, always was up to something.

"Why, when she was a blonde tike back in Bogalusa, La., she always climbed to the highest diving board and complained because the towers weren't any higher," Mrs. McCormick said.

And after finishing the Bogalusa High school in 1930, Margaret came to Chicago to work as a secretary—or so her mother thought. She did work as a secretary, but she also learned to fly. One day she won a private pilot's license—first ever given a Louisiana girl.

Mother Regains Hearing.

One day the mother, hard of hearing, was coaxed into a plane. Up and up the daughter soared. Then she dived, straight and fast.

"Soon after I got out of the plane my ears cleared and they've been as good as new ever since," she said.

Margaret entered races in and near Chicago, won what she calls "umpteen cups," made some 30 exhibition parachute jumps, bought a half dozen planes—owning one at a time—and toured the country, with various friends or fans paying the freight. In 1932 she set an altitude record for light planes—9,240 feet.

Off to Another Field Soon.

Yesterday Margaret had returned to Chicago after completing five and a half months of hard work at Ellington field, near Houston, Tex., and had become one of the first class of 23 women to receive army air corps diplomas.

Next week she is to report to an army air field at Romulus, Mich., as a member of the first army trained women's ferry pilot group.

While the women ferry pilots now are restricted to continental United States, Margaret hopes soon to be taking planes overseas.

WOMAN DENIES SWIFT'S CLAIM IN $110,000 SUIT

Mrs. Katherine Gertrude Buchanan, 50 years old, of San Antonio, Tex., filed an action yesterday in United States District court here, denying the counter-claim of Louis F. Swift Jr., 48, to her $110,000 breach of contract suit. Swift is the son of the late meat packer.

In her action Mrs. Buchanan admitted that in March, 1929, she had signed a release which had been cited by Swift as absolving him of all claims by Mrs. Buchanan. She alleged, however, she had been forced to sign the release by threats by Swift to have her arrested on criminal charges because the two had been living together as husband and wife for some years.

Mrs. Buchanan alleged that after signing the release she had warned Swift that she would take legal measures to abrogate it, whereupon Swift agreed to provide for her for the rest of her life, and for the support and education of her children.

She said Swift complied with the agreement until 1935, when a written contract was executed. Swift abided by this contract until October, 1940, she said, after which he made no further payments.

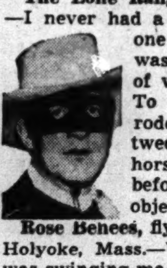
THE QUESTION.

What was your closest call? [Asked of performers in Olympia circus.]

WHERE ASKED.

The Chicago Stadium.

THE ANSWERS.

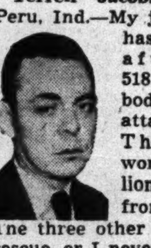


The Lone Ranger, Detroit, Mich.—I never had a closer shave than one in the last war. I was delivering tanks of water at the front. To dodge gunfire I rode down low between two horses. Both horses were shot just before I reached my objective.

Rose Benees, flying trapeze artist, Holyoke, Mass.—When my partner was swinging me thru the air on the high trapeze rope fixtures on one side broke. I swung out over the audience and dropped flat on a piano. Neither I nor the piano was damaged, but that was too close for me.

Victoria Zacchini, human cannon ball, Tampa, Fla.—Night before last I had a narrow escape. There was a defective cartridge in the cannon. It proved to be a blank. If it had fizzled off I wouldn't have been thrown far enough into space to land on the net, but would have dropped to the ground.

Josephine Berosinio, high wire performer, Czecho-Slovakia—In one act my uncle and I were riding bicycles on the high wire 50 feet above the ground. We lost our balance simultaneously and fell. My injuries were bad, but not as serious as my uncle's. He has been in the hospital four years.



Terrell Jacobs, animal trainer, Peru, Ind.—My job as a lion tamer has been one risk after another. The 518 stitches in my body represent many attacks on my life. The last was the worst. The 400 pound lion pounced on me from a high perch. The three other lions leaped to my rescue, or I never would have lived.

Ruby Haag, elephant trainer, Medora, Ind.—Once in a while when I take my ride in the elephant's mouth he forgets I'm made of flesh and bones. Not long ago he clamped his jaws down on me and when I tried to make him release me, he dropped me. Two ribs were broken, but I finished the act.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

N. M. writes: My husband is in the navy and at the time he joined it was practically impossible for me to pay our 1941 real estate taxes and I was under the impression that according to the soldier's and sailor's civil relief act, we were protected from the possibility of the property being sold for taxes."

ANSWER: The law requires that you file an affidavit with the county treasurer's office, establishing the following facts: "That a tax or assessment has been assessed upon the property of a man in service; that such tax or assessment is unpaid, and that by reason of military service the ability of the owner is materially affected." If this requirement is met, the assessor is required to apply to a court for permission to sell the property for unpaid taxes or assessments. We have a digest of the soldiers and sailors civil relief act we will send to men in service or their dependents if we are sent a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

P. T. A. asks: "Does a recruit have a choice of jobs when they enter the WAACs?"

ANSWER: The particular skill or aptitude of each WAAC recruit is utilized in the way it will serve the best interests of the recruit and the corps. Each recruit is given opportunity to state a preference for any one of the 106 jobs which the WAACs are performing. Women with no special skill or talent are given special training which will be of inestimable value to them for the rest of their lives.

H. M. writes: "Over three months ago I was notified by the war department of my son's death. I know that he had a valuable wrist watch, camera, and other personal effects. Is there anywhere I could write to find out about the disposition or recovery of these?"

ANSWER: The army's graves registration service which is under the supervision of the quartermaster corps, gathers together the personal effects of men killed in service and forwards them to the Army Effects Bureau, Kansas City Quartermaster Department, Kansas City, Mo., where they may be obtained by the decedent's next of kin after proper identification.

C. I. K. asks: "Does the army have a mechanics' school to give men additional training who have had some experience repairing motors, etc? Whom does one see about being assigned?"

ANSWER: The army has several automotive mechanic schools, which give eight weeks training to men who have completed their basic training. One of these schools, the most recently opened, is at Fort Knox, Kentucky, and is known as armored force replacement training center for that corps. Discuss your previous training and aptitudes with your commanding officer and if he thinks you may be qualified, he can recommend your transfer.

RIVER TAXI PLAN REVIVED BY BOAT FIRM EXECUTIVE

Craft May Be Brought In from Wisconsin.

Proposals for the operation of a river taxi system, urged by thousands of commuters to carry passengers from the Union and North Western stations to the Michigan avenue bridge, will be renewed early next week by Clyde Erzinger, sales manager of the Rodi Boat company, 2424 South Ashland avenue, he announced last night.

An earlier plan for such a service was dropped 10 days ago when John Rodi, head of the boat company, Erzinger and their associates, announced they had been compelled to sell the boats while the city council dawdled over passage of an ordinance covering the project. Meanwhile, however, Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski and his council committee on harbors, wharves and bridges, had brought the ordinance to the passage stage by reporting favorably upon it.

Wisconsin Boats Available.

Erzinger said last night he expects to renew negotiations for the service because he has located three boats ideal for a river taxi system which may be acquired for $11,000. He added he will discuss the proposition at once with Rodi, the aldermen and others, and if he finds prospects auspicious he will proceed at once with plans.

"The boats are offered by Grover Olsen, who has a large resort up on the Wisconsin river at The Dells," Erzinger said. "Three appear to be ideal for a river taxi service. One is 52 feet long and will carry 55 passengers; a second is 50 feet and will carry 50, and a third has a capacity of 45.

Reports Condition Good.

"The motors appear to be in excellent condition, altho the boats are more than 10 years old. They would have to pass inspection, of course. They have a speed of 12 miles an hour, and could carry 150 passengers from the stations to the bridge in a few minutes. The cabins are all enclosed in glass and the boats ride like a bus."

Erzinger said these and other similar boats have carried as many as 220,000 passengers on river trips in Wisconsin in a season of three months. He asserted Olsen, who is experienced in operating them, has offered to come to Chicago, not only to tell the council committee about their capacities and possibilities, but to supervise starting of a taxi system.

ROLOSONS' SON LEFT SOLE HEIR TO 2½ MILLIONS

Robert M. Roloson III., 9 years old, is the sole heir to the fortune of his father, according to the will filed yesterday with Frank Lyman, clerk of the Probate court. The estate is estimated at $2,250,000. Robert's father, 39; his mother, Ellen, 36; his sister, Cary Bell, 12, and brother, Edward, 5, perished when fire attacked their Winnetka home last Sunday. Robert was the only survivor of the blaze.

The estimate, filed by Atty. John R. Heath, sets forth that $2,000,000 of the estate is in personal property and that the remainder is in Illinois real estate. The attorney added that there also was a large summer home property at Cotuit, Mass., not included in the estimate.

Under the will, executed on Aug. 14, 1936, the Northern Trust company is executor. The will left all the property in trust for Roloson's wife and children, but since she and two children perished Robert was left the sole heir. The trust company is directed to spend what it deems necessary for the living expenses and education of the boy and he is to receive one-fourth of the estate at 25, another one-fourth at 30, and the remainder at 35.

HEARING TO OPEN WEDNESDAY ON 'L' BRANCH SHIFT

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday set hearing on the Chicago Junction railroad and Central Manufacturing district petition to operate the Kenwood-Stockyards branch of the elevated lines for next Wednesday, and assigned Examiner Leslie E. Salter to hear the case.

The line was built in 1903 by the Union Stockyards and leased to the elevated company for $93,000 a year. Atty. Luther M. Walter, representing the petitioners, said no rental has been paid since 1937 when the elevated firm went into bankruptcy and that the elevated company has served the railroad and manufacturing district with statements of alleged losses totaling $675,000.

The railroad and manufacturing district have asked a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate the branch and split fares with the elevated company unless the "L" will continue the operations and pay the rent. Atty. Thomas L. Marshall, representing the elevated company, asked 10 days in which to file pleadings to determine issues.

KATHRYN FLINT.

Despite the fact that her husband sent her a vial of his blood and told her she could have all the rest that is in his veins, Mrs. Kathryn Le Vere, 27 years old, 4453 North Paulina street, was granted a divorce from Chester, 28, yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court. The ground was cruelty. Mrs. Le Vere exhibited the bottle of blood in court. She said Chester sent it to her with the offer of all the rest when she wrote him at Phoenix, Ariz., where he is a civilian flight instructor, to ask him how he felt about her suit for divorce. Mrs. Le Vere waived alimony and was given back her maiden name, Flint.

JAMES M'CABE MARKS 50 YEARS IN CITY HALL JOB

When James McCabe, authority on city council matters in the city clerk's office, returned from lunch yesterday he found a 40 pound cake, 50 roses, and a pen and pencil set on his desk. They were gifts from his fellow workers on his 50th anniversary as an employé of the office. When McCabe started work for the city May 1, 1893, he was the only stenographer on the city clerk's staff. For many years he was city council minute clerk, but quit this phase of his work when his health began to fail. McCabe and his wife live at 5333 Wayne avenue. Their only son, Roger, now is a sergeant in the army.

A. L. EUSTICE DEAD; ELECTRIC COMPANY HEAD

Alfred L. Eustice, president of the Economy Fuse and Manufacturing company, was found dead yesterday in his home at 1138 Sheridan road, Evanston, of a heart ailment. He was 58 years old and was credited with the development of a screw type electric fuse now used thruout the world.

Mr. Eustice was a trustee and active worker for the Illinois Institute of Technology. He was a graduate of the old Armour Institute and in 1940 was honored with the honorary degree of doctor of engineering by the institute.

He had been selected as a member of the "modern pioneers" by the National Association of Manufacturers. He leaves his widow, Edith, and a daughter, Mrs. Richard Leach. Funeral services have been set for 3:30 p. m. Monday at the home. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

MOTHER HURLS 2 CHILDREN AND SELF TO DEATH

New York, April 30 (AP).—A 28 year old mother threw her two daughters, aged 4 and 5, from the roof of a six story apartment building today, and then followed them to death on the ground below.

Assistant District Atty. Albert E. Short of Queens said the case was closed after he had talked with the woman's aunt and had learned the woman who died, Mrs. Rose Tanelian, had stabbed her in a quarrel earlier today.

Short said Mrs. Tanelian, wife of a dress operator, apparently had taken her life and those of her daughters "because she was stricken with fear," as a result of the stabbing.

Woman Found Dead in Car, Motor Running

Mrs. Edna Amŏr, 30 years old, was found dead yesterday in her automobile in the garage behind her home at 7927 Champlain avenue. The engine of the car was running and her death was believed to have been caused by carbon monoxide gas. Her body was discovered by her husband, George, who told police he knew of no reason why she might have taken her life.

TAXPAYERS UNIT LAUDS GREEN ON BUDGET STRIDES

Hails Completeness of New Report.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—Gov. Dwight H. Green's 1943-'45 budget was praised today in a report by the Tax Payers' Federation of Illinois as "the greatest single stride toward proper budgeting procedure since the adoption of the executive budget system in 1917."

Thomas E. Donnelley

"The document is, without question, the most complete report of its kind ever presented to an Illinois general assembly," said the federation, headed by Thomas E. Donnelley, Chicago.

The federation said that such detailed analysis would have been impossible with the old style pamphlet-size budgets. Gov. Green's document weighs 2 pounds 11 ounces.

List Pay Hike Requests.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, only remaining Democrat among major state officials, is shown in the report as asking salary increases averaging 16 per cent for his department.

State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder's office seeks an average 11 per cent increase. This contrasts with an average of 8 per cent for the entire state government.

The salary increases recommended are "because of the general rise in the cost of living, which, of course, may not be blamed on the state administration," the report asserted.

Praise for the budget was tempered by the federation's assertion that its $15,058,000 reduction below the 1941-'43 budget level was achieved largely by accident.

War Is Given Credit.

"The three major decreases are in highways, emergency relief, and debt service," the report said.

"Highway figures are lower because of war time restrictions on construction; emergency relief because of improved employment conditions; debt service because two bond issues will expire during the current biennium. There is no evidence of any major decreases being due to greater efficiency and economy in government operation."

SET MINIMUM HOURLY WAGE OF FIFTY CENTS

A virtual floor under wages of 50 cents an hour—10 cents more than the current basic wage—was established yesterday in an authorization received by the regional war labor board. The new base will be applied in correcting substandard wages.

In its order to regional boards, the national WLB empowered them to approve wage increases up to 50 cents an hour in eliminating so-called sub-standard living conditions. The board emphasized, however, that this order does not give blanket authority to employers to raise all lower wages to 50 cents an hour without WLB approval.

Approval by the WLB requires the employer's declaration that he will not use the higher wage as a basis for seeking higher price ceilings for his goods, the board said. Approval must be denied if the increase might seriously disrupt wages in the industry or area.

Granting of an order correcting substandard pay will preclude any future adjustments by the WLB of alleged inequalities within the plant caused by the pay increase, the board said.

ATTACKS WOMAN WITH HAMMER ON MART STAIRS

Chicago avenue police last night were searching for a Negro hammer man who attacked Miss Joan Thies, 42 years old, of 6435 North Seeley avenue, as she was leaving her office in the Merchandise Mart at 222 West Bank drive yesterday.

Miss Thies, who is a secretary in the offices of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, said she was walking down a stairway from the second floor to escape the heavy crowds at the closing hour. The Negro appeared and grappled with her, she said. She screamed and he struck her twice on the head with a hammer and fled.

Capt. Carl Albrecht of the United States army came to her rescue, and friends took her to St. Elizabeth's hospital, where, after treatment, she was allowed to go to her home.

SKEETER PESTS SOON TO BUZZ, ENGINEER SAYS

Articles resembling overgrown commas floated on woodland pools around Chicago yesterday, revealing that within a week rural peace will be punctuated, thoroly and noisily, with resounding slaps and muttered curses.

J. Lyell Clarke, sanitary engineer for the Des Plaines valley mosquito abatement district, identified the floating commas as pupae. Pupae, he said, are the next to last stage in evolution of a mosquito. The final state, of course, is the mosquito. With this information at hand, virtually any one can see this is the last mosquito free week-end of 1943.

Clarke said the most vigorous pupae would turn into mosquitoes over this week-end. For a couple of days the mosquitoes will rise like clouds when hikers walk thru thick woodland grasses but, still to taste the finer things of life, which to them means a meat diet, they won't bite. Sometime late in the week a bold unregimented free thinking mosquito will nibble on a hiker, find him good, and spread the news to his fellow needle nosed nippers. The feast will be on, with no red coupons required.

DEFER HEARING IN MOVE TO OUST MICHIGAN JUDGE

Lansing, Mich., April 30 [Special].—Michigan legislators formally adjourned the 62d regular session today, and the senate immediately organized as an impeachment court to consider charges in connection with the Michigan marriage laws against Judge Michael E. Nolan of Gogebic county Probate court.

However, Judge Nolan's hearing was deferred until May 17 after he had made a formal appearance, accepted service of the articles of impeachment, and had denied, thru counsel, the senate's right to impeach him.

A move for Nolan's impeachment was voted early in the session by the house, on the petition of Judge Herman Dehnke of Harrisville, who had been conducting a one man grand jury investigation of Gogebic county affairs. The formal petition charged Nolan had made a profitable business out of flouting the Michigan marriage laws by performing "secret marriages" on a scale that equaled or exceeded the number of ordinary ceremonies performed in the county. He and four other officials also were accused of padding expense accounts.

SALESMAN DIES IN A 15 STORY PLUNGE IN LOOP

A man whose draft card identified him as Raymond Paul Schoreck, 44 years old, leaped or fell to his death last evening from a window of the 15th floor offices of the Standard Electric Time company, 53 West Jackson street. His body landed on the sidewalk of Federal street.

He was employed by the company as a salesman. In his pocket police found $230 in currency. They also found a scribbled note directing that a woman living on the south side be notified in an emergency. Police called the woman, who said she had known the man, but did not know his present home address.

Efforts were being made to reach officials of the company.

Carrying on in the tradition of her hero husband, Mrs. Lucille Donovan, 23 years old, 3546 South Rockwell street, enlisted in the WAACS yesterday. She is the widow of Jerome J. Donovan, an army air cadet, who was killed while in training in Texas last March 4. "He had always said I should get into uniform if anything happened to him," said the young widow. While reporting for enlistment, Mrs. Donovan met another war widow, now also a WAAC. She is Mrs. Virginia Brouk, whose husband, Capt. Robert R. Brouk, a member of the famed Flying Tigers, was killed in a plane crash last December.

2 SHORT STRIKES SEND TOTAL TO 19 FOR STEEL FIRM

Two additional sitdown strikes yesterday and Thursday brought to 19 the number of strikes of this nature in Carnegie-Illinois Steel company plants in the Chicago area within the last three weeks.

Sixty men refused to work for an hour and a half yesterday at the Joliet coke plant, an affiliate of Carnegie-Illinois. Officials of the company said the men were disgruntled because construction requiring a 48 hour week had been finished and the work week was dropped to 40 hours. All the strikers went back to work on the 40 hour basis.

Twenty men went on a sitdown strike Thursday at the South Chicago plant of Carnegie-Illinois because a revised incentive plan was not made ready as quickly as they wanted. All returned to work after 30 minutes.

"Grounded"

By H. Vernor Dixon

Copyright: 1943: By H. Vernor Dixon

SYNOPSIS: Brant Regan, a dare devil flyer wounded, while fighting for China, is forced to take a year's rest. Returning to San Francisco, he gets Barlow Aircraft to test his new wing formula and altho it tests perfect, McNair, company attorney, tells him the company cannot afford to experiment with it. But McNair says that he and Harmon, president of Barlow, will pay Brant $60,000 for it themselves. Brant dislikes McNair and Harmon, as well as O'Toole, vice president, and Sutton, designing engineer. He senses something is wrong with the whole setup. But he is greatly attracted to Dian Barlow, who owns controling interest of the company. He kisses her one night and she confesses her love for him, begging him to return it for the year he is grounded. Altho he feels he is not really in love with her, he insists they elope. None of the four Barlow executives is pleased with the marriage. Harmon spreads gossip that Brant married Dian for her money. Carol Jaffe, McNair's tough little secretary, is relieved, as she is in love with McNair and knows that McNair was trying to marry Dian. When Brant inspects the new bomber Barlow is building, he finds it out of date and realizes the executives are having it built that way so the government will turn it down. They want to get the company in a financial hole so that Dian will be forced to put some of her stock up for sale and lose controling interest. Brant persuades Dian's Aunt Hattie to get Dian to turn her stock over to him, giving him complete control of the company. He puts himself in charge of the experimental division and altho he promises Dian he will not stop work on the bomber, he does, as he feels that to continue means to lose more money. But he gets Gen. Holland, of the Aircraft Purchasing, to confirm his views on the bomber. Brant then decides to save it by putting his new wing on it. Carol Jaffe calls Brant up and offers to give him some important information if he will come to her apartment. He goes and after one drink she gives him, he passes out and wakes at dawn, knowing he has been framed.

INSTALMENT XVIII.
FAKE EVIDENCE.

Brant was puzzled and, for a moment, stunned. "Listen, Harmon, I'm not going to blurt into that dictaphone everything that took place last night. We'll just assume that you know what I'm talking about."

"Perhaps."

"All right. Now, you boys didn't rig up that little stunt just for your own amusement. You'd like to make a deal with me, get me out of here. Let's get down to business."

Harmon slowly shook his head. "There is, I repeat, nothing to talk about. The—ah—little matter you referred to is completely out of my hands." His eyes narrowed and he bit out between clenched teeth, "You're going to be kicked out of here and kicked so far you'll never come back. That's the only thing you can understand. No one can make a deal with you. You're not kidding me, Regan. So I have already taken the necessary action to boost you on your way. There is absolutely nothing that you and I have to say to one another. I mean that. Good day."

Brant had not expected that sort of attitude from Kane Harmon. He left the office and walked toward the experimental division and tried to puzzle it out. When he had the solution he smiled grimly, rather pleased with it.

Harmon had been right. Brant would have argued with him, he might even have threatened him and, with words wasted, he might have lost his head and physically attacked him. But he would never have made the deal. What was the purpose behind it all? Brant came to a dead halt in the factory yard and his face turned pale. Dian, of course. The pictures that had been taken on the previous night had already been given to Dian. The whole thing had been placed in her lap and she could make of it whatever she wanted. From now on it was up to Dian.

What Kane wanted of her was obvious. The betrayed and enraged wife. She could strike at Brant and strike hard. She could exercise her common property control of the corporation stock, nullify his vote, and bring him to a dead halt. Between her and the others they could vote him out of existence. The factory would then be in a worse mess than ever and Harmon and McNair could secure control sooner than would have otherwise been possible.

Brant wondered, with a nauseous feeling in the pit of his stomach, if Dian would react in that manner. He was almost afraid to find out.

He walked into his office, worked with the engineers all that day, and at quitting time, was the last to leave.

When he reached the apartment house he parked the coupe behind Dian's sedan in the cold concrete garage and stood there blankly staring at the two cars. Then his lips thinned and he hurried toward the elevator.

Dian was waiting for him in the living room. Only one floor lamp in the room was on and she sat partially in shade, but Brant could see the deep circles under her eyes and the feverish light in their depths.

She asked, in a husky voice a shade or two lower than normal, "Are you hungry? There's some cold chicken in the refrigerator—"

"No, thanks."

He dropped into a chair across from her and their eyes met and held for a long moment. Brant saw, with a start of surprise, that the old reserve had returned and she was again within a shell of ice. He wearily leaned back and closed his eyes.

"Well," he said, "let's get it over with."

"What, Brant?"

He opened his eyes and stared at her. It couldn't be that she was going to refuse to face it. No; it was something else. The way she was looking at him, as if she were trying to see thru him. She wanted him to first accuse himself.

"Okay," he said. "I spent the night in Carol Jaffe's apartment. Had a swell time. She and I are old sweethearts. I go there quite often. You know when I go out at night, sometimes, to bang around for a few drinks? I don't, actually. I go to Carol's. We're in love with each other." Dian winced and blinked at him. "Sure. Mad sort of an affair. I don't go to the opera. I go to Carol's."

"That sort of an attitude—"

"What sort? I'll tell you the truth, Dian, if you want it. If you don't want it then what I have said can stand."

She asked him, "Would you really want to let it stand that way?"

His eyes dropped to the floor and he shook his head. "I'm sorry, Dian. I guess I'm strung up pretty badly tonight. But not knowing how you have taken it—" He looked up, then, and cocked an eyebrow at her. "You did receive some pictures, didn't you?"

"Tom game them to me."

"Yeah. McNair. Lovely little studies of art, I suppose."

"Yes."

"Nice grouping, too. You'll have to show them to me some time. But what did dear old Tom, with the heart of gold, have to say?"

Her eyes were fixed upon his, fascinated, and she replied, "Not a great deal, Brant. He couldn't say much. He was too broken up by it."

Brant burst into a laugh, "O, sure. I can just picture his bleeding heart. You know, of course, that the whole thing was a frameup?"

"No, I don't."

Brant's face turned gray. "I see. All right. What did McNair say?"

Only that he had suspected you all along. He had you shadowed, many nights. Las—last night—"

She paused and Brant suddenly felt a very great admiration for her. She was holding herself in well. Hysteria was not far from the surface, but she had it under control. She had something to say and she was going to say it. Then she would probably go to pieces. Brant was dreading that already.

"Last night," she continued, "he heard from—well, whoever he had hired—that you had gone to Carol Jaffe's. Attorneys know how to handle those things. They do it in di—divorce cases."

Brant nodded. "Well known technique. Only most of them are planted."

"But not all. He said that he knew he would catch you sooner or later." Her voice almost broke, but she forced it back under control and said, "He called you the same thing Aunt Hattie called you, a rogue male. So if that is a person's character—I can't condemn your character, can I? It's yours, just like mine is mine. I know how you are, too. But I did think that we—"

She broke, then, her shoulders quivered, a sob convulsed her body, and her hands flew to her face.

"O, Dian—"

He went to his knees before her, but she shoved him away. "I'm all right. Please."

Brant cried, "I don't care if you are. You're going to listen to me. Hear? Those dirty rats! Look, Dian; maybe I should have told you before. I didn't tell you because I didn't think you would believe me. And, anyway, it was only a hunch in the beginning. Listen; you're being taken, something awful. I know. I know what I'm talking about. McNair, Harmon, O'Toole, Sutton, four rotten crooks."

Dian almost screamed, "Brant!"

"I'll prove it. I'm not dreaming this up. Wait a minute." He went into his study and hurried back with all the evidence he had gathered on the past experimental models and also Gen. Holland's wire. He tossed it all onto her lap. "Look it over. You've been bilked ever since your father died. They're out after control and they mean to get it. I've been in their way. So they framed me last night in the hope that you would break with me and split our control. You can do it, you know, easily. But look that stuff over. Take your time. We'll stay up all night if necessary. Go ahead. Look at it."

COUNCIL LEADER BOOSTS PLAN OF TRACTION UNITY

Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the city council committee on local transportation, circulated yesterday in the council chamber a statement asserting that disapproval of the unified traction ordinance now being considered by the Illinois Commerce commisison "may be the severest blow to Chicago's progress in our entire history." Quinn said the statement was prompted by suggestion from Ald. James F. Young [46th], vice chairman of the local transportation committee. The unified traction plan was condemned by commerce commission examiners and the commission is now preparing its final decision.

Joliet Parents Notified Son Is German Prisoner

Pvt. Edward L. Dolosic, 315 North Chicago street, Joliet, is a German prisoner, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dolosic, were notified by the war department yesterday. Dolosic, who is 28, was with the army in North Africa and has been reported missing in action since Feb. 27. He was inducted in November, 1941, and was a truck driver in civilian life.

NEW HELICOPTER PORT NEAR LOOP TO BE STUDIED

The first meeting of the city council's new planning committee was cut short yesterday because it conflicted with a meeting of the county Democratic central committee. Only five of the 20 city council committee chairmen who comprise the committee, attended.

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman, said the committee will meet soon to discuss the Chicago plan commission's proposals for development of the downtown district.

In the meantime, Lindell reported, he plans to ask the council's aviation committee, headed by Ald. John J. Grealis [44th], to study possibility of establishing a helicopter field in a six block area extending from Clinton street to Union avenue and from Madison street to Adams street. The proposed field, included in the commission's tentative plans, would be used in a shuttle service for air line passengers between the downtown district and the Municipal airport.

SLEEPING TABLETS FATAL.

Mrs. Josephine Burke, 41 years old, died yesterday in County hospital of an overdose of sleeping tablets Tuesday in her home at 1632 North Western avenue.

Drive Ends Today with Quotas Exceeded.

Government security sales in metropolitan Chicago in the second war loan campaign crossed the half billion dollar mark yesterday. A 30 million dollar purchase by the Milwaukee railroad, 28 millions of which was allotted to Chicago, sent the sales streaming over the top after metropolitan headquarters had announced an official total of $487,399,000 earlier in the day. The unofficial figure was $515,399,000.

The Milwaukee invested its 30 millions in ⅞ per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness after Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan had authorized the action at the request of the road's trustees.

Benefits Both U. S. and Buyer.

Attorneys for the trustees told the court that the Milwaukee did not need the 30 millions for operating expenses and that the investment in the certificates would benefit both the railroad and the government.

Today is the last day of the campaign, which began April 12 and was part of a national drive to raise 13 billion dollars or more to help finance the war for the next three months. The national goal already has been exceeded.

Others Buy $28,418,000.

Yesterday's sales in the metropolitan area, exclusive of the Milwaukee transaction, were $28,418,000. At headquarters it was said much headway had been made in the volunteer sales workers' effort to sell war bonds to individuals. Leaders said more than 850,000 individuals in the area—including Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties—have bought at least one extra bond each in the current drive.

Roy W. Walholm, chairman of the war finance committee for the 20 communities in the north and northwest Cook county suburban areas, reported 40,000 homes there had been canvassed and that sales exceeded 10 million dollars.

TWENTY SEIZED IN BOOKIE RAID ORDERED JAILED

Twenty patrons of an alleged handbook were ordered jailed yesterday by Capt. Edward Kelly of Pekin Inn police following a raid at 2323 Cottage Grove avenue, while more than a hundred others were dispersed in half a dozen raids in the Central and Town Hall districts. Nine persons were booked on charges of being keepers of gambling houses, and will face trial in Racket court Monday.

The loop raids were made at 415 South Clark street, 170 West Harrison street, 48 North Wells street, and 355 Madison street. The Town Hall district raids were made at 4627 North Racine avenue and 4641 Sheridan road.

Capt. Michael Naughton of Commissioner Allman's office led raids at 732 North Wabash avenue, 29 East Roosevelt road, and 213 North La Salle street.

Six men charged with being operators of handbooks were fined when arraigned before Judge Cecil C. Smith. Judge Smith also ordered the appearance next week of five women seized Wednesday in a loop raid who were not present when their cases were called.

RED CROSS FUND RISES TO 83% OF CHICAGO'S GOAL

An average per capita gift of $6 from the employés of Armour & Co. totaling $63,000 was announced yesterday by Martin H. Kennelly, general chairman of the Red Cross War fund campaign. He said the subscription was in addition to the $60,000 given by the company, making a grand total of $123,000 from that plant.

Yesterday's gifts, which included $20,630 from Spiegel, Inc., and employés, brought the fund up to $7,228,839, or 83 per cent of the $8,750,000 goal of the Chicago chapter.

Other contributions announced by Kennelly were $4,602 from Buda company employés and matched by the company for a total of $9,204 and $4,140 from Reid, Murdoch & Co., its executives and employés. The following contributions were from companies and their employés: Curtiss Candy company, $5,000; Liquid Carbonic company, $3,833; William D. Gibson company, $3,545; Superior Sleeprite corporation, $3,000; Chicago Steel and Wire company, $2,328; Chez Paree, $2,311; Signode Steel Canteen of America, $2,000; Bastian-Blessing company, $1,948; Consumers company, $1,780, and Arnold, Schwinn & Co., $1,759.

CLAIMS $600,000 INFORMER FEES DUE FROM U. S.

J. A. Wallace, 80 years old, described as a former investment broker, filed suit yesterday in the federal District court seeking $600,000 as informer fees from the internal revenue department. Defendants are internal revenue and treasury officials and the government.

The suit, drawn up by Atty. A. A. McKinley, states that Wallace in June, 1938, informed the internal revenue office that the head of a woolen mill had evaded certain income tax payments for 15 years; that the taxes, with penalties, eventually amounted to more than $6,000,000, and that the government had failed to pay Wallace informer fees of 10 per cent.

The executive named in the suit refused to comment yesterday, but his secretary said the charges are not true. Internal revenue officials had no comment. Wallace lived at 721 Belmont avenue until two weeks ago when he moved several doors away.

NEWS OUT NOW; APRIL WET, COOL AND DRAB MONTH

It'll Be Chilly Today, Forecaster Says.

It's now official!

Chicagoland's thousands of war gardeners have been working, spading, planting and hoeing against adverse weather conditions, they were advised by O. T. Lay, head of the bureau in Chicago. Lay said that "April has been both cool and wet—markedly so."

Temperatures thruout April averaged 1 degree colder than the normal of 46.9 degrees. The warmest day of the month was the 24th, when 74 degrees was registered; the coldest the 14th, when the temperature dropped to 23.

Freezing on April 21.

Records for cold weather in April were broken on the 13th, 14th, and 15th, when 26 degrees, 23, and 25, respectively, were the lowest temperatures on record for those days. The last freezing temperature—28 degrees—was recorded on April 21.

Forecaster G. L. Canaday warned there would be near freezing temperatures in the early morning, but predicted it would be somewhat warmer in the afternoon.

While the war gardeners were treated to considerably more rainfall than April usually provides, they suffered somewhat from lack of sunshine. The total rainfall for the month was 3.37 inches, compared with an April normal of 2.54, and the 1.59 inches which fell in April last year. The sun shone only 70 per cent of the possible time.

For the benefit of those who have been complaining because they burned more fuel last month than usual, it was announced that April was 48 per cent colder than last year, and 4 per cent colder than normally on a degree days basis.

MAYOR URGED TO END M'CAHEY SCHOOL REGIME

The Woman's City Club of Chicago yesterday called on Mayor Kelly not to reappoint James B. McCahey to the presidency of the Chicago Board of Education.

In a letter to the mayor, over the signature of Ruth E. Moore, corresponding secretary of the club, the women said they believe "the public will applaud an announcement that Mr. McCahey is not to be reappointed as evidence that you are interested in the welfare of the children."

Saying McCahey "has beyond doubt been responsible for harmful measures, beginning with the ill advised economies of 1933, and continuing to the infamous principals' examination of 1936," the letter added that he was responsible also for the "unreasonable transfers of principals in the last two years."

"Tho it may be true," the letter said, "that Mr. McCahey's business sense has been helpful in dealing with school finances, surely that is not sufficient reason for placing him in a position where he can continue to wreck the morale of the entire system."

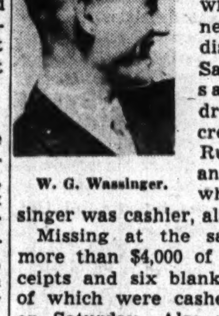
Capt. M. A. Lee, 37 Years a City Fireman, Retires

Capt. Martin A. Lee of 7806 South Bishop street, who in 37 years on the city fire department missed only five day's duty, was retired last night when he reached the compulsory retirement age of 63. Joining the department in 1906, he was with Truck 33 at the Stockyards fire of 1908, one of the worst fires in Chicago's history. At the time of his retirement he was with Engine Co. No. 121 at 95th and Charles street. Capt. Lee is married and the father of seven children. Two of his sons are now serving in the army.

Missing Wife

MRS. JEANNETTE WASSINGER.

Relatives of Walter J. Wassinger, marine corps private now serving in the South Pacific, wondered last night how to convey to him the news that his wife, Mrs. Jeannette Wassinger, disappeared last Saturday. At the same time Andrew K. Johnson, credit manager of Russeks, furrier and apparel shop, where Mrs. Wassinger was cashier, also disappeared.



W. G. Wassinger.

Missing at the same time was more than $4,000 of the store's receipts and six blank checks, three of which were cashed by Johnson on Saturday. Also missing is the car which Johnson rented from a loop auto company. Johnson's wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 601 Deming place, received a note from her husband requesting that she place an advertisment in a newspaper to inform him when the couple's second child is born. Mrs. Wassinger's four children, three of whom were of an earlier marriage, live with her mother, Mrs. Ellen James, 2718 Belden avenue.

D. CUPID FACES ABSENTEE FINE ON APRIL RECORD

County Clerk Michael J. Fynn blamed it on the moon. "The moon just wasn't full enough," he said. Young D. Cupid, who may always be found hanging around the marriage license bureau in Flynn's office, replied grumpily, "I wouldn't know!" He was palpably disgruntled.

The questions at issue were these: Why did marriages in Chicago, according to licenses issued, decline from the 4,245 of April, 1941 and the 4,098 of April, last year, to the 3,451 of last month? Why have there been only 12,474 marriages to date this year, as compared to 14,520 in the same period last year?

Flynn had this further explanation: "Issuance of licenses during 1941 and 1942 was abnormal due to war conditions. It couldn't keep up forever. As I said, the moon just isn't full enough for that. It is true that April this year was low on licenses—the other years were just too high. Then, too, the late Lent this year was a factor."

FLYERS TO DROP 100,000 "BOMBS" IN AIR RAID TEST

Intend Barrage Only for Wardens.

Effectiveness of the Chicago metropolitan area's civilian defense force of 200,000 will be tested May 23 when a mock air raid on the area will be made by the civil air patrol. One hundred flyers will drop 100,000 bombs in the test.

The public generally will not have any part in the test and there will not be any interference with traffic, except where necessary to prevent accidents to spectators. No person will be asked to take cover.

Sirens thruout the area will signal the approach of the planes. When the paper bombs begin falling at 2 p. m. the OCD organization will go into action and follow the usual routine set up for use in event of an enemy raid.

Color To Show Type.

The paper bombs will weigh slightly less than one ounce and will have colored paper streamers to indicate the type of bomb. Red streamers will indicate incendiaries; blue, high explosive or demolition; yellow, gas; and green, delayed action.

The paper bombs will fall 12 feet per second as against 700 feet a second for real bombs. The low velocity and colored streamers will make the bombs visible at a considerable height.

When a bomb has fallen on a building or on the ground air raid wardens and watchers will report to their control station and orders will be issued for the proper crews to take the prescribed action. There will be no movement of police firemen or emergency crews and success of the test will be determined by the speed with which reports are made and correctness of the directed action.

Extent of Raid.

The test raid will cover all of Cook county, the southern half of Lake county and the eastern two-thirds of Du Page county. Because the planes will not be over the entire area at the same time no signal will be given at conclusion of the test at about 4 p. m.

In the event of rain May 23 the test will be made two weeks later at the same hour or on the first Sunday that the weather is suitable for flying.

LOST AVIATOR MYSTERY STILL BAFFLES SEARCH

The body of a man washed up on the Lake Michigan beach at Bridgman, Mich., on April 20 is four inches too tall to the body of Theodore Rapala, 26 year old Chicagoan who has been missing since he took off on Jan. 10 from the American airport in a rented plane, Lt. Joseph Starshak of the police missing persons bureau said yesterday.

A. J. Hastings, sheriff of Berrien county, Michigan, described the body as that of a man 5 feet 10 inches tall, while Rapala's height was 5 feet 6 inches, Starshak said.

His report deepened the mystery of the whereabouts of Rapala, who lived with his mother, Antoinette, at 3116 Avondale avenue. He was to have been inducted into the army the day after he disappeared.

NORMAN THOMAS OPPOSES 'PEACE OF VENGEANCE'

Norman Thomas, frequent Socialist candidate for President, declared his opposition to "a peace of vengeance on peoples" last night in a May day gathering of Socialists of Cook county at the Top of the Town restaurant, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Thomas, who credited the May Day celebrations to American origin following the May 4, 1886, Haymarket riot here, called the "socialist" movement in Europe a "broken movement" and said: "There can be no established peace under Anglo-American imperialism or under American imperialism either."

He urged congress to establish a peace commission of all factions and parties to examine peace terms, saying, "Roosevelt writes the charters, but Churchill interprets them." Thomas discussed the recent job freezing order, asserting America is making a sacrifice in liberties at home far above any promises so far in sight of liberties to be won in the war.

"Wheaties" and "Breakfast of Champions" are registered trade marks of General Mills, Inc.

"Darn you Grandpa . . . I'll bet you've gone an' eaten up all my Wheaties again!"

Moral: buy your Wheaties two or three packages at a time. Keep a good supply on hand. Then everybody can enjoy Wheaties, "Breakfast of Champions," with milk and fruit.

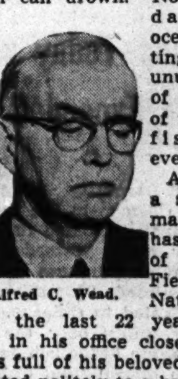
Fish Curator Retires to Rest and Go Fishing

Yes, fish do get seasick. Yes, a fish can drown. No, there is no danger of the oceans ever getting filled up and unusable because of the skeletons of the billions of fish that die every year.



Alfred C. Wead.

Alfred C. Weed, a slight, gray man of 61, who has been curator of fishes at the Field Museum of Natural history for the last 22 years, yesterday sat in his office close to scores of jars full of his beloved fish and submitted politely to a barrage of questions. This was his last day on the job. He is retiring to get some rest and possibly do a little fishing.

Mr. Weed recalled capturing some sharks once who became seasick from the motion of the open crate in which they were being kept [in the water, beside the boat] and who felt too miserable even to try to escape when the opportunity was offered them.

On the subject of drowning fishes, Mr. Weed said that the Texan garfish is partly dependent on air and that it dies if it is kept under water for 20 or 30 minutes.

The oceans will never get choked up with fish skeletons, he patiently explained, because most fish bones have a relatively small proportion of mineral matter and do not last long enough to create a real navigational hazard.

Asked about the tall tales we hear of the life span of fishes, Mr. Weed proceeded with true scientific caution. He would not categorically deny that a carp can live 150 years, but he said that he knew of no well attested examples of such a life span. He did say, tho, that the northern muskie appears to live 25 years or more.

He does not share the general idea that the shark is the most dangerous fish. He thinks we should be more frightened of the barracuda, which has sharper, better fitting, and more strategically placed teeth.

Mr. Weed was born in North Rose, N. Y. His scientific training began soon after he was old enough to walk, for his mother, who had some knowledge of botany, taught him the names of all the plants that grew within 100 feet of the back door. He graduated to the study of birds' eggs, then to that of shells. He studied forestry in college [Cornell], then switched to zoölogy, and came back for some postgraduate work in that subject. He spent five years among the fishes at the National Museum in Washington, then eight years as a farmer.

He was on hand for the opening of the Field museum in its present location 22 years ago today. He has been materially responsible for the institution's present extensive fish collections and exhibits. He has been on scientific expeditions to Labrador, Baffin Land, Greenland, and many parts of the United States.

May Day Program Will Be Heard on Theater of the Air

"May Day is Retrospect," a Chicago Theater of the Air musical and dramatic production, will be heard on W-G-N, W59C and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Based on the contrast between the May day of 1920 and 1943 for two lovers, it was written and will be produced by Jack La Frandre. It will feature Marion Claire, Chicago Theater of the Air soprano; John Garris, Metropolitan Opera company tenor; the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under Henry Weber's direction, the W-G-N chorus under Robert Trendler, a dramatic group including Laurette Fillbrandt, Mary Frances Desmond, Marvin Mueller, and Jerry Spellman.

Music will be drawn from the operettas "Maytime," "Iolanthe," and "The Gondoliers;" the opera "Thais," and separate works of Padilla, Sibelius and Johann Strauss.

The speaker of the evening will be Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

[To his American girl:]

"Maybe you would like to know my impressions of the Australian women. In general, they are thin and wiry of build. They have enough hair for two women, and this is a result of the Hedy Lamarr pictures showing here now. They dress as the movies dress with what English clothes the shops here provide and what the girl's coupons will allow her to buy. The street wear is always what we would call an afternoon tea dress. You know, something light in weight and black or dark in color. The clothes fit tightly and never look pressed or fresh. The hats always have flowers or something colorful on them. You never see anything that looks like sport clothes. Shoes are always high heeled and too small.

"In makeup they use the red stuff on their lips and a ghostly white powder that gives them a deathly pallor. In women over 16 false teeth are common, as the water here contains no minerals. They drink rain water. I should not be considered an authority on this subject because my contacts have been very minimal."

This Changing Knowledge.

Having fretted for some years about the fulsome praise given Italian Fascism in the article on that subject in the Encyclopaedia Britannica, we can't wait to tell you it has been revised. Walter Yust, editor in chief of the E. B., explained this happily the other day. The former article was written by a spokesman for the Fascist party, who proclaimed Fascism an ideal state of mind and being. The new one, together with new articles on the political philosophies of communism, national socialism, and democracy, was written by Dr. Hans Kohn of Smith college. "When the others were written no one thought anything about them," Mr. Yust said candidly. "And when we began looking them over, who do you suppose wrote the piece on democracy? A violent English Tory!" . . . Incidentally, all the E. B.'s articles on Italy now are being scrutinized sternly by Count Sforza, a gentleman of balanced mentality, who scrutinizes for $20 a page [1,500 words]. . . . Ashton Stevens, the Chicago critic who once taught W. R. Hearst to play the banjo, has just revised the E. B.'s homily on the banjo, receiving for it a check for $5. "G. B. Shaw and I get the same pay," he says of it. "Two cents a word." . . . The E. B.'s dedicatory pages vary for the United States and Great Britain. The British editions [today] are dedicated to George VI. and Franklin D. Roosevelt, in that order; in the American editions George follows Franklin. Herbert Hoover when President somehow saw a British edition, and wrote Mr. Yust indignantly. He was assured that on this side of the water he came first.

26 New Groups Pledge Aid to Giant Pageant

The number of groups participating in the Chicago presentation of the "We Will Never Die" pageant was increased by 26 yesterday when representatives of Chicago area Jewish women's organizations pledged their support to the spectacular tribute to the Jewish dead in Europe.

Scores of religious, civic, national, and educational groups, representing many of the allied nations, have promised to coöperate in the pageant's presentation on Wednesday evening, May 19, in the Chicago Stadium.

More than 1,000 persons are expected to gather at 7:30 o'clock next Wednesday evening when first selections for the cast will be made in the armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. Approximately 650 Chicagoans will be chosen for rôles. Many of the leading rôles will be filled by actors who played in the pageant's first presentation in New York.

Written by Ben Hecht, former Chicago newspaper man and now nationally known playwright and author, the pageant will be presented with a cast of 1,000 persons. Billy Rose, known for his colorful theatrical productions, produced the memorial, which is directed by Moss Hart. Kurt Weill arranged the music.

Altho Paul Muni and Edward G. Robinson, stage, screen, and radio stars played in former productions, it has not yet been decided who will fill the leading rôles in the Chicago presentation. The names of several Hollywood and Broadway stars, including those of John Garfield and Sylvia Sidney, have been mentioned as possibilities.

"We Will Never Die" will be opened by the shophar, the ram's horns which thru the centuries has called Jews to prayer. The pageant is a tribute to the 2,000,000 dead of Europe and to the remaining European Jews who have been threatened with death by Hitler.

Tickets are on sale at "We Will Never Die" committee headquarters in suite 703, 139 North Clark street and at the Drake, Blackstone, and Sherman hotels. Reservations may be made at Marshall Field & Co. Prices range from $1.10 for second balcony seats to $110 for a box seating six.

U. S. Orders Looser Weaves in Cotton to Stretch Cloth Output

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—The war production board today ordered further standardization of a long list of cotton fabrics in a move to increase production of cotton goods by an estimated 220 million yards a year.

The chief effect of the order, which brings 55 per cent of the nation's cotton weaving looms under WPB restrictions, is to forbid the production of certain types of cloth and to require looms to switch over to lighter and more loosely woven fabrics. WPB officials said, however, the lighter fabrics have been tested and found durable.

The action was taken, it was explained, in an effort to boost cotton cloth output without requiring additional materials and man power. By keeping production at a high rate, it was said, it is hoped that the necessity for rationing clothing will be avoided. There are no present plans for clothes rationing, officials reiterated. Fabrics standardized under the regulation include wide sheeting, drills, twills, jeans, sateens, gabardines, window shade cloths, pajama checks, bandage cloths, gauze, cheese cloth, broadcloth, poplins, diaper cloth, and miscellaneous print cloth.

Pretty Faces and Sparkling Costumes in South Shore Country Club's Follies

Interest High in 'Street Car Derby' Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE "Street Car Derby" is what the 69th annual running of the Kentucky Derby this afternoon at the Churchill Downs race track in Louisville, Ky., will be called. The reason, of course, is that this year's running of the historic race is supposed to be for home town folks only, and the street car will be the most popular as well as the most patriotic means of transportation to the track.

Only automobiles with A gasoline ration cards will be admitted to the Churchill Downs parking lot, and it has been announced that taxicabs voluntarily are limiting themselves to driving to a point a mile from the track. Further discouragement of travel to Louisville was provided when railroads, coöperating with the office of defense transportation, refused to accept reservations for days between April 26 and May 3. There can be no government check on those who ride to Louisville by day coach, and those who do manage to get there will find that the OPA has created a rule in their favor. Prices on liquid and edible refreshments at bars and restaurants were frozen, so there will be no rise in prices for the week-end crowds.

Three Chicago Horses to Be Entered in Race.

The fact that travel to the Derby is frowned upon this year is a special blow to Chicagoans, for the city has three chances to win the race. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright will be in their customary Churchill Downs box to watch their famous Whirlaway's stablemate, Ocean Wave, battle the odds-on favorite, Count Fleet, who is owned by other Chicagoans, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz. The third Chicago entry is Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' No Wrinkles.

Otto W. Lehmann probably will be watching the Derby with the Wrights, but Stuyvesant Peabody, a long time Derby fan, and many others who in other years wouldn't dream of missing the race, will be listening to results at home. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Culbertson II. patriotically are remaining at home this year, but the C. Benson Dushanes will be in the throngs heading for Churchill Downs this afternoon. They will be getting an early start, too, for Louisvilleans have found that it's possible to reach the track by public conveyance without much difficulty, if they allow plenty of time.

Two Clubs Make Plans for Gala Derby Parties.

On the home front, both the Saddle and Cycle club and the International club at the Drake have planned gala Derby parties. In fact, the Saddle's plans sound so tempting that the disappointment of missing the real race should be mitigated for even the most avid Derby goer. There will be gardens growing behind picket fences at either end of the ballroom, and a paddock with a horse [not a live one] around which "spectators" may gather. Paget K. Cady and Frederick L. Spencer will act as cashiers seated in the cashiers' cages that are used at the entrance to the exhibition tennis courts, and are being brought inside and decorated with striped awnings for the occasion. There will be striped canvas awnings in other parts of the room. A prize will go to whoever picks the Derby winners 1, 2, 3.

Mint juleps, hot dogs, popcorn, peanuts, and other typically race track refreshments will be served. The party will last from 4 to 6 o'clock, and after the race is run about 35 enthusiasts will go on to the Wells Farnhams' for a buffet supper.

The Bert L. Atwaters, the Benjamin H. Marshalls, the John B. De Havens, the Robert Cleggs, and the Walter Swansons are some of those who will be placing bets at the International club party. Georgie Price will act as master of ceremonies in auctioning off the horses in the pool.

Winnetka Church Group Has Spring Sale Today.

The parish house of Christ church, Winnetka, will be a busy place today for the annual spring sale of the Woman's Guild and auxiliary of the church. Mrs. Dudley Palmer and Mrs. Harold Wilder are in charge of the event, which will feature the guild's usual lovely hand made things. Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard is in charge of the committee that is arranging tables with the guild's handwork. Mrs. Frank Fulton is in charge of the luncheon that will be served from 12:30 until 2 o'clock. Mrs. Harve G. Badgerow is chairman of the flower committee, and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard is chairman of decorations.

Mrs. John G. McDonald is giving a tea tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Alice Orr Clark and Mr. Ruth Becker of St. Louis, directors of Camp Meenahga at Fish Creek, where the McDonalds' two daughters, Camille and Marianne, spend the summers. Camille will take councilors' training at the camp this

Thru the Looking Glass

Most mothers are Spartans, but it's a curious fact that the most sacrificial of them, come Mother's day, are more touched by gifts that enhance their attractiveness or suggest the feminine quality of it than any other. The purely practical minded mother is somehow completely enchanted by the gift that, at any other time, she'd consider outrageously frivolous.

So, when you go gift shopping for Mother's day, be sure you consider something delectable that she might never dream of buying for herself.

If you want to be a little practical, but at the same time pay tribute to her attractiveness, consider the rich gift of something like a permanent wave, or a course of face treatments. She'll adore them, especially if she's the kind of woman who always feels just a touch guilty when she indulges in such things for herself! You can arrange for these at her favorite beauty salon.

Or, if your budget won't permit anything quite so lavish, remember the other trappings of beauty that in another way serve your same purpose in gifts. There is always perfume. If you think every mother doesn't react to charm you're quite wrong. She may be sternly self-sacrificing and apparently interested only in the necessary bread and butter things, but perfume will be a special kind of food for her soul and her spirit. It's a tribute to her femininity that she'll find irresistible.

Scented soaps, colognes, airy-fairy kind of bath trimmings, sachets, pretty powder vanities, face creams and makeup aids—all these have special appeal to mothers; they all help her realize that some one remembers the eternal feminine in her!

Country Club's Annual Revue Scores Success

From the opening number, "The Follies Made a Man Out of Me," to the grand finale with Miss Helen Herendeen singing "We're All Americans Now," the "Follies of 4-F," the 31st annual production of the South Shore Country club, provided fast moving entertainment last night at the club. The revue, which will be repeated tonight, may go on tour in whole or in part to army and navy centers in this area which would like to see it.

Most of the young men who customarily take part in the follies have gone off to war, but under age and over age—meaning draft age, of course—boys and men filled the gaps, and everybody, both in the cast and in the audience, seemed to be having a good time. A series of skits, "Join the Army," "Join the Navy," and "Join the Marines," among them, furnished a clever background for the revue. Two of the ambitious dance numbers were "Southland," and "The Russians Are Like That." The costumes in the latter were handpainted gold ones, quite stunning. Polk bonnets and hooped skirts in an old rose color were eye filling in the southern number.

Marjorie Gregson did an engaging burlesque strip tease, and Patty Pugh revealed herself as an able dancer in her solo number. Fred Herendeen, author of the show, was a hit as a Japanese broadcaster. Mrs. Paul Flagg is chairman of the follies committee. Edgar I. Schboley directed the production, and Margot Koche was dance director.

WPB to Curb Millinery but Won't Curtail Styles

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—Women's hats shortly will go under government restrictions. The war production board disclosed today it has reached agreement with the millinery industry to proceed with a conservation order controling the size of large brims, the yardage used in fabric hats, and the length of ribbons and veils. The WPB said, however, it would make "no attempt to limit style possibilities or set styles in any way."

Fabric Gloves in Gay Colors Are Distinctive

BY REA SEEGER.

New, colorful fabric gloves dramatize any costume, especially the dull monotone affairs. For with distinctive color or pattern in accents, these dull costumes become ensembles of infinite distinction. For instance, all the gay fabric gloves of stripes, in diagonal formation even in the fingers, eye catching checks, and white dotted finds feature color and pattern contrasts.

New arrivals are made of effective striped and plaid materials in silk resembling cravat fabrics; that is, subdued color combinations and narrow or thick and thin stripings. Many of these gloves are paired with effective vestees, belts, and even hats, matched accessory teams with which to work magic with your darkest dress, coat, or suit.

Other tempting gloves are the gleaming black kidskins with wide cavalier cuffs of shiny patent leather, the cuffs faced back with either vivid red or green. These black and red or green ideas are just what you need for the shiny pickup for a dark day and a dark costume. They provide color without the necessity of too frequent cleaning, via soapsuds or chemical. Worn with one of the season's smartest bags of long lasting patent leather, you'll own costume accessories that never fail to highlight.

Washable gloves of luxury doeskin are good investments if you will wash them according to the directions. There's a bottled soap in one glove section that assures the best of care for such costly gloves. High colored gloves of suede have been treated to a cleaning with this bottled preparation with astonishingly smooth results, for the gloves are soft and retain their original color and flexibility.

May Day Dance.

Music Note

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, which yesterday completed its 52d season at Orchestra hall, goes to Mount Vernon, Ia., next week to make its 41st consecutive appearance May 7 and 8 at the 45th annual May Music Festival at Cornell college. Under the direction of Hans Lange, the orchestra will play three concerts during the two day festival, opening Friday evening, May 7, with a program of music by Bach, Villa-Lobos, and Bizet, dedicated to the memory of John B. Magee, Cornell's eighth president, who died recently. On Saturday afternoon, May 8, John Weicher, concertmaster, and Edmund Kurtz, principal cellist, will appear as soloists in Brahms' Double Concerto on a program dedicated to the memory of Frederick Stock. Saturday evening, May 8, the soloist will be Eugene Devereaux, professor of organ and theory at Cornell college, who will play Handel's Concerto for Organ.

Horowitz Ends Exciting Week in Recital Here

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Vladimir Horowitz played another of those miraculous recitals at Orchestra hall last night, again to a sold out house, with men in service his guests upon the stage. This was the performance originally scheduled for March 29, and postponed because of the fatal illness of Sergei Rachmaninoff. It climaxed a week exciting even in the life of a Horowitz, a week which began Sunday when, with Arturo Toscanini, he sold New Yorkers $10,000,000 worth of war bonds by playing a concert, and which led only night before last to his first appearance at a government camp, when, as Cecil Smith reported, he played for the men at Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Perhaps Horowitz is the only living pianist who can lift an audience bodily out of its chairs. He did that last night by a performance of an early Prokofieff Toccata that sounded like thunder and lightning sprayed with machine gun bullets. This is 1912 Prokofieff written when the composer was an inspired imp of Satan, full of wiles and guile and irrepressible talent. It explodes on the keyboard with a pattern ironically rhythmical, and it was played with a glittering clarity so exciting the audience literally stood up and yelled when it was finished.

Now that sort of thing annoys some musicians, who insist that Horowitz feels he must play louder and faster than any one else. I am utterly unable to be annoyed by something at once so prodigious in technique and so wittily apt in execution. I am convinced that every pianist would play the Toccata precisely like that—if he could.

Furthermore, that very velocity, that fabulous fluency and precision of phrasing make possible the sort of playing which was to me the most brilliant at last night's concert—the magnificent performance of two Debussy etudes, "Pour les Arpéges" and "Pour les Huits Doigts." They had the flow of water, the sheen of polished diamonds, the coruscating glitter of music even the most assiduous concertgoer hears all too seldom in a life time.

Mr. Horowitz began his concert with the Bach-Busoni Toccata in C, giving it a chiseled nobility of structure, a full firmness of tone, and a mood of contemplation that carried the serene security of conviction. He played a Schumann Flower Piece quietly, gently, almost with abstraction, and led up to the Prokofieff with a scintillating performance of a Medtner Sonata, the lively G minor, written in one movement.

From Chopin he chose the great Barcarolle and two etudes from Opus 10, the tenebrous, brooding one in E flat minor, and the shower of jewels that is the beloved G flat. From Liszt he chose the Petrarch Sonnet in A flat, playing it with much the same aristocratic gravity that was a Rachmaninoff trade mark, and he ended with two of the etudes transcribed from Paganini caprices, the E flat major and E Major, playing them with that whirlwind splendor which can seem to be utter abandon only because it is so firmly held in the leash of titanic technique.

Good Morning!

Members of the old guard, who are for Sherlock Holmes as he was created, needle and all, aren't caring for the present day screen episodes woven around Arthur Conan Doyle's picturesque character. . . . I like them—albeit I suspect Basil Rathbone, especially in this number, of tongue-in-the-cheekery, and Nigel Bruce of aiding and abetting as Dr. Watson in like manner.

Well—each to his taste. And now the British sleuth comes to Washington.

He comes—accompanied, of course, by Dr. Watson—to track down solution of the mystery surrounding an important document, which disappears before it can be delivered to its proper United States' recipient. . . . The document is supposedly entrusted to a regular king's messenger, but developments lead you to believe it is really in the custody of another person. . . . Action starts aboard an American bound airship on which sail many interested parties. . . . Holmes and Watson follow shortly. . . .

The quest proceeds to the tune of murder and chicanery in high places. . . . But Holmes goes his hound way unperturbed, nosing out clews with unerring instinct and shaking the marrow from them, the while Dr. Watson "covers" for him, exuding deliciously blockheaded observations.

I loved the two of them and enjoyed the whole picture, not minding in the least being spoofed—as I feel reasonably certain was the case. . . . As for the rest in the audience—they gave every sign of being vastly entertained by S. Holmes, Doc Watson, and what goes with 'em.

See you tomorrow.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

The list of possible attractions available to the Erlanger theater after "The Three Sisters" departs in June seems to be shrinking toward the vanishing point. Henry Duffy's vaudeville show, "Merry-Go-Rounders," once pointed toward Chicago, has been taken over by Marcus Heiman of the United Booking Office to fill empty dates in theaters along the east coast. Max Gordon's popular-priced company of "Junior Miss" will start the summer in Boston instead of Chicago. "Abie's Irish Rose," to be revived by Frank McCoy, will not be ready until well along in the summer. Michael Todd has given up all thought of a Chicago company of "Something for the Boys." All of which leads to the inevitable conclusion that the professional theater has nowhere near enough product to satisfy its potential demand in Chicago.

Continuing illness on the part of Lynn Fontanne has forced "The Pirate" to close in New York. It was scheduled to end its run tonight anyway, but Miss Fontanne fell ill on Tuesday and was barely able to finish her performance that evening. A mild success, "The Pirate" played 176 times in New York. It will not tour again; a pre-Broadway tour brought it to most cities in the middle west with the exception of Chicago.

"Dark Eyes," the comedy written by and featuring Eugenie Leontovich and Elena Miramova, may be counted on as an early fall entrant upon the Chicago scene. The present schedule calls for a tour beginning in Boston in July and working this way by degrees. Jay Fassett, one of the featured principals, leaves the cast on May 15 to retire to the peace of his ranch in Idaho. His successor has not been named, but Forrest Orr has been mentioned as a possibility.

Flora Campbell and Margie Hart end their tour in John Wildberg's production of "Cry Havoc" in Boston tonight. The play of the 13 nurses on Bataan was never the box office triumph Mr. Wildberg hoped for. It lasted nine weeks on the road [including three weeks here]; the projected New York engagement has been abandoned.

Nothing can kill "Arsenic and Old Lace." It is in its 120th week in New York. The second company, finishing its second year on the road, will play until at least the middle of June. In Australia a company has just completed a 13 week engagement in Sydney and moves to Melbourne for a run.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., April 30.—When Brian Donlevy finishes in the King Vidor picture "America," he's going to be one of our biggest stars. I think Paramount, where he's under contract, had better do something about lining up important pictures for him. They have him for very little money on a contract he signed ages ago. Metro-Goldwyn pays him three times as much, and stars him in one of their biggest. Brian and Vidor are back in Chicago now, taking shots for the picture. Brian plays a composite of Carnegie, Ford, Kaiser, and Jeffers. If it's half as good as King Vidor's "Big Parade," it will be one of the most important films of the year. . . . Nunnally Johnson may sign a long term deal with David Selznick. It would be nice teaming—they complement each other. Both aim for perfection. David's taken an option on Stephen Longstreet's novel "The Land I Live." Longstreet wrote "The Gay Sisters," among 17 other novels.

Important Doings.

Mary Beth Hughes and Ted North will make it a church wedding May 15. Mary's been signed by Pine and Thomas, and her first for them will be "Timber." Dick Arlen, 20 pounds lighter, looks so well he may inherit some of the Alan Ladd rôles. Dick's never lost his fan following. . . . It's only natural that Mary Pickford and John Charles Thomas should appear on the Mother's day program, 'cause mother wasn't just a word to them. . . . The Jed Harrises had a baby girl. They've named her Abbie. Had it been a boy, it would have been Abie. Knowing Jed, she'll probably be called "Gabby." Jed's gone to Palm Springs to recuperate.

Mary Beth Hughes.

You'll Be Seeing Them.

"Lady of Burlesque" rested squarely on Barbara Stanwyck's shoulders. At times she seemed to sag a bit from its weight. But it will clean up at the box office. Hunt Stromberg mighty wise signing up Victoria Faust. She's got what it takes. . . . Cary Grant's "Mr. Lucky" entertaining, with Cary's charm shining thru him. Laraine Day's mighty good, too. The best scene, however, was between Vladimir Sokoloff, as a Greek priest, and Cary. Sokoloff's superb. . . . Billy Wilder back from New York with James Cain's "Double Indemnity" ready for production. No, it's not about war, but a thriller murder mystery. Incidentally, the Cains' divorce is being handled very quietly.

Applied Psychology.

Young Bill Carter, who's working with Charlie Coburn in "Without Notice," starts scratching his head every time he watches Coburn. Finally discovered why he was doing it. Seems when he was in North Africa, last film he saw was "The Devil and Miss Jones," with Coburn. While he watched, fleas were biting him, so he kept on scratching. He couldn't perchance think of Charlie as a flea, could he? Edward Lowe and Evelyn Keyes have been set at Columbia for "Restless Lady." . . . Reason Lady Korda can't do "Cry Havoc" is because she has to finish "Attack by Night" at Columbia. . . . Lt. Col. John L. Chennault, son of the famous Flying Tiger, who's been stationed in the Aleutians, stopped over two days in our village. He was entertained by Edgar Bergen and Ray Noble.

Now They're Talking.

Michael Todd is whipping up a new musical with a Mexican locale for Zorina, Bill Gaxton, and Victor Moore. Todd has the New York hit "Something for the Boys," and Zorina deserves a good show. . . . Jackie Cooper and Jean Horne, daughter of former director, have it bad. . . . Loretta Young took out her grass and put in lettuce. First lettuce lawn in town. All she needs now are bunnies. Bill Holden left pictures to go into the army. Now Lt. Bill Holden is helping produce "The Army Hour." . . . Jean Lorraine, of Lorraine and Rognan [he died at Lisbon], is back here resting until Paramount's ready for her. . . . Leonard Sillman's searching small theater talent. He signed up 18-year-old Marnin Thrasher at La Jolla, also a team of colored dancers for "New Faces." . . . Bob Benchley's whacking out three scripts for shorts about present day life in Washington, D. C. . . . It's a photo finish between Harry James and Jimmy Dorsey at those Broadway houses.

Garden clubs, church groups, and neighborhood "pools" of families will have first chance at the new pressure cookers now being manufactured. Pressure cookers, as well as farm machinery, are rationed.

That doesn't mean that city persons will be left out, if they have large amounts of produce to can. But city, as well as farm residents, must obtain purchase certificates from their farm rationing committees or from special pressure cooker rationing committees which may be set up before they can buy the cookers. One family alone, particularly if it's an urban family, will have a hard time gaining a hearing in this respect. But groups of families who agree to share a cooker probably won't have much trouble.

Unrationed cheeses: Cream, fine in sandwiches and fruit salads; cottage, good alone, with chives, in salads, cheese cake; Camembert and Brie, two incomparable dessert cheeses [let them soften at room temperature before serving, especially Camembert, which should be runny, not stiff]; Liederkranz, a strong flavored, "smelly" cheese, fine for a late supper tray of cheese and crackers; blue, the American counterpart of Roquefort [better than the original, some say!] which is excellent crumbled into salad dressings, spread on hot steak [if you're that reckless], or served as dessert with fruit and crackers.

Jellied Cottage Cheese and Cucumber Salad.

[Serves six.]

1 package lemon flavored gelatin.
1½ cups hot water
1½ teaspoons vinegar
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup cooked salad dressing
¼ teaspoon paprika
4 chopped green onions, with tops
¾ cup cottage cheese
½ cup finely diced cucumber
3 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, add vinegar, salt, salad dressing, and paprika. Beat with rotary beater to blend. Chill until slightly thickened and fold in remaining ingredients. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp greens. Needs no dressing.

To prepare suet, pork, lamb, or chicken fat so that you may use it in cooking, cut it in small pieces, and fry out in a covered skillet, over low heat. Strain and chill. Suet and chicken fat are most choice among these for cooking purposes. They may be used for pastry, cookies, as a part of the fat in simple cakes.

Homemakers are urged to render fat scraps whether they can use them for cooking or not. The need for waste fats is great, and even the trimmings from your pork chops will help.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

Asparagus and Mushroom Casserole.

[Serves four to six.]

1 pound fresh asparagus
½ pound fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper
1 cup milk
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Cook asparagus until just tender. Slice mushrooms and cook in the butter or margarine. Remove mushrooms from butter, add flour and stir to blend. Season to taste and add milk. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Cut asparagus into 2 inch lengths and arrange in casserole in alternate layers with mushrooms. Top with sauce and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate [350 degrees] oven.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Columnist on Vacation.

There are all sorts of vacations
That do not come under rations:
There are outdoor girls who go to the mountains and ski
And those who loll by the sea;
There are energetic madcaps who gallop off on a horse
And, of course,
There are hosts
Of girls who visit army posts.
But the oddity of all creation
Is a columnist on vacation
Who goes around poking into every-one's business
Discovering the "whys" and "wherefores" and the "her-ness" and "his-ness"
Of jobs such as: in Hawaii there are women street-sweepers,
And everywhere there are women inn-keepers;
In California there are "butcher-ettes."
To say nothing of "conductorettes."
But after she has uncovered this startling information
She neglects to write a word about it because after all she's ON VACATION!

Soldiers All.

"A factory, making essential war material, runs a cafeteria in which six women are employed. One is over 60; four are in their 40s, and one is a young girl. Several have sons and sons-in-law in service. All get up in the morning very early [one at 4:45] to get to work at 6:30 or 7:30. They peel potatoes and vegetables, wash dishes, plan meals, make salads, carve the meats, bake pies and cakes, serve at the steam tables, pour coffee, and when all that is over they turn their hands to the eternal cleaning up. When they leave at 4 the huge kitchen is spotless for the night crew. In their shining white uniforms with which they start the day, who can say these women are not soldiers as well as white collar girls?"—Migs.

Speech Department.

"After 20 years of stubbornly adhering to the pronunciation of envelope in the face of every one's ONvelope, I like to find others championing the cause."—L. E.

"We could use more of the kind of your contributors, 'Mary' and 'France,' as teachers of American diction for American ears. Another nuisance in offices is 'col-yume' for 'column.' Where did that start—and how?"—M. M.

"Yes, Mary, and why do radio announcers say ottomobile instead of automobile—and don instead of dawn?"—Jane.

"You might ask 'Mary' and 'France' to see if they can discover why career girls, once they 'arrive,' begin to say 'oofully glad to see you' ['oof' to rhyme with hoof]?"—Jake.

Remember This When You Phone.

"The importance of communications to the navy under the present conditions cannot be overestimated. Telephone people are all part of an 'invisible navy' and, as such, are just as vital to the armed services in their prosecution of the war as are the sailors on a battleship or the marines on Guadalcanal."—F. J. Horne, vice admiral, United States navy.

Discard any D, E, and F blue stamps left in your No. 2 ration book, for they are no longer usable. Midnight yesterday also was the deadline for using A, B, C, and D red stamps. Effective for use at present are G, H, and J blue stamps for processed foods [48 points], and 16 points in E red stamps for meats, cheese, fats, and oils. F red stamps become valid tomorrow and G, H, and J stamps at successive weekly intervals thruout the month. As these become effective they are good thru the month of May.

Altho some stores apparently have been charging points for olive oil, this item is not included in the list of rationed salad oils and no red stamps should be claimed for its purchase.

A careless practice in some stores of taking blue stamps for meat and fish in tin or glass containers also has been reported. This is probably is due to confusion in classing these canned foods with other processed items requiring blue stamps [fruits, vegetables, juices]. However, red stamps only should be accepted when canned meats and fish are purchased.

Use carrots almost daily thruout next week as a cooked vegetable, salad ingredient, and sandwich filling, for they are heavy in supply and selling at very reasonable prices. Spinach, the most plentiful and lowest selling green on the market, is another good buy. Asparagus is arriving in larger quantity and is somewhat lower priced than on previous week-ends. Salad vegetables, such as green onions and radishes, are plentiful and moderately priced. Supplies of cabbage, green beans, and peas are light and prices are high. Broccoli and cauliflower also are scarce and in the high cost bracket.

Grapefruit, oranges, and apples are the fruits in best supply on the market, and prices of these vary from low to high, according to variety and quality. Grapefruit, which is inexpensive, might well be another daily menu item. May is the month when supplies of strawberries are heaviest on the Chicago market, but prices are still out of range of low cost budgets.

Spiritual Care a Vital Part of Child Rearing

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copy.: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

After all, life is a fairly practical business. When you have children, just the physical care of them alone must absorb much of your time, thought, and energy. But that doesn't mean the practical aspects of bringing up a family should exclude all the others. In fact, much of even the material concerns and physical care of the children can be carried out so that they're not merely bare, dull, utilitarian motions. Almost any mother who enjoys her children knows that.

Preparing vegetables, for example, can be shared with even a small son or daughter, with a running conversation, as can other kitchen doings. Bath time, as another example, needn't be just a routine for cleanliness. With the younger children it's a pleasant event, to be enjoyed in the doing, as is almost everything else a young child does. With the somewhat older boys and girls, who are still young enough for you to keep an eagle eye out for a thoro job, bath time may offer an opportunity for recitals of the day's doings, questions or confidences. Incidentally, it gives you an opportunity to keep posted on your child's state of health and general development.

Life is a practical affair and the "business" of bringing up children does require much strength and thought. But if we give all we have to those aspects of our children's lives and exclude the equally important growth and development of their personalities, we're doing only half a job.

I wrote an article some time ago; I still have it among my notes, which I called "Spinach or Spirit—Why Not Both?" Spinach, as of course you see, is the symbol of all the time and thought we lavish on food values, food planning, food preparation, and other physical care of our children. Now, that sort of thing is vital of course. We must do all in our power to secure for our children healthy bodies. But they need also a healthy rich emotional or spiritual life to be well rounded personalities.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

In deciding whether or not to make an overcall, it is not enough to satisfy yourself that your hand contains the values for the contemplated bid. Other considerations apply with equal force. There is, for example, the question of whether or not you want a certain suit led by your partner if the opponents buy the contract. Today's deal illustrates this point.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	1 spade	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Few bids can be more costly than overcalls that influence bad opening leads. East's spade overcall in this case was an example. It induced West to lead his fourth best spade, and when this was allowed to ride to the queen, the defenders could fold their tents and fade away.

As a matter of fact, declarer actually succeeded in making an overtrick, due to East's subsequent misplay. The spade queen holding the first trick, declarer led his remaining spade to the ace and returned a heart from dummy. East ducked and the king held. The heart queen drove out the ace, and East led a third spade. Declarer ruffed and picked up West's remaining trump, discarding a diamond from dummy. He then led a club to the king and returned a low club toward the jack. East hopped up with the queen and made the horrible return of his fourth spade. It should have been completely obvious to East that it was vital to knock out dummy's diamond ace, but apparently he was blind to this fact. Declarer ruffed the spade return and cashed the club jack, then entered dummy with the diamond ace and discarded his losing diamond on dummy's club ace.

If East had left his partner to his own selection of a lead, it is very likely that West would have opened a diamond, and reasonably good defense would have defeated the contract.

Mrs. Tom B., Chicago: Here's the way I make a slim steak look like more! I toast slices of bread under the steak rack when I broil meat and than I place steak on it. This adds to apparent "volume" of the steak.

Mrs. Henry G., Racine, Wis.: I hope that after the war manufacturers will attach swinging lids to our cooking kettles, and in this way the task of searching for the right lid for the right kettle will be permanently over.

Mrs. Margaret P., Evansville, Ind.: When I want my laundred garments to dampen evenly and easily, for ironing, I don't roll them. Instead, I fold them, and use oiled silk to wrap them in.

Emory J., Chicago: Whenever I have a piece of furniture to "sand" before refinishing, I sand it with the grain of the wood. I get much better results this way.

11 CHALLENGE COUNT FLEET IN DERBY TODAY

IT LOOKS LIKE THE FAVORITE'S DAY IN LOUISVILLE—BUT YOU NEVER CAN TELL!

Slide Rule (left) and his W. E. Boeing stable mate, Twoses, both outsiders, might be telling each other that Count Fleet's no cinch to win. More than one hot Derby favorite has been soundly beaten in the past. The race is scheduled to start at 5:30 p. m. (Chicago war time). [TRIBUNE Photos.]

SAILORS DEFEAT IRISH, 8 TO 3, FOR SECOND VICTORY

Vern Olsen, Ex-Cub, Is Winning Pitcher.

The Great Lakes Bluejackets, 1942 national service champions, opened their 1943 home campaign yesterday by defeating Notre Dame, 8 to 3, on the station's Constitution field before 10,000 recruits. It was the second victory of the year for the Sailors, who beat the Louisville Colonels last Sunday.

Glenn McQuillen, former Browns outfielder, making his debut with the Bluejackets, scored a run, and got a double and a single. Another member of the new Bluejacket squad, Johnny Mize, ex-New York Giant first baseman, went hitless in three trips to the plate.

Lt. Mickey Cochrane used three pitchers against the Irish. Vern Olsen, ex-Cub left hander, started and was credited with the victory. He yielded one run and three hits during his three inning stay. Olsen was followed by Bob Harris, formerly of the Philadelphia Athletics, who also worked three innings, and Tom Ferrick, ex-Cleveland Indian, who pitched the final innings.

Smith's Still Sox Choice to Face Browns

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The weatherman gave the White Sox the chill again yesterday and at the same time forced the St. Louis Browns to remain in their barracks instead of making their 1943 debut in Comiskey park. However, James Dykes' crew fooled the weather expert to some extent. They sneaked in a couple hours of throwing and running on their home premises, tho unable to indulge in any much needed batting practice.

He's the Only Winner.

Eddie Smith was to have southpawed the final against Cleveland Thursday and was slated for work yesterday, and he's still first on Dykes' assignment sheet. He'll try to operate today on the Browns, whom he whipped, 3 to 1, in the season's inaugural series for the lone Sox triumph to date. He may draw Denny Galehouse as an opponent.

For tomorrow's double header Dykes will employ Johnny Humphries and Thornton [Lefty] Lee, leaving Bill Dietrich, the run-starved right hander, on call for Monday, when the Sox will open in Cleveland.

Sox to Get Bond Flag.

A minute man flag indicating 100 per cent participation on the part of the Sox players in the pay roll savings plan for the purchase of war bonds, will be presented to the club at home plate before tomorrow's first game.

Dykes will accept the flag from William H. Perkins, assistant pay roll savings director of the Illinois war savings staff. Because of the big loss of personnel to military service, it was necessary to start all over again on the pay roll savings plan this year, according to Vice President Harry Grabiner.

GOLF, BASEBALL, TENNIS, TRACK ON N. U. PROGRAM

Seven Big 10 Schools in Red Cross Benefit.

Northwestern university will be host today to athletic teams from six Big Ten schools in a field day program for the benefit of the Red Cross. The day's activities will include competition in track, baseball, tennis, golf, and football. The starting times have been spaced to enable spectators to witness all five events.

Wet grounds forced a postponement of yesterday's baseball game with Wisconsin, so the two teams will meet in a double header starting at 1:30 p. m. today.

The first event will be a golf match between the Wildcats and Michigan at the Tam O'Shanter Country club starting at 9 o'clock. The morning card also will include a tennis match between Northwestern and Minnesota on the university courts at 10:30.

Track Meet Starts at 1:30.

The scene then will shift to Dyche stadium, where six teams will take part in a track meet at 1:30 p. m. The contesting schools are Northwestern, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Chicago, and Purdue. The meet will be followed by an intra-squad football game, which will wind up spring practice for the Wildcats.

Wisconsin, with a well balanced squad which includes Bob Hodgill, conference indoor high jump champion, is expected to win the track meet. Minnesota should give the Badgers their strongest competition. The Gopher squad is built around a fast one mile relay team composed of two freshmen—Harry Covey and Ralph Ferrin—Bruce James and Ralph Pohland.

Maroons Have Charley Hlad.

The meet's two outstanding performers, however, will represent Chicago and Northwestern. The Maroons will have Charley Hlad of Michigan Normal, one of the nation's top hurdlers who is a cadet in the university's naval meteorological institute. Howard Hunt, former national college pole vault champion from Nebraska, will represent Northwestern. Hunt is a midshipman in the naval training school.

Coach Lynn Waldorf has divided his football squad into two teams for the spring practice final. Alex Kapter and Johnny Gent, first string guards, have been appointed respective captains of the White and Purple elevens. Other regulars from last year who will compete are Nick Vodick, Dud Kean, Lynne McNutt, Joe Scriba and Irv Weingartner, backs; Hal Hudson and George App, centers; Ray Vincent and Bill Ivy, tackles, and Frank Genovese, guard.

Count Fleet practicing the horse laugh he hopes to give his rivals after he beats them today. Remember, Count, he who laughs last laughs best!

Robinson and Armstrong in Easy Victories

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—Henry Armstrong took another step along the comeback trail tonight by scoring a fifth round technical knockout over Saverio Turiello of New York City.

The fight had been scheduled for 10 rounds, but Turiello went down for a count of seven in the fourth, and in the fifth Armstrong sent him against the ropes twice, then floored him with a right to the jaw. He got up, but Referee Eddie Lafond decided he had had enough. Armstrong weighed 142 pounds; Turiello, 147.

ROBINSON WINS IN FIRST.

Boston, Mass., April 30 (AP).—Pvt. Ray Robinson, Harlem Negro, disposed of Freddy Cabral of Cambridge with four terrific left hooks to the body after two minutes and 20 seconds of one-sided fighting tonight in the scheduled 10 round feature bout in the Boston Garden.

The crowd totaled 5,655 and gross receipts were $8,631.

ZIVIC STOPS ROZINA.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 30 (AP).—Fritzie Zivic, the Pittsburgh veteran, was awarded an eight round technical knockout over Johnny Rozina, Milwaukee welterweight, in the Auditorium tonight after apparently having put the local boy away in the first. Rozina caught a right to the jaw in the first minute or so and was on his knees when Referee Ted Jameson completed the count. Rozina, claimed, however, that he had not understood the count, so was allowed to continue.

In the eighth, the referee examined Rozina's eyes and decided it would be unsafe for him to continue.

SPORTSMAN'S OPENS SPRING MEETING TODAY

6 Day Charity Program Ends; To Net $75,000.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The special race meeting sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., at Sportsman's Park came to a successful conclusion yesterday, with a preliminary audit indicating that approximately $75,000 will be realized for local welfare agencies, including the United, Catholic, and Jewish charities. More than 60,000 racegoers witnessed the six days of racing which began last Saturday.

The regular 1943 meeting at the half mile Cicero plant will open today, continuing thru May 15. Feature race on this afternoon's schedule is the Col. Dan Hardt handicap, a $1,500 mile and a sixteenth test for three year olds and upward. It has attracted a field of six Sportsman's Park perennials—Valdina Groom, First Draftee, Anxiety, Latent, Sun Pharos, and Little Bolo.

Ballinderry Wins Aurora.

Yesterday's finale was one of the most interesting of the meeting, including as it did a disqualification, a downed rider, and another fight between the long shot and favorite partisans. The latter were rewarded in the feature, the Aurora, a seven furlong claiming affair, when Ballinderry, an old stager at Sportsman's Park, squeezed out a photo finish decision over Spring Drift at odds of 3 to 2. The seven year old daughter of Strolling Player was ridden by Tony Skoronski, the little man who came back to score with yet another played animal, Commencement, in the seventh.

The aforementioned disqualification came in the third race, and proved to be the beginning of a very unhappy afternoon for Jockey Walter Warren. He was up on Gato, the 8 to 5 public choice, which got up in the stretch after bearing in toward the rail, but was placed last after a prolonged inquiry by the stewards. The winner, as moved up, was Matchless, 3 to 1, and ridden by young Don Hauer for his first victory of the meeting.

Daily Double Pays $274.60.

In the following race, Warren had the mount on the third wagering choice, Tawny Lady. Just as they were making their move on the last turn, the filly spilled Warren and Liberty Bon, 2 to 1 favorite, romped in by six lengths. The boy was only shaken up, but, to add to his woes, the stewards later recommended that he be set down for ten days for his rough ride on Gato.

The long shot set, which has been put on a stiff rationing program since its fancy doings of last Saturday, touched off quite a revolution in the first two races, which produced the next largest double of the

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—Johnny Longden, who will be aboard Count Fleet, topheavy favorite in the 69th running of the Kentucky Derby tomorrow, intends to shoot at the record of 2:01 2-5, established by Whirlaway two years ago. . . . Whirlaway's mark ranks with the half dozen greatest mile and a quarter performances in the history of the American turf. . . . Longden, comparing Whirlaway and Count Fleet tonight, said that Whirlaway has one tremendous burst of speed, whereas Count Fleet has speed all the way. . . . The latter's sire, Reigh Count, was a typical distance competitor who came from far back off the pace. . . . Count Fleet, on the other hand, stays fairly close to the first flight. . . . Whirlaway, of course, often is a city block behind the leaders in the early stages of a race. . . . Longden finished fourth astride With Regards in last year's Derby, fifth on Sirocco in 1940, and fourth on Melodist in 1937. . . . While the mutuel patrons apparently are willing to declare Count Fleet tomorrow's winner by proclamation, trainers and owners of other entrants still are hopeful. . . . Even Jack Benny's Rochester, whose Burnt Cork will go to the post at 100 to 1, if he goes at all, thinks his horse will wind up in the money. . . . Rochester professes to be deeply hurt because some Kentucky writers claim the entry of a bum like Burnt Cork is a travesty on the sacred traditions of the famous race. . . . If Burnt Cork is a starter, he'd better be a runnin' hoss, because they say Benny is going to bet $2 on him to show. . . . Well, anyway, Jack is going to split the bet with Dennis Day, a dollar apiece. . . .

The importation of the English stallion, Blenheim II., at a cost of $250,000 some years ago has proved profitable to Warren Wright, owner of Calumet farm. . . . Out of it he got Whirlaway, a member of Blenheim II.'s first crop of American foals. . . . Now he has Ocean Wave, No. 2 favorite in the betting tomorrow, so Blenheim II.'s sons are bidding for their second Kentucky Derby victory in three years of eligibility. . . . There was good reason for that smile on the face of John Hertz as he watched Count Fleet deliver his magnificent final workout the other day. . . . Mr. Hertz was recalling that it was in just such miry footing that Count Fleet's daddy, Reigh Count, carried Mrs. Hertz's colors to victory in the Derby in 1928. . . . Dove Pie, listed as a 75 to 1 shot in the Derby field, derives the first part of his name from his sire, Peace Chance. . . . What about the Pie? . . . That's just to warn those who bet on him that they'll get their just desserts. . . . Good heavens, what am I saying? . . . The Blue Grass people will think that I, too, am making burlesque of drama. . . .

Jack Hodgins, trainer of Amber Light, advises against selling this colt's chances short on the basis of his defeat by Ocean Wave in the Blue Grass stakes. . . . Pointing out the fact that Charles T. Fisher's candidate had been crowded into close quarters against the rail, had tried to get thru, had been pulled up, taken to the outside, and sent on again, Hodgins said: "The boy had to make at least three different runs with him. A horse doesn't like that. He gets discouraged when he's taken up, and loses his zip and interest. I don't think he really ran his race in the Blue Grass." . . . Bernie Cummins, whose band is entertaining early Derby arrivals at a Louisville night spot, goes to the track every afternoon. He has decided that the Yankees will repeat in the American league and the Dodgers will be first under the wire in the National. . . . Slide Rule's trainer, Cecil Wilhelm, was surprised and pained when that colt had to break from outside the 12 stall starting gate in the Derby trial field. . . . He occupied the 13th post position. . . . Wilhelm believes that the reason he wheeled and was almost left at the post was that he became confused by the unfamiliar handling after being trained to break from the gate.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 30.—Count Fleet, Mrs. John Hertz's magnificent colt, will race tomorrow in the Kentucky Derby, pitting speed of foot and tenacity of courage against a field from which half a dozen challenges may be flung at him in the course of the mile and a quarter run over tradition-hallowed Churchill Downs.

The 12 horses named today in the overnight entries will bring in all the elements which in the past have made the Kentucky Derby a rough, tough race. There are horses in there with early speed, which will make Count Fleet run to keep from getting lost in the scramble for position. There are others which will tire and may impede him. There are still others which will be running at him hard in that last quarter mile, in which so many Derby hopefuls have faltered and failed.

Derby's Never a Pushover.

There has been much said and written to the effect that this will be an easy Derby for Count Fleet. But there's no such thing as an easy Derby. Some of them just look easy. If Count Fleet comes thru without apparent effort tomorrow it will be because he's every bit the splendid thorobred his most enthusiastic admirers say he is.

Ocean Wave's steady development in the last few weeks has been a tremendous factor in tightening up the contention in this $82,750 race presented by Matt J. Winn, under whose guidance the Derby long ago was built up to a national institution. This development reached its climax in Ocean Wave's thoroly capable victory in the Blue Grass Stakes followed by his sensational nine length conquest of his rivals in the Derby Trial Tuesday.

He Has That Whirlaway Finish.

At some stage of tomorrow's mile and a quarter run, Jockey Wendell Eads is going to call on Ocean Wave for the burst of speed which carried him past his Derby trial rivals with the suddenness habitually displayed by his stablemate, Whirlaway. When that charge is launched, Count Fleet will show just how great a horse he is. When he accepts the challenge he may outrun Ocean Wave easily. If he doesn't draw away handily, one of the great stretch drives of Derby history may develop.

All these prospects, of course, are predicated on the assumption that Ocean Wave's handlers will succeed completely in clearing up the foot ailment which forced the Calumet Farm color bearer to come back limping from his Derby trial victory. Trainer Ben Jones had him on the track just walking this morning, but he'll open him up for three furlongs early tomorrow in a move which will decide whether or not

PIMLICO'S DIXIE HANDICAP DRAWS A FIELD OF NINE

Riverland and Attention Given Top Weights.

Baltimore, Md., April 30 (AP).—A field of nine distance stars was named today to contest the $20,000 added Dixie handicap which will feature the racing program at Pimlico tomorrow, with chief early support centering on Riverland and Attention, two of the steadiest performers in the handicap ranks.

These two members of the We-Beat-Whirlaway club will carry top weight of 123 pounds each in the 40th renewal of the mile and three-sixteenths Dixie. Riverland, racing for the Louisiana Farm stables of Harold A. Clark, will be ridden by Steve Brooks.

Georgie Woolf will have the mount on Attention, the son of Equipoise, now racing in the silks of Trainer Max Hirsch, who leased him from the Mrs. Parker Corning estate.

Attention ran second in the 1942 renewal of the Dixie, which produced one of the most thrilling contests of the Maryland racing years as Whirlaway came blazing down the stretch to win the major share of the purse. Charles S. Howard's Mioland, also named to run tomorrow, was third.

Sketches of Derby Horses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 30.—Following are sketches, with 1942-'43 records, of the 3 year olds in the Kentucky Derby field tomorrow:

Count Fleet, brown colt by Reigh Count-Quickly, by Haste. Owner—Mrs. John Hertz. Trainer—Don Cameron.

	Starts.	1st	2d	3d	Earnings.
1943 record	2	2	0	0	22,100

Count Fleet won the Wood memorial, beating Blue Swords by three and a half lengths, and also a preparatory race at Jamaica in his only two starts this year. Since coming to Churchill Downs, he has worked a mile and an eighth in 1:53 2-5 over a muddy track and then galloped out the full Derby route in 2:07. As a juvenile he ran the fastest mile ever delivered by a 2 year old—1:34 4-5—in winning the Champaigne stakes at Belmont. His other stake victories last year were in the Pimlico futurity and the Walden handicap at Pimlico and the Wakefield stakes at Empire City. He was second to Occupation in the Washington Park futurity and second to Gold Shower in the Eastview stakes at Empire City. He was third to Occupation and Ask Me Now in the Belmont futurity. In 17 starts he never has been out of the money. He runs well either in mud or on a fast track.

No Wrinkles, chestnut colt by Wise Counsellor-Crow's Feet, by Man o' War. Owner—Mrs. Ethel V. Mars. Trainer—Roy Waldron.

	Starts.	1st	2d	3d	Earnings.
1943 record	3	0	2	1	675

No Wrinkles was third to Ocean Wave and Slide Rule in the Derby trial. Previously he had run second to Ocean Wave and second to Amber Light in a short allowance race and a handicap, respectively, at Churchill Downs. During the Tropical Park season in December, he won two six furlong events. He was unplaced in stakes races as a juvenile. He likes a dry track.

Blue Swords, bay colt by Blue Larkspur-Flaming Swords, by Man o' War. Owner—A. T. Simmons. Trainer—W. A. Kelly.

	Starts.	1st	2d	3d	Earnings.
1943 record	2	0	1	0	5,000

Blue Swords ran second to Count Fleet in the Wood Memorial, beaten by three and a half lengths. In his only other start this season he finished 12th in the Experimental handicap. As a juvenile he won the Eastern Shore at Havre de Grace, the Ardsley at Empire City, and the Remsen at Jamaica. He ran second by six lengths in the Champaigne stakes, in which Count Fleet set the all-time record for juveniles of a mile in 1:34 4-5. He was third to Occupation and Count Fleet in the Washington Park futurity.

Slide Rule, dark chestnut by Snak-King's Idyll, by Sir Gallahad III. Owner—W. E. Boeing. Trainer—Cecil Wilhelm.

	Starts.	1st	2d	3d	Earnings.
1943 record	3	1	1	0	5,150

Slide Rule won the Experimental handicap at Jamaica, then ran fifth to Count Fleet in the Wood Memorial. He was second, nine lengths behind Ocean Wave, in the Derby trial after he had wheeled when breaking from the 13th post position outside the starting gate. As a 2 year old he won the Babylon handicap and the Cowdin stakes at Aqueduct.

Gold Shower, chestnut gelding by Jean Valjean-Patsie McKim, by Aldebaran. Owner—Mrs. Vera S. Bragg. Trainer—J. W. Healy.

	Starts.	1st	2d	3d	Earnings.
1943 record	1	0	0	0	....

Gold Shower's claim to Derby consideration rests upon a very fast workout of a mile in 1:35 4-5 and the mile and an eighth in 1:49 at Belmont just before being shipped to Louisville. Previously he had finished out of the money in the Experimental handicap. His major achievement as a juvenile was his victory over Count Fleet in the Eastview stakes at Empire City. He was third in the Myles Standish at Suffolk Downs and third in the Wakefield stakes at Empire City.

	Starts.	1st	2d	3d	Earnings.
1942 record	9	5	1	0	$ 8,815
1943 record	10	7	3	0	26,210

Ocean Wave won the Derby trial by nine lengths, the Blue Grass stakes by two and a half, and also an allowance race at six furlongs since the opening of Kentucky's spring season. During the winter he was beaten by Amber Light in the Louisiana Derby and by Seven Hearts in the Arkansas Derby. As a juvenile, he won the Sagamore stakes at Pimlico and was second to Blue Swords in the Remsen handicap at Jamaica. He can run either in mud or on a fast track. He was lame, due to a flesh injury in his left front foot, as he pulled up after his Derby trial victory.

Amber Light, chestnut colt by Pilate-Red Sunset, by High Time. Owner—Charles T. Fisher. Trainer—Jack Hodgins.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Earnings.
1943 record	5	4	1	0	16,310

Amber Light beat Ocean Wave by a nose in the mile and an eighth Louisiana Derby March 6, and won two allowances races during the Fair Grounds meeting. In Keeneland's meeting at Churchill Downs this month, he beat No Wrinkles in a six furlong handicap and ran second to Ocean Wave, beaten by two and a half lengths, in the Blue Grass stakes. As a juvenile, he ran second to Occupation in the Breeders' futurity at Keeneland.

Dove Pie, bay colt, by Peace Chance-Halloween II., by Sansovino. Owner—J. W. Rodgers. Trainer—D. R. McDaniel.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Earnings.
1942 record	15	1	2	7	$3,781
1943 record	8	1	2	2	2,425

Dove Pie finished fourth to Ocean Wave, Amber Light, and Crest in the Blue Grass stakes. His only victory of this season was scored in a mile and a sixteenth allowance event at Oaklawn. He was third to Seven Hearts and Ocean Wave in the Arkansas Derby. His only placing in stakes as a juvenile was his third to Occupation and Amber Light in the Breeders' futurity at Keeneland.

Modest Lad, brown colt by Ladkin-Modest, by St. James. Owner—Mrs. H. L. Finch. Trainer—Eddie Coates.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Earnings.
1943 record	7	0	3	1	1,000

Modest Lad scored the only victory of his career in a $1,500 claiming race at Saratoga last August. He was fourth behind Ocean Wave, Slide Rule, and No Wrinkles in the Derby trial.

Bankrupt, bay colt by Pay Up-Strong Wheat, by Trigo. Owner—T. B. Martin. Trainer—Howard Wells.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Earnings.
1942 record	10	3	0	3	$4,110
1943 record	2	0	1	0	200

Bankrupt finished sixth in the Derby trial and second in an allowance event in his only two starts this year. Two of his three victories as a juvenile were scored in claiming races, the other in an allowance event at Belmont.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Earnings.
1943 record	4	0	1	2	$3,000

Twoses finished third behind Count Fleet and Blue Swords in the Wood Memorial in the only noteworthy performance of his career. He was fifth in the Derby trial. As a juvenile, he was out of the money in four starts. His nearest approach to a victory was his second place, two and a half lengths behind the winner, in a maiden race at Jamaica this month.

Burnt Cork, bay colt by Mr. Bones-North Wind, by North Star III. Owner—E. A. Anderson. Trainer—A. E. Silver.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Earnings.
1942 record	10	6	1	2	$10,530
1943 record	1	0	0	0	0

Burnt Cork was last in the field of 13 in the Derby trial, his only start this year. As a juvenile, he won the Prairie State stakes at Washington Park, was second in the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap and third behind Occupation in the Washington Park Juvenile stakes.

COUNT FLEET IS FIRST CHOICE OF HANDICAPPER

Louisville, Ky., April 30 (AP).—As might have been expected, the official Churchill Downs handicapper, E. A. Weidekamp, today designated Count Fleet as his "0"—or favorite—horse in preparing the program for Derby day tomorrow.

The program daily rates horses in each race by numbers. If a horse has a number ending in "0," he is first choice, if "1," he is second, and so forth.

Back of Count Fleet in tomorrow's program Weidekamp ranked them this way: 1—Ocean Wave, 2—Blue Swords, 3—Amber Light; 4—Slide Rule and Twoses [Boeing entry], 5—Gold Shower; 6—No Wrinkles, 7—Modest Lad; 8—Dove Pie, 9—Bankrupt and Burnt Cork [the mutuel field].

Expect Crowd of 50,000.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz will be on hand to watch their horse seek to duplicate the feat performed by his sire, Reigh Count, which won the Kentucky Derby of 1928. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright, who preside over picturesque Calumet Farm, will be watching Ocean Wave attempt to deliver the kind of a race which their Whirlaway gave them in taking the Derby of 1941.

The crowd of 50,000 people from Louisville and its environs who are expected to gather for this street car Derby, probably will pour so much betting support to Count Fleet that his odds will be no greater than 3 to 5, possibly as low as 2 to 5. Ocean Wave, at second choice, probably will be about 7 to 2. If his odds are greater it probably will be because many fear he is not fully recovered from his foot ailment.

Twoses May Not Start.

Among the others which will command attention of the bettors will be Blue Swords, the horse which ran second to Count Fleet in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica two weeks ago. Slide Rule, which closed brilliantly after being virtually left at the post in the Derby trial, will get some support which may be shared by his stablemate, Twoses, a doubtful starter if the track should turn muddy. Gold Shower, Amber Light and No Wrinkles will have their backers. The others will be thumping longshots.

If the track remains dry there is a prospect that Whirlaway's Derby record of 2:01 2/5 will be broken. Count Fleet has shown capabilities of tremendous speed, having run a mile as a 2 year old in the fastest time ever delivered by a juvenile.

2 TRIBUNE MEN PICK OCEAN WAVE AND COUNT FLEET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 30.—Kentucky Derby forecasts by the CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S staff writers at Churchill Downs follow:

Arch Ward: The Fleet's in. Ocean Wave and No Wrinkles will follow to make it a sweep for Chicago.

Howard Barry: Ocean Wave has it in him for one mighty charge which may catch Count Fleet in the last 20 yards. Slide Rule can have third place.

6 Day Charity Program Ends; To Net $75,000.

meeting—$274.60. The opening day's double was $322. They started it off yesterday with Miss Lexington, 9 to 1 in the mutuels, which trounced the 8 to 5 choice, Shirley G., in the stretch. This operation was repeated in the second race, which saw Grace K., get up under energetic handling by George McLeod to whip the well-liked Pop's Rival, who was held at 4 to 5.

Barney Leads Jockeys.

Leading rider of the charity meeting was Lawrence Barney, the 19 year old Joliet kid who went into the final day with eight winners, but couldn't score on any of the four mounts he had yesterday. He still finished ahead of the seven turned in by Tony Skoronski and Willie Lowe. Willie Gillespie was next in line with six.

Clyde Troutt, the Benton, Ill., veteran, led all owners with purse takings of $2,950, and tied George E. Lewis for first place among the trainers with four triumphs. W. E. Harned ranked second in the training set with three. Nine other stables trailed Trout with winnings of $1,400 each.

The Illinois Racing commission yesterday announced that it has approved action of the stewards in setting down Jockey Andy Lo Turco, and further ruled that the suspension be continued for six more racing days.

Sudden Thoughts.

Do you suppose we'll get another chance to inspect the subway when Mayor Kelly runs again in 1947?
—Missus Ryemeal.

If the allies invade Europe Hitler threatens to use gas. By that time even he won't be able to get a C card.
—Paul Larmer.

My Choice.

To be your first love? No, my dear,
For these are quickly past.
Your first love's not enough, I fear;
I'd rather be your last.
—Ruth McFadden Svec.

Farewell to the Gladiators.

Farewell to them all: To big John, who hated poetry and often said so; to laughing Gerry, whose name flashed across every sports page last November; to shy, baby faced Bob, who looked far too young to be a varsity half back; to the fleet runner, Babe; to the three smiling Dutchmen, always and everywhere together; to the two Latins, Marty and Cammilli, with the black eyes and the bronzed faces. Farewell to these and to the others about to go. The past closes in on odes and sonnets, on essays and novels, on fast quarter back sneaks, on long end runs and perfect lateral passes. Now larger battles loom and these American boys will fight, these American boys with the varied backgrounds—Lithuanian, Italian, Gaelic, and Teutonic. Farewell to the gladiators and may they go forward to swift achievements; may they come back soon to their campus, the glow of triumph on their eager young faces.
—J. C. R. of N. D.

What Can't Be Cured.

"What can't be cured must be endured"
Is a saying as old as the hills;
The truth of it is self-evident,
Whatever your troubles and ills.
The rod and the staff were not devised
For you and you alone,
Every man who has trod this earth
Some weight of them has known.

"What can't be cured must be endured."
So make the best of it,
Don't sigh aloud, but be quietly proud
You were able to stand the test of it.
Never put salt in an open wound
Of body or of mind—
Carry your cross without sense of loss
And new glory in it you'll find!
—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

Prescription for Gloom.

Build yourself a strongbox,
Fashion each part with care;
When it's strong as your hand can make it,
Put all your troubles there.
Hide there all thought of failure
And each bitter cup that you quaff,
Lock all your heartaches within it—
Then sit on the lid and laugh.
—C. Ham.

Senn's singles entrant will be Jerry Evert, who also had qualified on Thursday.

Senators Win Over Yankees in Tenth, 2-1

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—Emil [Dutch] Leonard, veteran knuckle ball pitcher who was not much help to Washington last year because of a broken leg, matched his 1942 won mark today when he hurled the Senators to a 2 to 1 10 inning victory over the New York Yankees.

In scoring his second victory of the season, Leonard beat Hank Borowy in a mound duel that was decided after Ellis Clary, Senators' third baseman, led off the 10th with a double. Gene Moore flied out, Stan Spence was intentionally passed, then Bob Johnson hit the game winning single.

Leonard checked the American league champions with four hits, one of which was Charlie Keller's fourth inning triple that led to the Yanks' lone run. Borowy was touched for seven hits, two of which came in the second when Jim Vernon's single, Gerry Priddy's sacrifice and Jake Early's single sent the Senators off in front.

The defeat was the Yanks' second of the season and dropped them into a tie for first place in the American league with the idle Cleveland Indians. Score:

Sad Cubs Take a Coach Ride to Pittsburgh

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 30.—The Cubs, who missed their train in St. Louis last evening after dropping a 4 to 3 decision to the champion Cardinals in 12 innings, today enjoyed a scenic day coach ride from St. Louis at 9 o'clock this morning, and arrived here at 10:40 o'clock tonight.

The Cubs, who were leading, 3 to 1, with one out in the ninth, were sad as they reflected on their lack of staying qualities, but they enjoyed the day coach trek, a return to the style of travel with which many of the boys were familiar in their minor league travels.

Despite his melancholia over yesterday's characteristic Cub fadeout, Manager Jim Wilson stood pat on his pitching selections for the Pirate series. It will be Claude Passeau tomorrow and in the double header Sunday, Hi Bithorn will go after his third victory and Kewpie Barrett will work the second game.

There will be a change in the Chicago batting order. Heinz Becker will be dropped from fourth to sixth. Dom Dallessandro, who made four hits yesterday, will be the new cleanup hitter.

JACOBS PITCHES NO-HIT GAME FOR UNIVERSITY HIGH

Les Jacobs pitched a no hit, no run game against Luther institute and University High defeated the defending Private School league baseball champion, 15 to 0, yesterday on the University of Chicago field. He also started a nine run rampage in the second inning with a home run.

Jacobs, a right hander and a senior, pitched to only 22 batters in the seven inning game, striking out five and walking one. Only two balls were hit out of the infield.

The other two Private School league games scheduled for yesterday, Chicago Latin at Wheaton and Concordia High at Harvard school were postponed because of weather. Score:

Canadian Girl to Pitch in All-Star League

Thelma Golden of Toronto, Can., a right hand hurler, and Mary Nesbit of Chattanooga, Tenn., a southpaw pitcher, yesterday were signed by the All-American Girls Softball league. Tryouts for players wishing to join one of the four league teams will be held today and tomorrow in Wrigley field, starting at 10 a. m. each day.

POPULATION OF WOLF, CALUMET LAKES TO GROW

10,000 Game Fish Will Be Placed There.

BY BOB BECKER.

Two truck loads of fish aggregating approximately 10,000 breeder size largemouth black bass, yellow bass, warmouth bass, bluegills, and crappies, will be placed in Wolf and Calumet lakes tomorrow by the Illinois department of conservation. These fish will be brought to the lake by fish division trucks from the Havana rescue station on the Illinois river.

The department of conservation announced yesterday that Chicago fishermen bought more licenses and did more fishing last year [the first war year] than in 1941. Last year 84,514 Chicagoans bought fishing licenses. This figure is a gain of 4,514 over 1941. Statistics on the whole state show that all types of fishing licenses [including hook and line and permits to professional fishermen using nets] showed a gain of nearly 55,000 in 1942 with a total of 504,082 sold.

Fewer Hunting Licenses.

Altho fishermen were more active last year, there were fewer Chicago hunters afield, judging from license sales. Last fall 39,287 sportsmen bought Illinois hunting licenses as against 49,862 in the fall of 1941.

Fly fishermen in northern Illinois have been catching bluegills and crappies the last few weeks.

"All indications point to unsurpassed interest and participation in hook and line fishing this summer in Illinois waters," Livingston Osborne, director of the conservation department, said yesterday. "Especially near the heavier centers of population, lakes and streams are expected to be fished more heavily than ever before. Our spring fish distribution program is well under way and will continue for several weeks."

First White Bass Appear.

Reports from the Wolf river in Wisconsin, an area that is fished by hundreds of Chicagoans every year, state that the first white bass of the 1943 season have made their appearance. Fishermen began to catch the "stripers" early in the week along with walleyed pike. The first heavy run of white bass, which usually brings excellent fishing, should appear sometime during the next two weeks, depending on the weather.

8 CITY, FOREST PRESERVE GOLF COURSES OPEN

Eight public golf courses, four in Chicago operated by the Chicago park district and four operated by the Cook county forest preserve commission, will be opened for the season today. The fifth forest preserve course, Palos Hills, has been turned over to the government for topographical work.

Three of the city courses are nine hole layouts, carrying a fee of 25 cents per round. They are Waveland, Waveland avenue and Lake Michigan; Marquette, 67th street and Kedzie avenue, and Columbus, Jackson boulevard and Central avenue. The other, Jackson park, east of 63d street and Stony Island avenue, is an 18 hole layout. The fee there is 50 cents, except for twilight rounds when it is 25 cents.

The forest preserve courses which are to open today are Edgebrook at Central and Devon avenues; Billy Caldwell, Cicero avenue and Caldwell road; Northwestern, Harms road and Simpson street, and Indian Boundary, Belmont avenue and River road.

PROFIT CASHING CHECKS RISE IN STOCK MARKET

Prices Close Uneven; Some at Peaks.

New York, April 30 (AP). — The stock market today attempted a recovery but profit cashing on Thursday's rally stalled many issues and prices closed irregular.

Early gains of fractions to a point or more were reduced or turned into small declines here and there at the close. Activity was liveliest at the opening with blocks of 18,000 Radio corporation and 10,000 International Telephone appearing. Both touched new tops for the year, along with a number of favorites. Radio finished up ¼ at 10¾, and International Telephone was unchanged at 13¼.

Sentiment was buoyed by the President's move in the coal labor controversy, the war news, and numerous optimistic earnings statements.

The Associated Press 60 stock averages emerged with net improvement of 0.2 of a point at 49.4, and was ahead 0.4 for April. The market again was broad, with 920 issues traded. Transfers of 1,358,890 shares compared with 1,340,820 yesterday.

RAIL LIENS REACH PEAK.

New York, April 30 (AP).—Railroad issues continued in high favor in the bond market today, reaching a new average peak since 1937. Most other domestic loans were steady, with changes generally small. Foreign bonds lagged.

Investment and speculative demand for carrier obligations was said to have been stimulated by additional debt retirement and refunding plans of various systems made possible by current high earnings of the industry.

Expectation that the New York Central would call its 3¾s of 1946 brought heavy buying in the road's next maturity, the 3¼s due in 1952. Great Northern loans were up fractions to 1½ points coincident with the retirement of the series "G" 4s due in 1946, and Alleghany 5s of 1949 closed up 2 points at 92½ after reports were circulated the road was negotiating to refund the 5s of 1944.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE.

Chicago Stock exchange prices advanced yesterday in trading of 36,000 shares. The more actively traded issues included RCA, up ¼ after touching a new 1943 high of 11; Chicago corporation and Miller & Hart, unchanged; Middle West corporation, up ⅛, and Woodall Industries, up ¾. In the final half hour General Electric advanced ⅛ and Montgomery Ward, Standard Oil [Indiana] and Zenth declined ⅛ from the New York close.

WAR DEVELOPS MEXICO'S ROAD, RAIL SYSTEMS

U.S. Engineers Aid in Pushing Work.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO, D. F., April 30.—Even if Mexico profits in no other way from World War II. she will come out of it with the best transportation system in her history. It will be a system of railroads and highways that will link and be jointly profitable to all the Americas.

Mexico for several years has been constructing a modern, national highway system. The war and its demands have made it possible to speed this work. For many years Mexico has had a national railway system, but the moderate traffic it carried was not sufficient to warrant keeping it abreast of the times.

Now that these lines have become a vital link not only to the United States, but between the United States and Central America, they are being brought up to the minute. American railroad technicians, thru an arrangement between the two governments, are rehabilitating the Mexican railways in all divisions; roadbeds, motive power, rolling stock, and shops. Particularly is this true in efficient organization of personnel.

Build Bridge to Guatemala.

One of the first steps toward making practicable the transportation of strategic materials by rail from Central America was the swift completion of a bridge across the Suchiate river, which separates Mexico and Guatemala. The bridge was finished last November and went into service.

For the time being, Guatemalan coffee is moving northward to the United States. In the first two months the bridge was in operation, 60,000 bags of 154 pounds each were shipped, records of the government owned National Railways of Mexico show.

Coffee may soon be crowded out, however, by the increasing load of metals, minerals, fibers, rubber, oils, lumber, food, and man power that is being sent into the United States aboard the Mexican railroads. The Suchiate bridge has eliminated the necessity of ferrying freight across the river, but there still is a great obstacle to speed in moving Central American goods north.

Carries Three Rail Tracks.

The Guatemalan railroads are narrow gauge. All freight reaching the border must be unloaded from Guatemalan to Mexican or American cars. To facilitate this, the new bridge carries three rail tracks, enabling the Guatemalan cars to be shunted to this side, and standard gauge cars to move to the southern end of the span.

Engineers are investigating the practicability of adding a third rail to the Guatemalan roads so that American and Mexican freight cars can be sent into that country to be loaded at points of origin. There are no such delays at the American-Mexican boundary and cars from the United States may be seen daily on the railroads here. This is particularly true of refrigerator cars, which take on Guatemalan bananas at the Suchiate river.

About 200 of these a week are supplied by American railroads. There are approximately 9,000 cars on the Mexican system and of these 7,000 roll every 24 hours over its 8,300 miles of track. Since rehabilitation of the Mexican lines began last year, production [the tonnage hauled] has doubled.

Engine Failures Reduced.

American technicians were thunderstruck by the number of locomotive failures each day on the Mexican systems; that is, the number of locomotives that simply went dead somewhere out on the line. Investigation showed the chief cause to be a lack of a water conditioning system to extract the alkali and other solids. This was remedied. On a given day this week there were only two failures.

Machinery at the railroad shops has been rebuilt to manufacture many repair parts that formerly came from the United States under priority. And to further this program, the Mexican railroads are reclaiming all their scrap for use in the shops. The government is cooperating and, among other scrap projects, is raising the sunken gunboat, Vera Cruz, which was scuttled by its crew in 1914 to prevent revolutionists from seizing it.

During 1942 the Mexican roads hauled 825,785 tons and tho 1943 figures are not available, it is estimated that freight movement for the first quarter of the year has been double that of the corresponding 1942 quarter.

Carry Workers to U. S.

Just now there is a movement northward on the railroad that is of vital importance to the United States and it's war work. This is the transportation of thousands of farm workers who replace Americans who have been called to the colors, and western Japanese, who have been interned.

The men are leaving now at the rate of 2,000 a week and by midsummer more than 40,000 will have reached their destination.

Before being accepted, the men are put thru rigid physical examinations and tested for aptitude to the type of farm work they will be expected to do. For example, many able bodied men are rejected as unfit for sugar beet work because they are not accustomed to the constant

Terms Small Business Key to Freedom

Maintenance of the American system when peace is won will largely depend on the strength of "little business" in the national economy, Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] said yesterday before the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman. He said that large concentration of power in the hands of industry, labor, agriculture, or government will lead to axis forms of economic slavery.

Joseph C. O'Mahoney

O'Mahoney said the present concentration of economic power in Washington stemmed from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which was established to give financial aid to business in the early days of the depression. Since then every time some group has wanted a handout it has gone to Washington for it, he said.

Sends Debt to Big Total.

States, counties, and cities have joined industry and agriculture in asking financial help from Washington, he said. All this has been a part of the force which has concentrated economic control in Washington and sent the national debt to staggering heights, he asserted.

With the government raising thru borrowing the money to meet the demands on it, the debt has been climbing upward like a leaning tower which must inevitably crash and crush the people, he said. By the end of another year the debt will have reached almost 300 billion, or $2,300 for every man, woman, and child in the United States, he said.

The senator said the outstanding characteristic of the modern scene is that collective enterprise has succeeded individual enterprise. The group, or collective, enterprise not only needs vast sums to finance its operations, but is managed by central authority. He said this central authority is motivated by considerations which do not take into account the needs or conditions prevailing in the communities in which it operates.

Says Orders Concentrated.

He asserted that in the war the government let 82 billion dollars of war contracts to 100 companies up to Dec. 3, 1942, or more than 70 per cent of the total. Even tho thousands of companies have received subcontracts from these companies they are linked to the prime contractors and therefore are not independent, he said.

O'Mahoney declared ways must be found to revive little business and free it from all forms of concentrated, arbitrary power. He suggested one way of accomplishing this was thru some form of incentive taxation to give every person who has a little capital an opportunity to invest it for profit. He said the incentive tax should reduce the taxes paid on profits accruing for small, independent local enterprises.

CLOSING OF DULUTH GRAIN EXCHANGE IS REQUESTED OF COURT

Duluth, Minn., April 30 (AP).—Action to dissolve the Duluth Board of Trade was filed in District court today by James R. Stewart and William Dalrymple, both of Minneapolis, who claim to be members of the board. The plaintiffs charge that during the last 10 years the business of the exchange has greatly decreased and that Duluth has ceased to be an active market for the buying and selling of grain.

Stating the corporation was organized without capital stock and instead provided for sale of memberships at $1,500 each, the plaintiffs allege memberships now are of no market value and that the last recorded sale was for $15.

The exchange replied, "The board of trade is an active, going concern. There is no basis for any claim that a trustee or receiver should be appointed."

Bohrer Sells Hotel; Center of Rent Strife

BY AL CHASE.

Randolph Bohrer, an attorney, yesterday sold the nine story Country Club apartment hotel, 6930 South Shore drive, to Morris Alexander, the deed filed at the recorder's office disclosed. The price was not stated, but is understood to have been approximately $675,000, subject to a $350,000 mortgage. The title taker, also a lawyer, is said to represent a syndicate of out of town buyers.

Bohrer, who in partnership with Louis H. Barkhausen, a retired manufacturer, bought the Marshall Field Garden apartments last year for $1,750,000, purchased the Country Club property for $485,000 in 1941.

Rent Controversy Arises.

Later he bought the land adjoining it on the south at the northwest corner of South Shore drive and East 70th street for $10,000, for parking. In the middle of last year he finished a modernization program which he said cost $100,000.

As a result of the improvements the property recently was the center of a bitter controversy over rent controls. Bohrer asked for and last October obtained a rent raise from the federal area rent control office of the office of price administration for some of the 178 kitchenette apartments.

Early this year he received a letter from CPA stating that the rent order would be rescinded unless he could present sufficient evidence to support the increases. Bohrer said political pressure brought this action and charged irregularities in operation of the area and regional offices of the rent control division.

Rules Against Increase.

A public hearing then was held by OPA, after which Miss Phyllis M. Kelley, OPA attorney in change, recommended that the October rent increase be rescinded.

In yesterday's sale title was conveyed to Alexander by Bohrer as trustee for the Doubleby company, comprising Bohrer and Barkhausen. The parking lot was not included in the sale. Bohrer bought the property, which is 160 by 243 feet, from the Country Club Building corporation, Edward I. Bloom, president. The hotel overlooks the grounds of the South Shore Country club.

TYPES OF WELL CASINGS CUT BY ORDER OF WPB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—The WPB today reduced from 300 to 168 the types of oil well castings, tubings, and drill pipes that may be produced. Officials estimated the ruling will result in a 15 per cent increase in output of this equipment and ease a threatened shortage of supplies for oil producers.

The WPB also heard complaints from a plumbing and heating industry committee that its restrictions on output and sales of plumbing and heating equipment are too severe. The committee urged WPB to release for sale stocks of de luxe plumbing equipment frozen in the hands of dealers.

The committee also asked WPB to take steps to increase bathtub production.

PREDICTS BORER MAY TAKE 25% OF ILLINOIS CORN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., April 30.—Dean H. P. Rusk of the University of Illinois college of agriculture predicted today that if certain climate conditions prevail this summer fully 20 to 25 per cent of the Illinois corn crop may be destroyed by the corn borer.

Speaking at a luncheon for members of the state general assembly, Dean Rusk said, "that means that we stand to lose 18 to 20 million bushels of corn, and that means a quarter of a million pounds of pork. The corn borer has been moving westward. Last year it infested the eastern counties of the state. This year it will spread thruout the state.

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—The government charged two New York area corporations and eight of their officials today with packaging rejected dried egg powder for United States fighting men and for England and Russia, and with stealing tons of the food products. A million dollar fraud was alleged.

Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, announcing the return of indictments at Syracuse, N. Y., and Trenton, N. J., said that the formal charges were theft, embezzlement, conspiracy to defraud the United States, and conspiracy to submit false claims. The companies named as defendants are Sondra Egg Products corporation and Samuel Dunkel & Co.

FIRST QUARTER EARNINGS RISE FOR LINK-BELT

Abbott Sales, Profit Also Increase.

Link-Belt company, Chicago, reported yesterday that first quarter consolidated net sales and earnings were larger than a year ago, despite increased provisions for federal and Canadian income and excess profits taxes. The company manufactures conveying, crushing, sizing, and screening machinery.

The net profit of $616,376, equal to 80 cents a capital share, compared with $580,268, or 77 cents a share a year earlier. Net sales were $18,248,036, against $13,610,435 during the first three months of 1942. Provisions for federal and Canadian income and excess profits taxes in the quarter were $17,631,660, compared with $13,030,167.

Aircraft Profit Rises.

UNITED AIRCRAFT CORPORATION, Hartford, Conn., reported its first quarter net profit increased to $4,050,750, equal to $1.40 a common share, from $347,580, or $1.19 a share, a year ago. Provision for federal income and excess profit taxes, minus a post-war refund of $1,065,765, was $11,564,832, against $3,198,687 in the March quarter of last year. The company manufactures Pratt and Whitney air cooled radial engines, Hamilton Standard propellers, and Vought-Sikorsky fighter planes.

ABBOTT LABORATORIES, North Chicago, reported that increased domestic and export business boosted first quarter profit and sent sales up 42 per cent over those for the first three months of 1943. The company, which manufactures blood plasma, anesthetics, sulpha drugs, and vitamins, attributed the increase largely to the war.

Earns 87 Cents a Share.

Net earnings were $685,367, equal to 87 cents a common share, compared with a revised figure of $524,249, or 65 cents a share in the first quarter last year.

AMERICAN RADIATOR AND STANDARD SANITARY CORPORATION, Pittsburgh, Pa., had a March quarter profit of $1,182,492, or 11 cents a common share, after provision of $2,710,000 for federal income and excess profits taxes, compared with $1,149,944, or 10 cents a share, after provision of $1,720,000 for taxes in the first quarter of last year. The company declared a dividend of 15 cents a common share, the same as was paid March 31.

Earns Most Since 1938.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA reported that its first quarter was the most profitable since 1938, despite a big increase in tax accruals and higher depreciation and depletion charges incident to new plants and expanded oil operations.

Net profit for the quarter was $6,410,246, equal to 49 cents a share, against $5,456,952, or 42 cents a share, a year earlier. Provisions for federal income taxes amounted to $3,800,000, compared with $2,750,000. A dividend of 45 cents a share was declared on the common stock. The preceding payment was 40 cents March 15.

Income Tax Receipts Below Estimates, Study Discloses

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Altho treasury spokesmen have repeatedly professed satisfaction over income tax collections, an analysis of the figures reported in the daily statement of the treasury shows that collections are running behind the budget estimates of last January.

As a result of the optimistic estimate made in the January budget it may be necessary for congress to provide new revenue in addition to that originally asked by the President.

Estimated at 17½ Billions.

Thru April 23 income tax collections by the treasury from individuals and corporations aggregated 11 billion 184 million dollars. The January budget estimated collections for the 1943 fiscal year, ending June 30 next, at 17 billion 571 millions. With less than 64 per cent of the estimated collections now in, it is predicted that the income tax receipts for the full year will fall 1 to 2 billion short of the amount anticipated in January.

The extent to which the treasury's error in calculation will require new revenue will not be known until later in the year. Expenditures for fiscal 1943 also may fall below the 80 billion dollars estimated in the budget. This would give an offset for the budget error on income tax receipts.

The treasury's failure to correctly estimate income tax receipts is partly explained by the increase in the number of taxpayers who went on a quarterly basis. In former years many taxpayers paid their full year's taxes in March. With the prospect of a shift in collection methods and the promise that part of the 1942 tax would be forgiven virtually all taxpayers this year paid only instalments in March. This resulted in shaving March collections but part of this will be made up during the remainder of the calendar year.

June quarter income tax collections of more than 6 billion dollars would be required to reach the budget estimate for the year. This is considered unattainable. March quarter collections were less than 5½ billion dollars.

Results in Confusion.

On March 29 Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau told his press conference that collections were running "considerably" above treasury and bureau of internal revenue expectations. He made no direct reference, however, to the January budget estimates. As a result a good deal of confusion has arisen over as to the exact situation.

In the 1942 fiscal year collections ran considerably closer to the budget estimates. Thru April 23, 1942, the treasury had received 71 per cent of the total income taxes forecast in the budget as compared with the 64 per cent collected thru the same period in this fiscal year.

EASTERN AIR LINES OBSERVES ITS 15TH ANNIVERSARY TODAY

Eastern Air Lines, Inc., one of the major domestic air transport services and whose president is Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, famous World war aviator, will mark its 15th birthday today.

Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker.

The company's original air mail route was inaugurated May 1, 1928, by Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., when 10 Mailwing biplanes went into service over a 792 mile route. The small planes, which carried mail only, were powered with a single 200 horse power motor and cruised at 90 miles an hour.

Today the company is licensed to operate more than 5,400 miles of air routes. Capt. Rickenbacker said in his recent annual report that because of the war some of the company's planes were sold to the government with the result that on June 1, 1942, the company operated only 20 planes in commercial services.

LACK OF RECAP TERMED BARRIER TO SAVING TIRES

Many automobile tires that could be recapped and kept in service if recapping plants could get more reclaimed rubber [camelback] are being worn to destruction, intensifying the nation's tire crisis, several Chicago plants said yesterday.

Some of the recappers said they cannot get more than a third of the camelback they need. A few said they are barely managing to hang on, with small amounts of material dribbling in from day to day. Camelback is allotted to tire recappers in amounts based on the number of molds in the plant. This material assigned for use on civilian tires is made from scrap rubber, mostly old tires, of which there are vast amounts piled up in many parts of the country.

"For some reason the government does not appear to be letting the reclaiming plants supply us with enough camelback to permit us to save all the tires that need repairing," Harry Meyerson, a sales official of Best Tire company, said.

One source estimated that the recapping industry nationally is permitted to use about 26,000 tons of camelback a month, and said at least 75,000 tons are needed.

ILLEGAL MEAT SALE PERSISTS, SAYS INSTITUTE

Urgent Army Need for Beef Told.

Illegal markets continue to siphon large quantities of meat from normal channels of trade, the American Meat institute, Chicago, reported yesterday in conjunction with an announcement that beef is needed urgently for the army. The institute said that the meat industry had been requested to offer for army use the largest possible quantities of beef from current production.

The institute, which is the packers' trade organization, said that the extent of illegal market operations is indicated by the decline in the number of cattle dressed under federal inspection in April, compared with the number in March and a year ago.

Beef Animals Increase.

The reduced marketings thru regular channels have developed in the face of a sharp rise in beef animal production, it was asserted. Cattle dressed under federal inspection last month totaled approximately 800,000 head, compared with 923,000 in March and 956,000 in April, 1942, for respective declines of 13 and 16 per cent, the institute said.

In the case of calves, described as "easy victims for black market operators," the estimated total last month was 375,000 head, compared with 410,000 in March and 502,000 a year ago, decreases of 9 and 25 per cent.

Basic Rules Repeated.

The number of hogs dressed in April showed a small increase over 1942, and sheep declined slightly, the institute said.

The trade association urged consumers to aid in stamping out black markets in meat by observing rigidly the two basic rules of buying no meat above posted ceiling prices and making no purchases without red ration stamps.

HOG PRICES RALLY

The downward swing of hog prices, which has been in progress with few interruptions for four weeks, was halted yesterday at the Chicago stock yards on smaller receipts. Prices were strong to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, with a large part of the supply changing hands 5 to 10 cents above Thursday's average.

Altho the top was unchanged at $14.75, the average price increased 10 cents to $14.65.

REPORT SUCCESS IN OFFICE USE OF TWILIGHT SHIFTS

Gains More Service from Limited Equipment.

"Twilight shifts" are becoming an increasingly familiar part of the American business scene as companies practice "doing more with less" in their mechanized office operations.

Since new typewriters and other office equipment have become war casualties, existing machinery must be put on a 12 hour or even longer working day to prevent office staffs of many corporations from being snowed under by accumulated work.

In outlining these problems yesterday before the third annual seminar of the Office Management Association of Chicago, James W. Rees, president, said multiple shift operations had proved successful here.

Use Machinery Longer.

Banks, insurance companies, governmental agencies newly shifted to Chicago, and other organizations that use mechanical equipment to handle their large volume of office work are extending the working hours of their machinery. The government agencies are said to be especially hard pressed for equipment, and some of them have shifts of operators working all night.

Rees, who is personnel director of the Pure Oil company, told the 700 seminar delegates:

"Higher pay offered by the new war plants and government agencies has caused serious inroads in the office staffs of many companies. Many cannot, short of bankruptcy, compete against a manufacturer operating on a cost plus basis.

Women Get Better Jobs.

"Companies that have accentuated their employé training programs and have made employment as attractive as possible have fared best.

"Upgrading of women to more responsible positions in business must inevitably accompany the shift of men into military service. Systematic wage schedules avoid misunderstandings, but the employé should be made aware of the boss' problems, too."

Other personnel directors advised government caution in extension of the 48 hour week, observing that the national average in war industries already is close to that figure. They asserted a longer week would not produce beneficial results in many types of plants or offices.

The seminar, which began Thursday, was held in coöperation with Northwestern university in Thorne hall on the Chicago campus.

Deficit Turned to Profit by Pennsylvania Road

The Pennsylvania railroad reported yesterday its first quarter net income was $6,899,643, in contrast with a deficit of $457,311 a year ago. M. W. Clement, president, estimated gross revenues for the period from April 1 to April 23 increased to $61,764,000, a gain of 15.1 per cent from the corresponding period last year.

EXTEND MEXICAN ROADS AND RAILS TO TIE AMERICAS

stooping required. They are assigned to different work elsewhere.

The trains, aboard which the men are served their meals, are routed thru two principal gateways. Those bound for California go via El Paso and those for more central destinations pass thru Laredo. These trains roll night and day, then shuttle back for another regiment of workers.

Meanwhile, Mexico is speeding to completion its overland communications with Central America. On May 5, President Avila Camacho will formally open the 340 mile motor highway connecting Mexico, D. F., with Oaxaca. This is an important link in the 15,000 mile Pan-American highway system and when it is in service there will remain only a 600 mile gap on Mexican soil— that between Oaxaca and the Guatemalan border. Within this gap one 150 mile stretch is already built.

Rapid Progress Made.

Mexico's northern section of the Pan-American highway extends from here to Laredo, Tex. Rapid progress also is being made on this country's second great national highway, from here to El Paso, Tex., a distance of 1,376 miles. It will give Mexican interior states access to the markets of West Texas and California. Four million pesos [about $2,000,000] has been set aside to continue the project, of which 200 miles has been completed.

Other basic links in the national highway system which are being pushed are the 328 mile trunk highway from the capital to Tuxpen on the Gulf of Mexico and the 341 mile road from here to Poza Rica, by way of Nautla. Completion of these will relieve the hard worked railroads of some of their burden and free rolling stock for use on the north-south international rail lines.

GRAINS MOSTLY LOWER; WHEAT QUOTA IS LIFTED

Imports Must Be Used for Live Stock Feed.

Scattered liquidation developed in the grain markets yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, but price declines were held to fractions. Wheat futures closed at losses of ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel. Corn held at ceiling prices, and oats were ⅜ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Rye was unchanged to ⅛ cent higher at the close.

Part of the weakness in wheat was attributed to a presidential proclamation which permits the importation of Canadian and Australian wheat into this country by government agencies regardless of the quota system which has limited imports in recent years. The grain, however, must be used for feed purposes, especially in the east and on the Pacific coast.

Lack Storage Facilities.

Brokers asserted there is no scarcity of cash wheat in this country and that there is a prospective carry-over of 550 to 650 million bushels at the end of the current year. Shortage of storage facilities in both Canada and Australia has been attracting attention for several months, and it is believed shipments to this country would help make room for the new crops.

Winnipeg wheat futures closed 1¼ to 1⅜ cents higher on prospects of large quantities of wheat being disposed of for feed in the United States. Latest reports indicated that Canada will have a carry-over of more than 700 million bushels of wheat and large amounts of oats and barley at the end of the current crop year.

The commodity credit corporation was reported to have taken title to large amounts of domestic wheat on defaulted government loans which matured at midnight last night and that more than 160 million bushels of grain were obtained.

Little Corn Is Available.

The credit agency revealed it was not inclined to sell cash corn in volume to essential users, and brokers said that about the only corn available for sale was held at Albany, N. Y., Philadelphia, and Baltimore. Supplies at Buffalo were said to have been sold for shipment. The government agency also was reported selling moderate amounts of grain stored in bins in the country, but sales are restricted to farmers.

LIBBY, McNEILL.

I will appreciate an up to date report on Libby, McNeill & Libby.

Libby, McNeill & Libby is one of the largest packers of foodstuffs. Principal products are Hawaiian pineapple, California fruits and vegetables, Alaska salmon, fruit and vegetable juices, evaporated and condensed milk, canned meats, pickles and condiments, and baby foods.

Forty-eight plants are operated in the United States, Alaska, and Hawaii, two in Canada, and one in England. In peace times the company does a world wide business.

"What a dummy I was!"

I used to think I was making an impression as a real cook by baking bread. I never admitted to my husband and friends how many failures I had or how much all this extra work really cost...to say nothing about the expense. I am really ashamed to think of that dry, tough, tasteless bread! But I finally woke up!"
"Now I'm working on the Volunteer Motor Corps and at the Red Cross. Of course I have little time for baking and that's a real break for my family. You see, I discovered good Butter-Nut Bread. I didn't know how delicious bread could be until I tasted Butter-Nut."
"A friend told me Butter-Nut Bread has been a favorite for 44 years. When my family tried it, they said 'Stay with Butter-Nut. We want a bread that has flavor and a rich, creamy texture.' Then I knew I was a dummy to have ever tried to bake bread."
RICH AS BUTTER-SWEET AS A NUT!
When a certain loaf of bread is the choice in a million homes—you know the flavor must be right. That's the answer to Butter-Nut's popularity—it tastes the way most people like bread to taste when plain, toasted or in sandwiches. Now, of course, Butter-Nut Bread is enriched with important B-Vitamins and Iron. Look for it in the gleaming white wrapper, specially sealed to keep the bread fresh longer!
